NRA RULE GOES TO RICHBERG

NATION'S BANK LEADERS ASSAIL MONEY 'TINKERS'

Fight Inflation; Urge Stable Currency.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Declaring that "no real or permanent recovery" can be hoped for until the national administration ceases tinkering with the currency and restores the American dollar to a fixed gold basis, the federal advisory council, composed of leading bankers of the nation, yesterday demanded a return to sound economic and monetary principles.

WALTER LICHTENSTEIN. [Steffens Photo.]

The council's statement was contained in a set of recommendations for the federal reserve system. Prepared at a meeting in Washington on Sept. 18, but not made public at that time, the report was given out yesterday by Dr. Walter Lichtenstein, secretary of the advisory council and vice president of the First National Bank of Chicago. The council instructed Dr. Lichtenstein to send copies of the statement to the federal reserve board, the federal reserve banks and to each member bank of the federal reserve system.

Most Severe Criticism to Date.

The report contains the most severe criticism of New Deal monetary and economic policies made by any group of leading bankers since the inauguration of President Roosevelt. It follows closely on the heels of similar criticism by the United States Chamber of Commerce, the National Manufacturers' association and the group of leading industrialists who met recently at Montauk, Long Island.

The federal advisory council is a statutory body created by the federal reserve act to advise the federal reserve board concerning technical banking matters and general business conditions. It is composed of one prominent banker from each of the twelve federal reserve districts, plus a secretary.

Walter W. Smith, president of the First National bank of St. Louis, is president of the council, having been elected early this year to succeed the late Melvin A. Traylor of Chicago. Solomon A. Smith, president of the Northern Trust company, is the Chicago member. Howard A. Loeb, representing the Philadelphia reserve district, is vice president. The other members and the districts they represent are: Thomas M. Steele, Boston; Walter E. Frew, New York; H. C. McEldowney, Cleveland; Howard Bruce, Richmond; H. Lane Young, Atlanta; Theodore Wold, Minneapolis; W. T. Kemper, Kansas City; Joseph H. Frost, Dallas, and M. A. Arnold, San Francisco.

Represent "Best Banking Brains."

The theory back of the creation of this advisory group was that the federal reserve board, members of which are frequently men of limited banking and financial experience, should have the benefit of advice from the best banking brains in the country.

Once before—on Nov. 21, 1933—the council spoke in criticism of New Deal economic policies, but the tone of that report was exceedingly mild compared with the blast released last night. In the new statement the bankers refer to their earlier statement.

"The council expresses the view," says the current statement, "that in the light of events during the ten months which have elapsed since the date of that meeting certain economic principles have been demonstrated as fundamental and unchangeable, and that our true course lies in frank recognition of these principles and conformity with them.

"Further monetary experimentation holds out no promise of success, and the repetition of expedients which have repeatedly failed in this and other countries can only lead to disaster."

Summary of Criticisms.

The council therefore records its criticisms, which are as follows:

"1. That no real or permanent recovery can be had or can be reasonably hoped for until the country has been placed upon a sound financial basis, and that such sound basis necessarily implies a standard gold dollar of definitely and permanently fixed gold content, with other forms of currency redeemable at all times in gold bullion in the amount so fixed. The council believes that joint or similar action by other important commercial nations is highly important and that such inter-

President Changes Entire Setup.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt tonight announced the first two steps in the "evolutionary" reorganization of the NRA, the effects of which were to deliver that organization bodily into the hands of the extreme radicals of the New Deal.

Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, who helped to write the national industrial recovery act and was its autocratic administrator during the first fifteen months of its existence, resigned two days ago in a storm of controversy with the left wing radicals of the brain trust, headed by Donald R. Richberg, radical ex-labor lawyer of Chicago, and Frances Perkins, secretary of labor.

With Johnson out of the way, the radicals are in complete charge, for the policy making board, which will determine NRA's relations to industry and labor and shape the course of the codes, is headed by Richberg.

Radicals His Chief Aids.

No less radical are the other members, who are:

Harold L. Ickes, radical secretary of the interior and public works administrator.

Frances Perkins, radical secretary of labor.

Harry L. Hopkins, radical federal emergency relief administrator, who believes that the "cash benefit," or dole, must become a permanent institution.

Chester Davis, radical administrator of the agricultural adjustment act, a member of the agricultural brain trust headed by Secretary Henry A. Wallace and Undersecretary Rexford Guy Tugwell.

A sixth member yet to be designated, the chairman of the new administrative, or executive, board of NRA.

Five on Administrative Board.

The administrative affairs of the recovery organization were placed in the hands of a board of five, with two ex-officio members who also will serve as legal and economic advisers. The members, all of whom have previously been identified with NRA, are:

S. Clay Williams, head of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company, industrial member of the old national labor board and more recently chairman of Secretary of Commerce Roper's advisory and planning council.

Arthur D. Whiteside, president Dun & Bradstreet, one of the four division administrators of NRA under Johnson, in charge of formulating several codes, including retail trade.

Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, active member of the NRA labor advisory board from its inception and an important figure in all labor disputes.

Leon C. Marshall, former national labor board member and labor specialist associated for years with the Brookings institution. From 1907 to 1928 he was connected with the University of Chicago. His last post there was as chairman of the department of political economy from 1918 to 1928.

Walton H. Hamilton, Yale professor of constitutional law, former president of Brookings institution, actively identified with the NRA consumers' advisory board and chairman of Johnson's advisory council.

Blackwell Smith, assistant NRA general counsel under Richberg, who is on leave of absence as general counsel. Smith will be legal adviser and ex-officio member of the board.

Leon Henderson, chief of the NRA division of research and planning under Johnson, economic adviser and ex-officio member of the board.

Represent Three Groups.

The five members of the new administrative board represent NRA's three advisory groups for industry, labor, and consumers, two having been selected for industry, two for labor, and one for the consumer.

The President's executive order creating the executive branch, which is to be known as the national industrial recovery board, said nothing about the powers of the legal and economic advisers except that they would be ex-officio members. It was assumed that they would have votes, but Stephen Early, White House secretary, said they would not. Mr. Early was somewhat uncertain on this as well as other reorganization matters, however, so the question of voting remained doubtful.

Early stated, upon releasing the Prisoner Held for Extortion; Bail $100,000

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Pictures on Back Page.)

New York, Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Tension in the Lindbergh kidnaping inquiry increased tonight as the police and government agents worked at fever heat to track down a number of clews believed to lead toward the arrest of an accomplice or accomplices of Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

Hauptmann was held in $100,000 bail today after he had pleaded not guilty to an indictment charging him with extortion of $50,000 ransom from Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

The aviator, disguised in black horn rimmed glasses and with a gray cap pulled down over his forehead, today studied at close range and in silence the face of the man accused of kidnaping and extorting ransom for the return of his infant son. He made no comment after this examination and eluded questioners.

Disappearance Furnishes Clew.

The strange disappearance of John Maurer, described as a "close friend" of Hauptmann's, was reported to police late today by Mrs. Catherine Maurer, his wife. Maurer has been missing from home since last Wednesday, when Hauptmann was arrested, she revealed.

"The whole thing is very strange to me," she hysterically told the authorities. "My husband and Hauptmann were very close to one another. I don't know whether there was any connection between their acquaintanceship and his disappearance. There was no reason for him to leave home."

Detectives hinted that they were aware of Maurer's disappearance and had been looking for him. Reports grew more frequent that arrests of other persons involved in the kidnaping are near.

Among those questioned today was Anita Lutzenberg, a good looking brunette, with whom Hauptmann frolicked on the ocean beaches in the summer of 1932, when Mrs. Anna Hauptmann, his wife, was in Europe. Her testimony, so far as could be learned, shed no light on the kidnaping or ransom.

Find Shoe Under Floor.

Buried two feet under the floor of the Hauptmann garage, a heelless shoe of moccasin type was found today. Police then disclosed that they had found its mate in the home several days ago. The find was considered significant, because the footprint at the foot of the ladder used in the kidnaping had apparently been made by a man wearing a moccasin or shoe bound in cloth. The shoe found today will be matched with the footprint.

Hauptmann did not know that he was being inspected by Col. Lindbergh today.

The German ex-convict lounged in a chair in the office of District Attorney Samuel Foley. His gray suit was rumpled, his shirt soiled. There was a two days' growth of beard on his face. He gazed idly at a group of more than twenty detectives who sat in chairs facing him.

Makes Unswerving Study.

In the front row of that group, not five feet away, there was the still figure of a tall, slender man who stared steadily through dark glasses at the alien. The firm line of his lips did not change as he maintained that unswerving regard throughout the twenty minutes that Hauptmann remained in the room.

Even the amazing stolidity of the prisoner must have been disturbed by that gaze if he had known he was confronted by Lindbergh. But in eight days of captivity Hauptmann has become used to stares. His eyes passed over the assemblage, then centered upon his clasped hands held

EX-PRESIDENT GRAU FLEES FROM CUBA BY PLANE

HAVANA, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Former President Ramon Grau San Martin fled from Cuba tonight to escape violence at the hands of political opponents. Grau and seven members of his family departed on a Pan-American airplane for Miami.

After he had gone the executive committee of his political party, the "authenticos," issued a statement saying the committee had urged him to leave the country at once because it had received reports he was in personal danger.

As Grau left the country the Cuban army was busy rounding up numerous leaders of his political party. Several arrests had been made tonight after bills had been posted throughout the city calling for an end of the "military jurisdiction." The poster bore the signature of the authenticos.

In Miami for "His Health."

Miami, Fla., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Dr. Ramon Grau San Martin, who held the reins of government in Cuba for six months last fall and spring, came to Miami by airplane today "for my health." He said that the length of his residence in the United States depends entirely upon the political pulse of Cuba.

ALFONSO LEAPS IN SPANISH FRAY; FIGHTS RADICALS

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

MADRID, Sept. 27.—For the first time since his flight from Spain without abdicating three years ago, former King Alfonso has intervened indirectly in Spanish politics.

Persistent reports of a revolutionary plot to enable the Socialists and allied left extremists to set up a proletarian dictatorship has prompted Alfonso to urge those who hope to restore him to the throne "to fight as I would myself in order to rid our country of the menace to its life."

The former king, in a letter to Antonio Gorcoechea, leader of the Monarchist deputies in the cortes, which was published today, wrote:

"I appeal to all Spaniards who will hear my voice, which is inspired by sincere patriotism, to fight in this hour of need, as I myself am prepared to do if necessary, in order to free our country from all danger of destruction. Spain's life is our supreme good and dearer to us than any other privileges on earth."

While the capital buzzed excitedly about the letter, one man was killed tonight in a riot precipitated by a band of left extremists who refused to obey orders of police.

Passengers See Meteor Burst Close to Plane

Oakland Cal., Sept. 27.—(AP)—A big air liner and a dazzling meteor flashed through the skies dangerously close to each other east of here early this morning, giving the thirteen persons in the plane a lifetime thrill.

So close did the meteor come to the plane that Arche Anderson, copilot, who was at the controls, swerved the ship in what he thought would be an effort to dodge.

Flash Startles Passengers.

Some of the passengers saw the blinding light and shouted. Anderson suddenly realized it would do no good to attempt dodging a body moving so rapidly, so he flipped the plane back to its course.

The meteor exploded apparently only a few hundred yards ahead of the plane. The transcontinental air liner, westbound from Reno, continued on to Oakland unscathed.

Anderson said the plane was 7,000 feet up when he saw a dazzling light heading toward the craft.

Tells of Trying to Dodge.

"For a split second," he said, "I was puzzled. Then I realized it must be a meteor.

"Automatically I started to swerve the plane, then realized it would be of no use to try to dodge anything coming so fast, so I put the plane back on the course."

Jack O'Brien, the pilot, was in the cabin. He said he felt the ship swerve and dived into the pilot's compartment just in time to see the meteor explode.

Believes Plane Is Falling.

Lavon Mase, a truck driver who saw the explosion and heard the roar of the aircraft's engines, telephoned police a plane had fallen in flames. Informed later what had happened, Mase said:

"If that was a meteor it was the biggest one I ever saw. It lit up the whole sky. I thought surely it was an airplane falling in flames because I heard the motors."

J. McManana of Elko, Nev., a passenger, said:

"We were all puzzled when the ship went into a sudden bank, but none of the passengers showed fear."

Chicagoans as Passengers.

In addition to the pilots and McManana, the plane contained William Scott and Mr. and Mrs. A. Biehl of Chicago, John P. Hunter, also of Chicago; Dorothy Taylor of Elko, and W. F. Dresler and J. R. Dirsch of Reno, and Miss Lucile Gillett, stewardess.

Prof. W. F. Myer of the astronomy department of the University of California said the meteor apparently was one that had disintegrated when falling into the earth's atmosphere.

The astronomer explained that meteors disintegrate and burst into flame when their speed presses them vigorously through the air. Coming into contact with oxygen they become incandescent. The chemical process reduces them and they land on the earth in fragments, some large, some small.

MURDERER ASKS 3 BULLETS IN HIS HEAD, 3 IN HEART

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WETASKIWIN, Alta., Sept. 27.—Convicted of murder, Julius Kassai, 30, banged on the dock rail in rage here today, and, glaring defiantly at the judge, demanded to be shot.

"Six policemen you should order to me," Kassai declared in his broken English, "and I should be shot with three bullets in my head and three in my heart."

Justice Boyle, however, refused to accede to the prisoner's demand. He sentenced Kassai to be hanged at the Fort Saskatchewan jail. This proved satisfactory.

"Thank you very much," the prisoner said.

65 BUS STRIKERS SEIZED FOR QUIZ AFTER 2 DEATHS

Slayer Names Boss; Grand Jury Acts.

Chicago and Cook county authorities moved vigorously yesterday in an attempt to halt the violence that has accompanied the strike against the Chicago Motor Coach company.

This activity was at least temporarily successful, as no disorders similar to those of Wednesday, which brought on two deaths, had been reported late last night.

The Day's Developments.

Among the developments of the day were these:

1. The arrest of 65 members of the striking union, local 1022 of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employés. They were seized in their headquarters at Car Men's hall, Ashland avenue and Van Buren street, for questioning in connection with the violence that has been almost constant since the small portion of the bus company employés who are Amalgamated members went on strike six weeks ago. All were released last night.

2. A disclosure that Alex Semple, alias Jones, 39 years old, 4747 Patterson avenue, had named the man who hired him [for a $10 fee] to beat and shoot James Kelly, bus dispatcher, who was fatally wounded Wednesday.

3. A verdict by a coroner's jury that the death Wednesday night of Mrs. Mary Kennard, 65 years old, of the Hyde Park hotel, was due to heart disease. The fact that Mrs. Kennard had been struck on the head by a metal ball hurled into a bus two hours before her death was ignored in the verdict and her friends protested this omission.

4. A report that the grand jury had voted true bills charging malicious mischief against three strikers alleged to have broken the windows of a poolroom owned by a working bus driver.

5. The perfection of new arrangements to increase the efficiency of the 750 policemen assigned to strike duty. Capt. Ira McDowell, chief of the uniformed force, called a conference on this matter for today.

Seize 65 in Union Raid.

Squads led by Lieut. Thomas Kelly of the state's attorney's staff took the union members, who had gathered at headquarters to collect their strike benefits. Among the unionists were four officials, Lewis Patton, Leighton Luttrell, Francis Buckingham, and Earl Hynes.

Three assistant state's attorneys took statements from the men and the 65 were viewed by Semple and the two men who helped him in his attack on Kelly. They are Edward Crandall, 1914 North Spaulding avenue, and John Bretschneider, 5204 Bloomingdale road. It was indicated that nothing of importance had been learned by the questioners.

Pair Tell of Vandalism.

Earlier in the day Semple and Crandall waived immunity and testified before the grand jury as to their part in the killing of Kelly and concerning other acts of vandalism in which they participated, but Bretschneider refused to testify. He and Semple, records showed, had been arrested before for slugging a working driver. The grand jury is expected to act in the matter today.

Police squads early today were said to be close on the trail of the man named by Semple as the one who hired him to waylay and beat Kelly.

The true bills were reported voted against three strikers, Carl Olson, 30 years old, 6321 Henderson street, who was wounded by police when they captured him Wednesday morning, and Henry Gher and Samuel Orsini, both 28 years old. The three were arrested after they had smashed the window of a poolroom owned by Carl Schueller, a working bus driver, at 5427 Addison street.

Reorganize Police Guard.

Capt. McDowell, who is in charge of the police assigned to guard the buses, declared that he was unable to assign a guard to each bus for full duty. He pointed out that the force, because of the trouble, has had no vacations for two weeks, but he said he would try to arrange a better method of guarding them.

The verdict of the coroner's jury which found that Mrs. Kennard, the victim of the steel ball bearing hurled into a bus, died of "natural causes" brought an immediate complaint from Dr. Edward Oliver, the Hyde Park hotel physician who treated her injuries at the hotel, which was her home. Friends of the dead woman added their complaints to the verdict.

Medical testimony to the effect that Mrs. Kennard had been the victim of chronic heart disease was given by Dr. Chester C. Guy, coroner's physician. He was asked if the ball bearing which struck her had anything to do with her death.

"No," he replied, "I wouldn't care to say that it had any effect on her condition whatever."

Although he attended the inquest, Dr. Oliver was not called upon for a statement. After the verdict he told reporters:

"I think the ball bearing brought on the heart attack which caused her death."

Asked why he had not asked the hotel physician to testify, Deputy Coroner Chris J. McGarigle said he had received a written statement from Dr. Oliver in which the death was certified as from natural causes. Dr. Oliver denied having made such a statement.

Friends Puzzled by Verdict.

Mrs. Lester B. Denman, 5483 Iowa street, a close friend of the dead woman, asserted that "it seems odd that it can be considered a natural death when a person is hit on the head and dies a couple of hours later."

"I'm just a disinterested party in this affair," explained Deputy McGarigle, "and I have nothing to do with the verdict of the jury."

Coroner Frank Walsh, in commenting on the verdict, said he had every confidence in Dr. Guy and that he was personally satisfied Mrs. Kennard died of heart disease. He admitted he did not know why Dr. Oliver had not been called, but said he was willing to reopen the inquest if further evidence of importance should be offered.

No clew as to the identity of those who hurled the ball bearing into the bus on which Mrs. Kennard was riding was obtained from the testimony. Edward Rabin, 816 East 44th street, who was grazed by the missil, said he caught a glimpse of the sedan from which it was shot, but was unable to see the faces of the men within.

Kelly Inquest Continued.

An inquest into the death of Kelly brought only one witness to the stand before it was ordered continued to permit further investigation. The witness was Mrs. Angela Kelly, 48 years old, widow of the dead bus dispatcher and the mother of his two children. She gave details of her husband's life and testified he had worked for the bus company for 15 years.

Here's Day by Day Story of Violence in Bus Strike

Following is a day by day chronicle of the violence in the strike against the Chicago Motor Coach company since it was called last Aug. 16 by local 1022 of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway, and Motor Coach Employés of America:

Aug. 17—Harold Fagan, 34 years old, 4526 Winthrop avenue, passenger on a Ravenswood bus, was the first victim of violence in the strike. He was struck in the face by two ball bearings thrown through the bus window. That evening a mob stormed several buses at Jackson boulevard and Kostner avenue, bombarding them with stones and vegetables. Arthur Zoller, 3642 North Sacramento avenue, and Mrs. Lona Smith, colored, 5842 South Park way, bus passengers, were struck by stones. Several bus drivers were bruised by stones.

Aug. 18—Mrs. Rosalind Barnes, 4941 West Van Buren street; her husband, Olaf, 53 years old, and Margaret Burleigh, 40, a Fair visitor, were cut by glass when bus windows were hit by stones.

Aug. 19—Buses were stoned throughout the city. Two alleged brick tossers were captured by the police after one was shot and slightly wounded. He is Fred Baumgarten, 24 years old, 2725 New England avenue.

Aug. 20—Mrs. Essie McCray, 37 years old, 644 East 69th street, passenger on a south side bus, was cut on her hands by glass from a window shattered by a brick.

Aug. 22—Four men arrested for annoying south side bus drivers.

Aug. 23—Gunmen shattered windows in home of Herman Herbrand, 37 years old, 6210 Henderson street, a striker.

Aug. 24—A woman passenger on a Diversey avenue bus was slightly injured by flying glass from a window shattered by a stone.

Aug. 25—A woman passenger was cut slightly by glass from a shattered window. William Canter, 2036 Bissell street, bus driver, was slugged by two men who were captured by police. They are Albert Jones, 3742 North Cicero avenue, and John Snyder, 5204 Bloomingdale road.

Aug. 26—Mrs. Elsie Marschak, 33 years old, 144 North Long avenue, incurred an elbow fracture when a brick was thrown at bus. Howard McCarthy, 29 years old, 1811 North Austin boulevard, bus driver, was cut by glass from windshield broken by brick.

Aug. 27—Two women and two children passengers on a Washington boulevard bus were cut by flying glass. Thomas Barrett, 31 years old, 4324 Monroe street, was captured by police as alleged brick thrower and charged with malicious mischief.

Aug. 28—Guy Proctor, colored, 1331 Larrabee street, incurred a skull fracture when hit by a brick thrown at a bus window. Two buses were fired on, one at South Shore drive and Cheltenham place, and the other at Hyde Park boulevard and Woodlawn avenue.

Aug. 30—Bus set afire.

Aug. 31—Mrs. Gabriele Epstein, 5442 Hyde Park boulevard, wife of Judge Benjamin P. Epstein, was struck on the neck by a stone thrown at a bus.

Sept. 1—Policeman Jack Fayer of the Fillmore station was cut on the face by flying glass from a bus window shattered by a ball bearing. Two men were arrested.

Sept. 8—Policeman Fred N. Hermann of Maxwell street station was cut by glass from a bus window.

Sept. 21—Miss Catherine Sullivan, 22 years old, 2106 West 18th street; Mrs. Mary Buehman, 22, of 3101 Douglas boulevard; Mrs. Odell Cory, 30, of 1518 South St. Louis avenue; her son, Richard, 7 months old; Miss Mary Sullivan, 24 years old, 2239 Washburne avenue, and Mrs. Sonya Zolotar, 28, of 3856 West 16th street, were injured when vandals tossed a stench bomb into a Jackson boulevard bus. The bus later was stolen and set afire.

Sept. 22—Mrs. Harriet E. Baker was struck on the head by brick thrown at bus in Lincoln park.

Sept. 26—Mrs. Mary Kennard, 65 years old, Hyde Park hotel, 1511 Hyde Park boulevard, died after a ball bearing broke a bus window and struck her. James Kelly, 49 years old, 5031 Maypole avenue, bus dispatcher, was killed by four men who slugged and shot him. Three were captured and confessed slugging Kelly. Harlan Farrar, 48 years old, 317 North Taylor avenue, Oak Park, was injured by a "scare bomb" placed on a bus. Miss Edith Light, 37 years old, 11 South La Salle street, suffered a broken nose when hit by a brick thrown through a bus window. Carl Olson, 30 years old, 6321 Henderson street, striker, was shot three times by police after he threw a brick through a window of a poolroom owned by a working bus driver.

750 WEST PARK EMPLOYES GET A MONTH'S SALARY

The 750 employés of the west parks yesterday received $100,000 in 1933 tax warrants and $9,000 in cash as their first pay since Aug. 15. The pay was for the last two weeks in April and the first two weeks in May. The Chicago park district board several weeks ago authorized the west park board to utilize available 1933 warrants for the payment of current debts and salaries.

Continuing the effort to avoid delays in payment of salaries to county employés, County Treasurer Nash announced yesterday that employés would be paid Monday for the first half of September. The pay roll, which totals approximately $450,000, was obtained through tax collections. A further distribution of $279,065 in 1931 and 1932 tax collections was made yesterday by the treasurer's office to the taxing bodies in New Trier township and other country townships.

13 ARE ARRESTED IN ANTI-FASCIST DEMONSTRATION

Eleven men and two women claiming allegiance to the American League Against War and Fascism were arrested last night after they staged a demonstration in front of International House of the University of Chicago at 59th street and Dorchester avenue, where 300 Italian honor students sent by their government to this country on a "good will" tour are quartered.

At the same time members of the league were meeting at Hotel Sherman for a banquet in honor of guests and delegates to a convention sponsored by the league.

Speakers at the banquet were Gen. Victor Yakhontoff, former czarist army leader, and Dr. Kurt Rosenfeld, minister of justice in Prussia prior to the Nazi régime. The opening meeting of the convention is to be held tonight in the Coliseum.

WORKERS VOTE FOR CO. UNION AT KOHLER PLANT

Sheboygan, Wis., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Employés of the strike bound Kohler company today voted to have the Kohler Workers' association, a company union, represent them in collective bargaining under the NRA.

The company union polled 1,063 votes, compared to 643 for the American Federation of Labor union, No. 18545, in the election here under the sponsorship of the national labor relations board.

When the ballots were totaled late tonight the strikers' executive committee announced it would protest the result to the national labor board.

Committeemen said the protest would be submitted on the ground that 225 employés laid off in August of 1933 were refused ballots and that 185 were challenged by the Kohler Workers' association for participating in rioting in the strike which started at the plumbing equipment manufacturing plant near here July 16.

SHIRT FACTORIES CLOSE MONDAY; 25,000 TO BE OUT

New York, Sept. 27.—[Special.]—While denying that the action was to be interpreted as a protest against President Roosevelt's recent executive order raising wages 10 per cent and reducing the work week to 36 hours in the cotton garment industry, the National Association of Men's Shirt and Boys' Blouse Contractors announced today that its members would close their factories indefinitly on Monday

The decision to put the stoppage into effect was approved by the board of governors of the association, Jacob H. Steinberg, executive director of the association, declared.

Approximately 25,000 workers in about 100 factories in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, and Delaware will be affected.

Mr. Steinberg declared that prices were now so far below the cost of manufacture that factory owners cannot pay workers' wages. Factories will remain closed, he added, until prices regain a profitable level.

The order coincides with the date set for a strike of 50,000 workers in the cotton garment industry in this city and other parts of the country by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union.

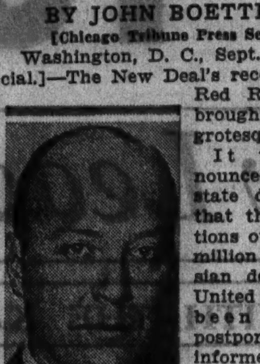
Wilmette Resident, 80, Killed on Rail Crossing

Peter D. Knight, 80 years old, 1509 Spencer avenue, Wilmette, was killed late yesterday afternoon when he was struck by a northbound passenger train on the Chicago and North Western crossing at Central avenue in the suburb. The gates were down, but Mr. Knight walked around them and stepped on the tracks, apparently failing to see or hear the train.

EFFORTS TO GET RUSSIA TO PAY APPEAR FAILURE

Negotiations Postponed; May Be Ended.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]



W. C. BULLITT.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The New Deal's recognition of Red Russia was brought today to grotesque failure.

It was announced at the state department that the negotiations over the 500 million dollar Russian debt to the United States had been indefinitly postponed, and in informed quarters it was learned there is grave doubt that they ever would be resumed.

Thus the flowery promises of communistic propagandists and the New Dealers, promises that recognition would soon see great cargoes of American goods flooding into Russia, wither into ashen words.

The sole fruits of recognition, it is now revealed, have been fresh hordes of soviet propagandists spreading strike propaganda and revolutionary doctrins abroad over America.

May Drop Embassy Plans.

So discouraged are state department officials, it was learned by The Tribune that they are contemplating complete abandonment of the ambitious plans for erecting a million dollar embassy in Moscow. The expensive staf of 63 attachés and employés serving under Ambassador William C. Bullitt in Moscow may be reduced to a skeleton force. Some observers were agast today to learn that the salaries alone of Mr. Bullitt and his staf run to $114,376 a year. Rental costs plus the cost of supplies and a staggering cable bill will bring the charge on American taxpayers to at least $200,000a year, it was declared.

The collapse of the debt negotiations came with an announcement by Alexander Antonovich, Troyanovsky soviet ambassador, after a visit to Secretary Hull, that he was returning to Moscow Oct. 3 for a series of conferences with Maxim Litvinov, soviet commissar for foreign affairs. Troyanovsky made it plain that the negotiations were at a complete standstill, and that the two governments were so far apart in attitudes that further conversations here would be quite hopeless.

Bullitt Going to Orient.

As further evidence of the pessimism of the administration it is pointed out that Ambassador Bullitt has been given leave to absent himself from Moscow for at least three months, during which he will travel in China and Japan, and come home to spend Christmas with his daughter Anne at Philadelphia.

There is no definite date set for Bullitt's return, but it is apparent that he will not participate in any discussions with Litvinov and Troyanovsky at Moscow. Bullitt, ardent friend of the soviets, is generally credited with having influenced Mr. Roosevelt to

FIRST AUTUMN COLD SNAP PASSES; FAIR AND WARMER TODAY

Chicago and a wide middle western area yesterday experienced the first sharp cold spell of the autumn. The mercury fell to 43 in the early morning, but there was a steady rise until 4 p. m., when the day's maximum of 61 was recorded.

Fair and warmer weather was forecast for today, with a probable top in the high sixties. Unsettled conditions in the Chicago area were forecast for tomorrow.

The cool snap was more pronounced west of the Mississippi than in local areas. Frost occurred from northern Minnesota south to northern Missouri. Coming shortly after heavy rains, the frost was regarded as beneficial to farming operations, in that it would aid in retaining moisture in the soil.

consent to the now discredited recognition of Russia.

In brief, the attitude of the soviets during the debt negotiations was that they would be very happy to pay the American loans if only the American government would lend them the money to pay the loans, and that they would be willing also to buy American products if the American government would lend them more millions with which to do the buying.

Secretary Hull Disgusted.

Secretary of State Hull, who in the beginning was cool though "open minded" to the recognizing of the soviets, has difficulty these days in disguising his true feelings concerning the debt negotiations. Publicly he says coldly that the parleys have gotten nowhere, and he is not encouraged. Privately, it is said, Mr. Hull has expressed himself in the stronger language of his Tennessee hills. He is known to be disgusted with the soviet maneuvers, and with the insincerity and trickery of the Red envoys.

The first offer of the soviets, it is known, was that they would pay the United States in the following manner: The United States would give the Russians a trade loan, and the Russians would agree to pay a rate of interest high enough to bring about a gradual repayment of the due loans.

This showed clearly the contempt in which the crafty Litvinov held American statesmen, but Mr. Hull in no uncertain terms let Ambassador Troyanovsky know that the proposal was out of all reason and one unconscionable to the United States.

Refuse to Pay Other Debts.

The reason for the extraordinary method devised by the soviets in their offer, that of paying higher interest on new loans instead of paying the debt as a plain debt, lies in the fact that the soviets have refused to honor similar debts owed to other nations, and they don't want to set precedent in the case of the United States which might be raised against them by other creditors.

The second offer of the soviets was that they would pay the American debt if the United States granted them a loan of the money, secured by Russian paper, and if in addition the United States agreed to make additional loans for Russian purchases of American goods. This proposal also met with a cold refusal from Mr. Hull, and since then there have been sporadic conversations, ending with today's failure.

Cost Would Be $1,165,000.

The plans for building a new American embassy at Moscow, which are now reported to be held in abeyance, pending a showdown as to whether the Russians intend to deal fairly and honestly with the United States, call for an expenditure of $1,165,000, an amount appropriated by the last congress for the purpose.

The buildings, under design by a New York architect, Harry T. Lindeberg, would provide offices and living quarters for Ambassador Bullitt and his entire American staf. A site was chosen above the Moscow river, overlooking the city and the Kremlin, and close by the "park of rest and culture." It was said the soviet government refused to sell the site to the United States, but was willing to enter into a long term lease.

At present the Bullitt entourage is housed comfortably in temporary quarters.

Bullitt has assembled an imposing staf, and since he had a dominant part in selecting its members, it is assumed that most of them are, like himself, favorable to the Russian form of government.

Annual Pay Roll $114,376.

The annual pay roll of the embassy, running now to a total of $114,376, is divided as follows:

American commissioned personnel....	$58,280
American clerks	39,880
Russian personnel	16,216

The pay roll does not include the pay of military attachés, nor of an army aviator assigned to Moscow to pilot a government airplane put at Ambassador Bullitt's disposal.

The commissioned officials and their titles are as follows:

William C. Bullitt, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary.

John C. Wiley, counselor.

Loy W. Henderson, second secretary.

George F. Kennan, third secretary.

Bertel E. Kuniholm, third secretary.

Maj. Philip R. Faymonville, military attaché.

Lieut. Thomas D. White, assistant military attaché and assistant military attaché for air.

Capt. David Rowan Nimmer, assistant naval attaché.

George C. Hanson, consul general.

Harold Shantz, consul.

A. Dana Hodgdon, consul.

Angus I. Ward, consul.

Charles E. Bohlen, Elbridge Durbrow, George C. Minor, Ellis A. Johnson, E. Lee Murray, Philip F. Cher, Aarne R. A. Kock, and Fred E. Waller, vice consuls.

In addition to these 20 commissioned officers, there are in the embassy staf 16 clerks, 7 translators, 1 telephone operator, 3 messengers, 5 doormen, 1 handyman, 1 janitor, 2 charwomen, 1 watchman, and 2 yardmen.

The total on the pay roll is 64.

GOSSIP MONGERS ARE DENOUNCED BY ROOSEVELT

Declares People Now Are Doing Own Thinking.

New York, Sept. 27.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt sternly took to task tonight "gossip mongers who invent tales, generally with a selfish objective."

The President, speaking from the White House by radio to the conference on current problems here, linked to rumors being set afloat "those who would create fear or encourage panic."

Expressing his conviction that "our people have both feet on the ground," the President said:

"We are learning to discriminate between news and rumor. As a people we put our tongues in our cheeks when a fact or a series of facts are distorted, no matter what motive is the cause of that distortion."

Cites Unfounded Rumor.

As an example "of daily instances which mar rather than help our efforts for calm discussion of current problems" the President cited a rumor which, he said, started in Wall street today, spread to Chicago, and came back to Washington for verification although it was wholly untrue.

"The rumor was the immediate retirement of three members of my cabinet—the secretary of agriculture and his under secretary, the secretary of labor and the secretary of the treasury," he said. "It even went to the extent of announcing the name of a new secretary of the treasury."

The President said the rumor was wholly untrue.

More than 3,000 clubwomen, including delegates from forty-eight states and several foreign countries, heard the President's address at the final session of the annual conference, under the auspices of the New York Herald-Tribune.

World Making Progress.

"I wish that I could have attended in person all of the sessions of the conference on current problems, because of the wide field of human endeavor which it has covered and because of the distinguished group of speakers to whom you have listened," the President said. "The world as a whole is making progress in meeting current problems because the world as a whole realizes that the problems are new and, as such must be met with new answers.

"If you were to ask me I would tell you frankly that the greatest achievement of the last two years in the United States has been the fact that the American people have taken and are taking a greater interest in and have acquired a better understanding of current problems affecting their welfare and the world's welfare than at any time, at least during the present generation. That is a very heartening thought to all of us who believe in the republican form of government as carried into effect by majority rule.

"In every walk of life in every part of the country it has become a normal and an interesting thing when two or more persons are gathered together for them to talk over methods of improving the economic and social lot of our citizenry.

People Doing Own Thinking.

"More and more people are doing their own thinking. The number of poll parrots in our midst is steadily declining—for which we must be very thankful. More and more men and women are looking up their own facts and forming their own opinions.

"We are learning to discriminate between news and rumor. As a people we put our tongues in our cheeks when a fact or a series of facts are distorted, no matter what motive is the cause of that distortion.

"We as a people are less inclined to believe those who would create fear or encourage panic. We as a people pay small attention to those gossip mongers who invent tales, generally with a selfish objective behind the tales.

"You and I as sensible Americans know of daily instances which mar rather than help our efforts for calm discussion of current problems. Just for example, I cite one which occurred this very day. A rumor which started in Wall street, spread to Chicago, and came back to Washington for verification. The rumor was the immediate retirement of three members of my cabinet—the secretary of agriculture and his undersecretary, the secretary of labor, and the secretary of the treasury. It even went to the extent of announcing the name of a new secretary of the treasury.

Keep Both Feet on Ground.

"The origin of the report comes from what is politely called 'an anonymous source.' I urge that every one of you consider and analyze the source and motive back of every report you read.

"Fortunately the overwhelming mass of the American people pay no more attention to this kind of rumor than I do. Today's story happens to be wholly untrue.

"It is with a very definite sense of gratification and thanks that I tell you of my conviction that our people have both feet on the ground; that they are increasingly interested in the truth and increasingly interested in arriving at sound conclusions regarding our national progress in meeting current problems.

"For that reason I am glad to have this opportunity of sending my greetings to a gathering of intelligent men and women, who know how to discriminate in making up their minds about the current problems of American life."

Breckinridge Also Speaker.

Col. Henry Breckinridge, independent candidate for United States senator, addressed the conference earlier in the evening.

"The mounting burdens of governmental debts now being run up will remain upon the doorstep of the youth of America to be paid by their toil or to be whittled down by inflation or to be repudiated," Col. Breckinridge said.

Col. Breckinridge urged upon the older generation the duty of "using every resource of our wit and ingenuity, every fiber of self-restraint and will power that we possess to hold within bearable limits the burdens we are creating for our children."

"The fight for security lies in the hands of youth," he declared. He pointed out that public opinion is in a state of flux and thought the earnestness and persistence in the present appearance of increasing numbers of young people in politics a healthy sign.

Vincent Massey, former Canadian minister to the United States, told the conference that the Canadian people would welcome arrangements for reciprocal trade with this country. He pointed out that trade over the Canadian-American border had shrunk from $1,368,000,000 in 1929 to $587,000,000 three years later.

Another speaker was President Stanley King of Amherst college who termed unemployment "to a substantial extent preventable" and urged unemployment reserves.

RUSSIA SWINGS TAX CLUB IN DRIVE TO WHIP FARMERS

Forces Socialization by Extracting More Money.

[Copyright; 1934: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, Sept. 27.—The soviet government moved today to force the last of the individual peasants into the collectivized agricultural system. After a summer in which moral suasion largely was used and efforts were made to coax the remaining individualists into collectives by helping groups of them with seed implements and expert advice, the government has now decided to use stronger measures. These measures will affect about one-third of the soviet union's entire peasant population of 5,000,000 households.

The soviet program calls for 100 per cent collectivization—that is, socialization—of agriculture by 1937. To speed the process under action taken today the full weight of the taxation power, which the soviet government frankly avows is one of its most effective means to regulate privileges enjoyed by various groups, will be brought to bear on individual peasants.

New Tax Added.

Today's decree establishes a new tax in money applicable to individual peasants alone and in addition to existing taxes in money and grain which is heavier for individual peasants than for members of collective farms. It follows a decree announced earlier this week designed to discourage the sale of products in private markets instead of to the state at fixed prices and specially directed against private sale.

The tax decree bears heaviest of all on the surviving Kulak [rich peasant] elements. It applies to all individual peasants both in villages and in the region of cities. Its principal provisions are as follows:

A tax of 15 to 25 rubles is imposed on individual farms having no working live stock and no income from private markets. [A ruble is nominally worth 50 cents.]

A tax of 30 to 50 rubles is imposed on such farms having a market income but no working live stock, and on farms having working live stock there is a tax of 50 to 125 rubles.

Kulaks Hit Hard.

Kulak farms must pay a tax equaling 200 per cent of the regular agricultural tax for 1934 in addition to such regular tax.

Farms which wilfully failed to fulfill sowing plans and grain deliveries to the state are taxed twice the normal amount for such farms.

Local authorities are empowered to increase the tax up to 50 per cent on farms in regions which have an unusually bountiful harvest.

Fifty per cent of the new tax must be paid by Nov. 15 and the entire tax by Dec. 15. Measures for compelling payment by delinquents are provided.

The fact that the object of the new tax is social rather than revenue raising is shown in the list of exemptions which includes farms run by "heroes of the soviet union," "heroes of the revolution," "heroes of labor," war and labor invalids, members of the Red army reserve men called for service with the colors this year, and families who have suffered from "Kulak vengeance."

Bucket Shop Selling Tactics Told by Phone Girl at Trial

High pressure salesmen for bucket shops look on their customers as "suckers" who afford them an easy living, according to the testimony given yesterday in Judge Walter La Buy's Criminal court, where seven men are on trial charged with conspiracy to swindle the public out of more than $1,000,000.

Miss Aileen Fisher, 2616 Hampden court, a former telephone operator for the alleged bucket shops, gave the jury which will decide the fate of the defendants an insight into the frenzied operations of such a place during a two or three week period while the "suckers" are being taken in preparatory to a quick cleanup by the high powered salesmen.

Charge Quick Cleanup.

The defendants on trial are Leonard Rollnick, alleged by the state to be head of the bucket shop syndicate; Ben Reuben, Ernest Wahl Simon, G. William Herbst, Albert Sherman, Barney Lavin, and P. J. Greene, called supersalesmen. Most of the group, including Rollnick, came from New York in 1931 and made quick cleanup of the "middle west suckers," the prosecution charges.

Miss Fisher's testimony, which was punctuated with the use of bucket shop terms, was directed mostly toward the salesmanship activities of Greene.

She also helped the prosecution in connecting Rollnick with the activities of Paul A. Luschuck & Co. and Matthews & Co., two legitimate concerns which the bucket shop operators took over as they were about to fail.

Miss Fisher said that four high powered salesmen were brought on from New York in August, 1931, to start a campaign of high pressure selling of Bahia Diamond Mine stock. Greene gave the men instructions and supervised sales, she testified.

A Lesson in Pronunciation.

"All these men needed to sell the stock was to know how to pronounce the name of it," she said. "Greene told them that the name was not 'Bahai,' but 'Bahia,' and they started to work. They were put into a special boiler room (telephone room) and went to work."

Miss Fisher told the jurors that for two weeks the four supersalesmen, augmented by Greene, worked from 9 o'clock in the morning until 10 o'clock at night on the long distance telephones. They averaged 250 to 300 calls a day and sometimes as high as 700 on Sundays. The latter day was always the big day, she said, because most of the prospects were caught at home.

Hints She Tried to Reform Him.

The witness testified to several conversations she had with Greene during this period of high pressure salesmanship. She did not say so, but apparently she was trying to reform him.

"I asked him [Greene] why he did not get out of this sort of business," testified Miss Fisher.

"He replied, 'All my life when I wanted any money I would call up some sucker in Podunk and get from $500 to $600. Why should I quit the business so long as there are suckers and telephones?'"

Miss Fisher then told of how she discussed the merits of a man named Ellis—one of the supersalesmen—with Greene. She said she told Greene that Ellis seemed to be the same kind of salesman as he.

Calls Ellis "Good Loader."

"Ellis is not a good opener [meaning a salesman able to convince a prospect to make his first purchase], but is a hell of a good loader," Greene said, according to Miss Fisher's testimony.

A loader, Assistant State's Attorney Robert Wright and Vernon Thompson explained to the jury, is a salesman who can unload bad stock on a "sucker" in exchange for good, reliable stock which was previously purchased.

Miss Fisher said she was also warned not ever to refer to Rollnick while at work by his proper name, but to call him Mr. Robbins or Mr. Shaffer.

The trial ended for the day with the defense fighting to exclude from evidence the testimony of Maj. Tate B. Collins of Fort Riley, Kas. He was one of the alleged victims. The defense contends that his testimony is not admissible because the indictment limits the charges to victims in Cook county. Judge La Buy will give a decision today.

ARMY CAPTAIN IN AIR SERVICE IS DISCHARGED

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Capt. Corley McDarment, veteran army officer and commander of the army air corps detachment in Pittsburgh for the last year, has been unofficially notified that he has been discharged from the service, effective Sept. 30.

The discharge comes as a sequel to a board of inquiry hearing in Baltimore last July when McDarment was haled before the board for criticizing the equipment used by the army in flying the air mail last winter.

While McDarment refused to comment, his friends attribute his discharge directly to his outspoken criticism of the army air mail service, criticism, they say, which was later justified by the series of deaths among army air mail pilots.

Capt. McDarment has been an army officer for the last 17 years, enlisting as a private and winning his commission during the world war. He was transferred to Pittsburgh from Langley field, Va., a year ago and had seen service in the Philippines.

RICHBERG NEW HEAD OF NRA; 4 RADICALS AIDS

President Picks Complete Reorganization.

executive orders, that President Roosevelt had expressed a hope that Col. George A. Lynch, NRA administrative officer and a great friend of Gen. Johnson, would be rewarded for his services in the new setup.

Should the new administrative board see fit to continue Col. Lynch as their administrative officer, it would be most satisfactory to the President, according to Secretary Early. It was made clear, however, that Col. Lynch would be subservient to, an employé of, the new executive board.

The executive board was empowered to elect, from its own membership, a chairman and an executive secretary. The chairman so elected will become the sixth member of the policy making board and as such will be the sole representative of the old Johnson régime on the new radical board appointed to formulate the future policies of NRA.

The complete plans for the reorganization of the recovery setup contemplate a third branch whose functions will be judicial in nature, including interpretations of the codes, disputes arising under section 7 [A] of the NIRA, the relations of the code authorities to the anti-trust laws, enforcement of the codes, and punishment of offenders.

Still Being Considered.

Early explained that the judicial branch is still under consideration. President Roosevelt, however, indicated at Hyde Park that the judicial duties probably would be assigned to a special department of the department of justice. This would carry out the President's announced intention of reorganizing the NRA along the lines of the normal government, with legislative, executive and judicial branches, each with its own personnel.

During the earlier discussions of the proposed NRA reorganization, the talk was "simplification." NRA had grown too big and cumbersome. It had, in fact, sprawled all over the vast Commerce building. The only simplification effected to date is the creation of two boards to take over the activities formerly dominated by Johnson. But the new boards, among other things, are empowered to further reorganize matters, such as consolidate codes and eliminate duplicating functions.

The recommendations of the new policy making board are subject to the will of the President, but under the terms of the executive order these recommendations must be submitted to the President by the director. Thus, Richberg will have the final voice before the President himself approves or disapproves the board's decisions.

Given Executive Power.

The board was further empowered to "promulgate administrative policies, to appoint, to employ, discharge, fix the compensation, define the duties, and direct the conduct of the personnel necessary for its administration, and to exercise all those powers heretofore conferred by executive orders upon the administrator for industrial recovery."

The reorganized industrial emergency committee, which has Ickes, Hopkins, Perkins, and Davis, in addition to Richberg, on its membership, is empowered to:

"(1) Make recommendations to the President, through its director, with respect to problems of relief, public works, labor disputes, and industrial recovery, together with allied problems of agricultural recovery.

"(2) Study and coördinate the handling of joint problems affecting these activities.

"(3) Determine, with the approval of the President, the general policies of the administration of the national industrial recovery act."

FACTORIES OFFER LABOR RELATIONS JOB TO JOHNSON

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, whose resignation Tuesday as national recovery administrator will take effect Oct. 15, has been offered the management of industrial and labor relations of "a large group of midwestern manufacturers," it was learned yesterday. The offer was wired to Gen. Johnson by H. H. Harrison, head of an employment agency here, who left the matter of salary open.

Mr. Harrison said the organization was composed of about eighty concerns, but declined to comment further. In Washington Gen. Johnson's office denied knowing anything specific about rumored business offers to the administrator. Johnson has not been in his office for some time, it was said.

3 BIG POWERS SIGN PACT TO PROTECT AUSTRIA

GENEVA, Sept. 27.—(AP)—France, Great Britain and Italy, three powerful friends of the little republic of Austria, today reaffirmed their intention to see that Austria's independence is maintained.

A joint declaration of policy issued as the result of long negotiations behind the scenes of the league of nations' assembly which ended today, read as follows:

"After having proceeded to a new examination of the situation in Austria, representatives of France, Great Britain and Italy have reached an accord in the name of their governments to recognize that the declaration of Feb. 17, 1934, concerning the necessity of maintaining the independence and integrity of Austria, in conformity with existing treaties, conserves all its force and will continue to inspire their common policy."

Foreign Minister Louis Barthou signed for France, Capt. Anthony Eden for Great Britain and Baron Pompeo Aloisi for Italy.

The little entente—Czechoslovakia, Rumania and Jugo-Slavia—decided to study the agreement and notify the other powers later in case it chooses to adhere, it was announced.

While the agreement falls short of the aspirations of Premier Mussolini of Italy, it nevertheless was regarded in Geneva as significant in that it indicated the increasing tendency of three of the league's major powers to collaborate.

As the 15th assembly of the league came to an end, its leaders pointed to the induction of Soviet Russia as its proudest accomplishment.

With Afghanistan, admitted at today's session, Russia helped offset the loss the league suffered when Germany and Japan withdrew, and the new blood infused into the organization moved President Richard Sandler, in his closing address, to say:

"The league reveals to us, in the aim it seeks to achieve, the grandeur and the loftiness of life."

Bandits Menace 23 Women; Take Shop's Dresses, Cash

Twenty women customers and three women employés were menaced last night by the guns of two bandits who invaded the dress shop of Hyman Cohen at 3441 West North avenue and escaped with $250 in cash, 200 dresses and about 50 coats. The bandits forced the customers to sit down on chairs, benches and on the floor, and ordered Cohen to open the cash drawer. He pleaded he had no key, and the cashier, Bessie Greenberg, then opened it.

COTTON FACTORY OWNERS TO TAKE BACK STRIKERS

Sloan Agrees After His Roosevelt Talk.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Return of peace to the recently strike ridden textile industry seemed further assured today. The cotton goods manufacturers announced they would coöperate with the national administration in its strike settlement plan.

The announcement came after an all day meeting of the cotton textile code authority, almost entirely comprised of manufacturers, and a conference between its chairman, George A. Sloan, and President Roosevelt.

Ready to Reëmploy Strikers.

Sloan, also head of the Cotton Textile institute, voiced an expectation that the cotton textile industry will be consulted before changes are made in its code. He said that industry was in accord with the President's recommendation that strikers be reëmployed without discrimination.

"It is the recommendation of the code authority that as work becomes available workers who did not engage in lawless violence shall be reëmployed," he said.

A statement Sloan made on behalf of the code authority expressed gratification that the Winant mediation board had sustained the position of the industry in reporting that working conditions have been much improved under the code and that "industry-wide collective bargaining with the United Textile Workers is not now feasible."

During the last few days the cotton manufacturers have declined to comment on the board's peace proposal, which union leaders claimed victory in the walkout, but charged discriminations on the part of mill owners against strikers.

Collects Mill Owners' Views.

Sloan explained that the silence was occasioned by the time required to ascertain the views of the many mill owners, on the Winant board's plan of settling the largest labor controversy that thus far has beset the Roosevelt administration.

The peace plan, which the President approved, provided for the appointment of a labor relations board for the textile entire industry, a second board to regulate the "stretch out" system of loom operation in the mills, and a full statistical study of wages, hours, and other economic phases.

The appointment last night of the industry-wide board permitted that group to go to work today by their use of the regional labor board's facilities. The board is comprised of James Mullenbach of Chicago, Chief Justice Walter P. Stacy of North Carolina, and Admiral Henry A. Wiley, retired. The board members, who also constitute the membership of the steel labor board, are all highly experienced in the arbitration of labor disputes. They promised immediate action on the discrimination complaints.

Board Meets Strike Leader.

The board conferred late this afternoon with Francis J. Gorman, leader of the strike and the first vice president of the United Textile Workers. He had ready a detailed statement of discrimination charges against numerous manufacturers in both the north and south sections of the textile field.

Gorman called on workers to have faith in the board and defer votes on the advisability of resuming the strike, because of discrimination, until the board had an opportunity to go to work and the textile workers saw what success it had.

"We repeat our confidence in the President's choice in the personnel of the new board," said Gorman. "We are compiling a list of victimized union members sent to us by local unions and we are again urging the locals to withhold any action looking to strike until we have an opportunity to adjust the cases of discrimination."

Rules on Representation.

The President's executive order naming the board also affirmed the decision of the national labor board that if a majority of the workers of any industry or unit of an industry vote for representation by a particular union, that union shall speak for all employés in collective bargaining. A contest of that point is now being waged in the courts.

The President said of majority rule: "The person, persons or organization certified as the choice of the majority of those voting shall be accepted, for the purpose of collective bargaining as the representative or representatives of the employés eligible to participate in the election without thereby denying to any individual or employé or group of employés the right to present grievances, to confer with their employers, or otherwise to associate themselves and act for mutual aid or protection."

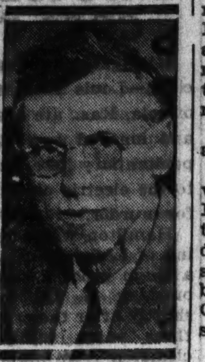
RARE RHINO GIFT IN PROSPECT FOR BROOKFIELD ZOO

Dryden Plans Expedition to Himalayas.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Announcement of a prospective gift, the rarest yet made to the Chicago Zoological gardens in Brookfield, consisting of a pair of Indian rhinos which at present are roaming about their native Himalaya mountains, was made yesterday by Herbert Bradley, chairman of the zoo's animal committee. The animals will be given to the new zoo by George B. Dryden, president of the Dryden Rubber company.



HERBERT BRADLEY.

Mr. Bradley announced the proposed acquisition at a luncheon given by John T. McCutcheon, president of the Chicago Zoölogical society, in the Chicago club.

Only Five in Captivity.

There are only five known Indian rhinos in captivity, three of them in this country, St. Louis, New York, and Philadelphia each boasting one. If Mr. Dryden's plans for capturing the pair are successful, and they are brought on their long journey to the Brookfield zoo without mishap, Chicago will possess the only known pair in captivity, Mr. McCutcheon said.

The expedition, which will penetrate the Himalayas in the principality of Nepal, virtually the sole habitat of Indian rhinos today, probably will be made next summer.

Frank Buck, a guest at the luncheon, expects to be in India next summer and has agreed to aid Mr. Dryden in the expedition, which will be financed by the latter.

The home of the Indian rhino is in the northern edge of India not far from Mount Everest. The animal are extremely difficult to capture, Mr. McCutcheon indicated. Once they are established at the Brookfield zoo, probably in an outdoor barless cage simulating their native locale, they probably will be quite happy, he said.

Unlike African Rhino.

"We hope to get a male and female," Mr. McCutcheon said. "The Indian rhino is most interesting and altogether different from the African rhino. The Indian has huge corrugations in its rough skin, which is armorlike in its hardness.

"The pair probably will be valued at $25,000 to $30,000."

Among the guests at the luncheon were Mr. Dryden, Mr. Buck, Mr. Bradley, John T. Pirie, member of the animal committee and a vice president of the society; John Wentworth, a vice president; Stanley Field, member of the executive committee, and Charles G. Dawes, a member of the society.

Purchase Mountain Lion.

The Chicago park district board has purchased a mountain lion and two wild boars for the Lincoln park zoo, J. Frank Lyman, secretary of the district, said yesterday.

The purchase was made from the Arizona exhibit in the Mexican village at the World's Fair. "We were offered a bargain, we had just completed a new mountain lion cage, and we had no wild boars," Lyman said.

Prisoner Is Held in Bond of $100,000.

before him. He assumed his customary expression of surliness.

A few questions were put to him and he answered in grunts. Finally, at a slight signal from the man with the dark glasses, he was led away.

A few minutes after this meeting Hauptmann was taken before County Judge Lester W. Patterson in the Bronx County court for arraignment on the extortion charge. After a brief hearing he was ordered held under bail of $100,000.

Pleads Not Guilty.

"The prosecutor feels that no bail should be set in this case," first declared District Attorney Foley.

"How does the defendant plead?" asked Judge Patterson.

"He pleads not guilty," spoke up Attorney James W. Fawcett for Hauptmann.

There was a continuous glare of flashlights during these proceedings.

"Bail is permissible in this type of crime," continued Attorney Fawcett. "The defendant has no previous criminal record in this country. We are able to raise $5,000 bail and in the name of justice I ask you to set bail at that amount."

"If there's going to be bail, let it be some substantial amount, say $100,000," said Prosecutor Foley.

"Very well," said the court, "let it be $100,000. I fix bail at that amount."

Fawcett's objections were overruled.

"We promise as speedy a trial of this case," replied Foley, "as will be consistent with the formulation of our evidence against the defendant."

Set No Trial Date.

Announcement had been made yesterday by the state that the court would be asked to fix the trial for two weeks from next Monday. But nothing was said today about the date of trial. Fawcett announced that he did not think he could be ready with a defense in two weeks.

Handcuffed and in the midst of a large group of guards, Hauptmann was hurried back to his cell in the Bronx county jail.

Col. Lindbergh's disguise today was one he has used often to avoid detection in public. For weeks after the kidnaping of his son in the spring of 1932 he wore the dark, heavy-rimmed glasses on the streets and in his car and pulled a cap down over his forehead.

Discussing developments in the case, District Attorney Foley flatly declared his belief that Hauptmann was the man who "went up the ladder" in the kidnaping. And from Trenton, N. J., came further reports from the vacillating authorities who have stated at one time that they would demand immediate extradition and an early trial, and again that a month's delay must intervene.

Indicates Murder Charge.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz of New Jersey indicated that Hauptmann would be tried there on a charge of first degree murder.

"Even if the child was killed accidentally, the law says it is first degree murder if death occurred during the commission of another crime," he declared. "I will never agree to permit Hauptmann to plead guilty and accept a sentence for second degree murder or some lesser crime."

He indicated his dissatisfaction with the lack of witnesses who could place Hauptmann in New Jersey the night of the kidnaping.

"I would rather have two or three witnesses who actually saw Hauptmann and could identify him than all the circumstantial evidence that has been turned in," he remarked.

There are three witnesses who have tentatively placed Hauptmann in Hopewell, N. J., on March 1, 1932, the day of the night of the kidnaping, but their identifications have been made from photographs and they have not viewed the prisoner.

More Arrests Forecast.

One person is reported to be under suspicion in Germany where Detective Arthur Johnson of the New York police department is now working. Another is reported aboard the steamship Columbus of the North German Lloyd line, although the passenger may be wanted for some other crime than the Lindbergh kidnaping, according to intimations from the investigators.

Hauptmann shows a complete indifference to public opinion, according to his jail guards. He had not read a newspaper since his arrest and says he does not care to read one. He was not even sufficiently interested to inquire if the papers printed his protest of innocence issued early this week.

Constant booing by other inmates of the Bronx county jail is preventing Hauptmann from getting hardly any sleep, attendants disclosed tonight.

LIBERTY LEAGUE FOR ECONOMIC FREEDOM, SHOUSE TELLS BORAH

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Jouett Shouse today assured Senator Borah, independent Idaho Republican, that the American Liberty League, Inc., advocates economic freedom as well as safeguarding of constitutional rights.

Borah, in a speech, said the league should include "economic freedom" in its program. Today Shouse, league president, said in a telegram to Borah:

"I note you suggest that the league include 'economic freedom' in its platform and I agree that if this principle were not already a basic part of our program then, most certainly, it should be added.

"The league's articles of incorporation include the declaration that it 'will teach the duty of government to encourage and protect individual and group initiative and enterprise, to foster the right to work, earn, save, and acquire property, and to preserve the ownership and lawful use of property when acquired.'

"Furthermore, a declaration of principles adopted and made public by the league's executive committee on Sept. 7, included the following paragraph:

"'To us as a group and to the league as it will be presently unfolded in our intensive campaign of education, human rights and property rights are inseparable. . . .'

"The league advocates economic freedom."

SEEK MASKED HUNCHBACK

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—(AP)—A search for "a stoop shouldered man" as an accomplice to the ransom taker in the Lindbergh kidnaping case tonight occupied justice department agents.

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh was reported in reliable quarters to have furnished federal operatives this fresh description of the handkerchief masked man who walked by his automobile on the night of April 2, while Dr. J. F. Condon, was preparing to hand over the $50,000 ransom.

J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the division of investigation, declined to amplify today his statement that additional arrests were expected. The disposition at the justice department apparently was to remain as quiet as possible on developments in the case. Reliable quarters, however, confirmed that new descriptive data had been received from Lindbergh.

The masked hunchback is understood to have walked within an arm's length of Dr. Condon as he talked with Col. Lindbergh who was seated in an automobile a few moments before the ransom was paid.

After walking by "Jafsie" he back tracked and Jafsie is said to have followed him for a short distance.

Grauman's Chinese Theater Enters Bankruptcy on Coast

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Grauman's Chinese theater, Hollywood boulevard show place and the scene of many of the film capital's much publicized premières, went into bankruptcy today. Federal Judge Paul J. McCormick granted Joseph M. Schenck permission to reorganize and continue its operation.

LADDER CENTER OF CLEW STUDY IN JERSEY TODAY

Hope for New Links in Hauptmann Tools.

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 27.—(AP)—The ladder used by the kidnaper of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr. will hold the attention of New Jersey authorities tomorrow as they endeavor to strengthen their admittedly "circumstantial" case against Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the state police, said today that Arthur Koehler of the Forest Products laboratory, Madison, Wis., would examine the ladder and tools and lumber from Hauptmann's garage and house.

Koehler, through peculiar markings, traced the wood used in construction of the ladder as coming from a Bronx lumberyard—a place where authorities said Hauptmann had worked at odd jobs.

Hope for Clews in Tools.

Tools, the authorities pointed out, had peculiarities—a nick in a chisel here, a tooth out of line in a saw there, a hammer head worn off at a certain angle—and they hoped that the expert on woods would be able to determine whether the German carpenter's tools were used in making the ladder.

The wood taken from the garage and the house as police carpenters tore them to pieces was to be matched against that in the lumber.

Schwarzkopf announced that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who faced Hauptmann this morning in New York, had told him he would make no suggestions nor interfere in any way with the New Jersey officers.

This came as the result of a question as to the truth of reports that the flyer had asked New Jersey authorities to "call off" prosecution and permit New York to proceed with the extortion trial.

Finds New York "in Error."

Schwarzkopf said an earlier statement by New York officers that they had information that Hauptmann had worked near Hopewell, where the Lindbergh's home is located, was "in error." He said it was a case of unfamiliarity with the geography of the state, the New York officers thinking that Jackson's mills, near Lakewood, was in the vicinity of Hopewell. The two places are approximately 50 miles apart.

Schwarzkopf was asked if Col. Lindbergh had ever discussed with him, as reported, the alleged puzzling behavior of Jafsie in not telling police everything.

"I wouldn't tell you if he had," was Schwarzkopf's answer.

The possibility that the hole in the murdered Lindbergh baby's skull might have been caused by a bullet prompted the question whether investigators, digging in the dirt underneath the nursery window, had found any bullet.

"No, nothing of that kind has been found," Schwarzkopf said.

No Hurry to Extradite.

The authorities have no expectation of moving for extradition of Hauptmann this week, Attorney General David T. Wilentz said after a conference with Schwarzkopf and Gov. A. Harry Moore.

Wilentz said he felt that the offenses—the kidnaping and slaying—were committed in Hunterdon county which would mean that trial on either charge would be at Flemington. The child's body was found in Mercer county, while the Lindbergh estate is in Hunterdon.

Asked whether there was any connection between Violet Sharpe, the maid who committed suicide in the home of Mrs. Dwight Morrow, and the Hauptmann arrest, Schwarzkopf said, "none has developed yet."

He said he knew nothing of a search by Prosecutor Jonas Tumen of Monmouth for a "fake preacher" in connection with the Lindbergh case, and expressed belief it had nothing to do with the case.

FAMOUS DETECTIVE TO AID LINDY QUIZ IN GERMAN CITIES

BERLIN, Sept. 27.—(AP)—German police headquarters today assured Detective Arthur Johnson of New York that he would receive the closest coöperation from German authorities. He is investigating the antecedents of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, indicted in New York for extortion in connection with the kidnaping of Baby Lindbergh.

Police headquarters advised him to proceed to Dresden and there make contact with the state criminal investigation department which will put secret service men at his disposal.

Pending developments in New York, Johnson's investigations will cover Kamenz, Hauptmann's home town, Bautzen, where Hauptmann was once convicted of robbery, and Leipzig, where Isadore Fisch, Hauptmann's friend, died in March.

Johnson arrived this morning. The brawny American detective, who came here from Madrid where he was working on another case, made no contact with American authorities in Berlin.

One of Germany's most famous detectives, Otto Trettin, chief of the Berlin detective bureau, assigned himself to assist Detective Johnson.

He left his desk to place himself at the New Yorker's disposal in ferreting out facts.

ADMITS SLAYING 8 YEAR OLD GIRL IN SOUTH BEND

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 28 (Friday).—(AP)—Detective Lieutenant Granville Heckle announced early today that a man listed in police records here as Marvin Day, alias Marvin O'Day, had made a statement that he killed eight year old Marverine Appel in South Bend, Ind., in August, 1930.

The man booked as O'Day was taken into custody here Tuesday night after Jefferson City police had informed Memphis and South Bend officers that he allegedly remarked at a Jefferson City transient camp that he was wanted in South Bend in connection with the killing of a little girl.

The officer said he asked the 20 year old youth if he would "tell the truth."

"Yes, sir; my mother wrote me and I got the letter at a transient bureau in Jefferson City, Mo.," Lieut. Heckle quoted the suspect. "She told me to always tell the truth."

Lieut. Heckle quoted O'Day further: "I met that little girl in Howard park in South Bend. She was swinging and I asked her if I could push her. She agreed and we talked for a few minutes. She agreed to accompany me into an alley," O'Day was quoted further.

Heckle said O'Day said he left the girl in the alley, but went back [as Heckle quoted him] "I was scared that she might tell on me."

O'Day is quoted as saying that he then knocked the girl down with his fist, tied a baling wire around her neck, and took her body to a nearby barn and "put her on some hay."

Heckle said O'Day stated that he did not know the name of the girl.

The officer said O'Day said he went immediately to his home at 901 Eckman street, South Bend, and went to bed.

HOW BABY DIED BRINGS WRANGLE AMONG OFFICIALS

Police "Discover" New Cause for Hole in Skull.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The question of whether Baby Charles Lindbergh died as a result of being dropped from the kidnap ladder or met death from some other and still unexplained cause stirred friction today among New Jersey officials.

Maj. Charles H. Schoeffel, deputy superintendent of the state police, has stated that a stick was accidentally thrust through the baby's skull while the body was being removed, thereby accounting for the hole that most investigators have considered the cause of death.

Dr. Charles H. Mitchell, Mercer county physician who conducted the autopsy on the body, said today that no stick could have punctured the skull in the manner described by Maj. Schoeffel.

Says He Got No Report.

Furthermore, he declared he had received no report of such an accident from the police.

But an hour or two later Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, Schoeffel's superior, insisted that Dr. Mitchell had been informed of the incident when he began the autopsy and had remarked that that would account for the hole behind the baby's left ear.

Recalling the autopsy, Dr. Mitchell explained:

"Upon removal of the scalp I found a marked fracture of the left parietal and occipital bones. The fracture had no exit wound and extended from the fontanelle across the left side of the head, back of the left ear, and then divided, a break going forward and one backward on the skull.

Hole on Other Side.

"There was also a suspicious opening at a point one inch posterior to the right ear. The hole, the only one in the skull, was somewhat rounded and resembled a bullet wound. I couldn't find a bullet. The bullet easily could have been lost, however, in transportation of the body."

Dr. Mitchell also believed a board with a nail in it could have been the lethal weapon.

"Violence caused the child's death, whether through intent or by a fall," he concluded. "The fracture was absolutely responsible for the baby's death and the child was dead before it was placed in the grave."

INDIANA SLAYER EATS ICE CREAM, GOES TO CHAIR

Michigan City, Ind., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Louis Hamilton, 49 years old, of Iola, Kas., ate a quart of ice cream and smoked two cigars in the state penitentiary here tonight, then walked to the electric chair and was executed for murder.

Hamilton was convicted of the slaying of Lafayette A. Jackson, owner of a chain grocery store in Indianapolis, on May 27, 1931. He was arrested shortly after the crime and for the last three years vainly had sought for clemency from higher courts and from Gov. Paul V. McNutt.

Hamilton was the second man to pay with his life for the slaying of the grocer. A companion in crime, Charles Vernon Witt of Bainbridge, Ind., was executed on Nov. 24, 1933.

Texas Bad Man Electrocuted.

Huntsville, Tex., Sept. 28 [Friday].—(AP)—Ed [Perchmouth] Stanton, 45 year old west Texas bad man, was electrocuted at the state prison here early today for the slaying of Sherif J. C. Moseley of Tulia in a gun fight in January, 1933.

"I'm not afraid to ride that fiery chair," he drawled. "I'm not guilty of killing that sherif."

RESIGNS CICERO SCHOOL POST; HITS 'POLITICS'

The resignation of Emil J. Kramethauer, 5639 Cermak road, Cicero, as a member of the Cicero board of education was accepted at a meeting of the board last night. Kramethauer submitted his resignation two weeks ago in a letter which charged "political prejudice" was a controling factor in the negotiations of the board.

Kramethauer was elected in April, 1933, on a nonpartisan ticket and was to serve three years.

Rob Two Girls and Escort Leaving Party at Church

Two young girls and their man escort were robbed of $63 cash and a wrist watch by three bandits who halted them as they were leaving a social function at the Ravenswood Methodist Community house, 4511 North Hermitage avenue, last night. The victims were Carl Nickelsen, 4501 Dover street; Alma Christensen, 4516 North Hermitage avenue, and Margaret Richmond, 4437 North Hermitage avenue. Nickelsen was robbed of $7 and Miss Christensen surrendered a wrist watch and a purse containing $56.

When your Taste is Jaded—

"Try This Grand New, Better Ale!"

ALL over America, people are delighted with Blue Ribbon Genuine Ale* and its truer, improved-ale flavor. Why? Because our scientists have developed an amazing ale-brewing formula that's superior to anything ever before created from an ale-yeast culture!

Skeptical? We hope you are! That's all Blue Ribbon Genuine Ale asks for—a chance to demonstrate its extra deliciousness, its fuller, richer, mellower flavor. You be the judge. Compare it with any ale and you'll find that it has that most satisfying something—that combination of "bouquet" and "body" and "pick-up" you've always hoped for! Try Blue Ribbon Genuine Ale today.

* WHAT ALE IS: Ale and beer differ in formula, process, character, and strength, ale being stronger. The most important process difference is in the yeast and kind of fermentation.

Requiring different yeast and different treatment the making of ale and beer should be carefully separated. So-called ales, made in the same fermenting and storage rooms with beer, are usually neither true ale nor true beer, but "crossbreeds."

Made in a plant built for that purpose, Blue Ribbon is Genuine Ale—no half way product, no crossbreed—real ale with the tang, bouquet, vigor, that ale should have.

There's a Brand New Grand New Taste in Town!

KISSES OF KINGS AND QUEENS END OLD BALKAN FEUD

Bulgaria Gives Jugo-Slav Sovereigns Big Welcome

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 27.—(AP)—An ancient Balkan rivalry ended today in royal kisses and embraces.

Symbolic of the new found friendship between their countries, kings and queens of Jugo-Slavia and Bulgaria met here for the first time in the history of the two lands and exchanged typically warm Slav greetings.

King Alexander and Queen Marie of Jugo-Slavia, arriving to visit King Boris and Queen Joanna of Bulgaria, were showered with welcoming acclamations as they entered the country of their hosts.

Affectionate Meeting.

At the royal palace Boris greeted Alexander with repeated kisses and embraces, while the two queens showed equal affection.

Bulgarians hoped the royal conclave, sealing the new understanding between the nations, would result in removal of the ban that prevents Bulgarian newspapers from entering Jugo-Slavia.

They also hoped that the knotty Macedonian minorities question would be settled, and that an amnesty would be issued for Macedonians living in Bulgaria charged with crimes in Jugo-Slavia.

Despite the enthusiasm of the populace, Bulgarian authorities took no chances on harm befalling their royal visitors. A pilot locomotive preceded the royal train into Sofia to assure that the track was clear of dynamite or other obstructions. All known and dangerous Macedonian revolutionaries were sent to the interior.

Enjoy Veritable Triumph.

From the moment they stepped from the royal train the Jugo-Slavian king and queen were greeted by the cheering populace. Not since Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany visited Sofia during the world war has the country witnessed such scenes of festivity.

Saluting, smiling, and bowing to the dense masses of Bulgarian spectators, Alexander and Marie enjoyed a veritable triumph as they moved in an open automobile down the main streets of the capital, which were emblazoned with lithographs of the royal couple.

On triumphal arches and evergreen bowers were mingled the colors and royal coats of arms of Bulgaria and Jugo-Slavia.

Boris Host at Banquet.

King Boris played host tonight at a huge banquet attended by all high personages in the church and state. Another banquet will be staged tomorrow night.

It is expected that Bulgaria, as a result of Alexander's influence, may eventually join the Balkan pact, provided a compromise can be reached regarding retrocession to Bulgaria of Dobrudja province. This district, 9,000 square miles in area, was taken over by Rumania under the treaty of Neuilly in 1919.

DOCTOR JAILED IN GIRL'S DEATH SUFFERS STROKE

Dr. James L. Miller, 62 years old, former city health officer of North Chicago, suffered a stroke yesterday afternoon in the Lake county jail, where he is being held on a charge of murder by abortion. His attorney, A. V. Smith, announced he expected to furnish bonds of $15,000, set by Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady, and obtain Dr. Miller's release today. The physician was arrested at his home, 1525 North Jackson street, Waukegan, on Tuesday. He is accused of causing the death of Frances Koskey, 24 years old, by an illegal operation.

DUCE TAKES OVER JOB OF MAKING ITALIAN SOLDIERS

Creates Militaristic Body to Supervise Work.

ROME, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini gave proof of the seriousness of his intention to make Italy a militaristic nation by taking charge tonight of activities to that end, and creating a new government department to supervise the work.

The new department will be known as the inspectorate of "pre and post" military training, and will be charged with the responsibility of making soldiers of all male Italians between the ages of eigh. and 33.

The inspectorate will serve as a coordinating link between the army, navy, and air ministries, all headed by Il Duce personally, and the ministry of education and Fascist military bodies.

Chief Inspector Chosen.

Gen. Francesco Grazioli, known for his success in pacifying rebel tribesmen of Libya, will be chief inspector of the new department under Mussolini's personal supervision.

The department will have headquarters at Viminal palace and will begin functioning Mondy. It will be inaugurated officially by the premier Oct. 29, a day after the 12th anniversary of the Fascist march on Rome.

Premier Mussolini, at the official opening, is expected to make an important address in which it is believed he will outline the reason which induced him to regard disarmament "utopian" and brought him to the decision that the time is ripe to make Italy a "warrior nation" or a "new Sparta" as it has been called in some quarters.

Another Militaristic Step.

The creation of the inspectorate carries a step farther the cabinet decree of Sept. 18 instituting compulsory military service beginning at the age of eight and lasting half the span of the average life.

The decree provided that Italian boys eight or more years old receive pre-military training in the Fascist Balilla and the Avanguardisti organizations and schools. At 21 they are to start a period of service in the regular army, and for a decade after dismissal from the regular service they will be obliged to report on Sundays, holidays and during fixed encampment periods each year for post military training.

The new department will see that all institutions playing a part in the new military scheme work together smoothly.

TWO GANGSTERS SLAIN ON FRENCH EXPRESS TRAIN

PARIS, Sept. 27. — (AP) — Two "strange men" who boarded the train at Nice are sought for questioning in the mysterious shooting today of two gangsters linked by police to the Mariani graft case.

A porter on the Vintemille-Paris express discovered the bodies in a first class sleeping compartment. The men were identified as Rene Beltamine, an Italian, and Jean Alibert, a Frenchman.

The porter said they boarded the train at the Nice station and apparently went to the apartment occupied by Alibert. They jumped to the platform as the train started. Police found a vial of white powder under the compartment berth. It was sent to a laboratory for analysis, as police suspected the men may have been drugged then shot to death.

Investigators still were uncertain whether the case is one of murder and suicide or a double execution by agents of gangdom, but the victims were wanted for questioning in the Mariani case.

A police graft ring at Lille was uncovered Monday with the arrest of Police Inspector Mariani, who was alleged to have worked with gangsters who terrorized small shopkeepers.

The investigation leading to the arrest uncovered complaints of blackmail, narcotic trafic, white slaving, and counterfeiting, and threatened kidnaping.

GOV. FERGUSON WILL CALL EXTRA SESSION ON DAMS

To Try Again for O. K. on Power Projects.

Austin, Tex., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson has disclosed that the legislature which failed to provide for more than fifty million dollars of development of the water and hydro-electric power resources of the Colorado and Brazos rivers will be reconvened by her in October to deliberate these and several other measures. She named these two and a bill to remit interest and penalties on delinquent taxes so as to revive thousands of federal home loans, as the leading subjects which caused her to decide to reconvene the legislature.

GOV. "MA" FERGUSON.

She has approved a law issuing six million dollars in state relief bonds, but indicated it must be patched up to avert losing matching federal aid, and to increase the combined available amounts to $5,500,000 per month to carry relief work through the winter.

Estimated at Hundred Million.

Gov. Ferguson and her husband adviser, James E. Ferguson, announced from the executive office that they consider the public works construction and improvements to be made possible in the new session, through setting up the Colorado river authority and the Brazos river power and conservation projects, and the home development program, at not less than one hundred million dollars.

They announced the Texas Centennial commission, which is seeking a five million dollars appropriation for a giant exposition in 1936, will depend for its success upon favorable action in the legislature in creating the Colorado and Brazos power project. This will enlist powerful centennial support for the measures.

Gov. Ferguson said the date of the new session is indefinite, but it is intended to have the 30 day session over by the general election date, Nov. 6. The governor recommended to a session which ended this week the two hydro-electric power projects. But both were crushed to defeat in final days of the session. The Colorado river project, for which a $4,500,000 public works allotment already has been made, was given overwhelming votes in both branches of the legislature, but Representative Sarah T. Hughes of Dallas, house member, contrived to prevent reporting the agreed bill to either branch for final concurrence on the night of adjournment, thus defeating the measure for that session.

Buchanan to Continue Work.

Congressman J. P. Buchanan, chairman of the appropriations committee of congress, representative of the Austin district in which the Buchanan or Hamilton dam project is located, will come back to the new session to urge favorable action to permit the public authority to receive the government loan.

The Brazos project provides for remission of $6,000,000 state taxes over a two year period to 10 counties in the Brazos watershed, this money to be used partially to secure government loans which Congressman Buchanan favors, aggregating $50,000,000 for the construction of 12 major irrigation and power dams on the Brazos and its tributaries.

The Brazos district governmental agency already has been created while the legislature yet is to create that to take over and complete the half finished Hamilton dam on the Colorado river.

A series of five more smaller dams on the Colorado below Hamilton will have the support of the congressman after the first has been completed, Mr. Buchanan has announced, and the construction will be authorized by the pending public authority bill.

Dickinson Charges New Deal Seeks to Control All Land

Rock Island, Ill., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Land rental under the New Deal was declared to be the first step towards socialization of agriculture as in Russia, tonight by Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa.

As western chairman of the Republican senatorial committee, he addressed a Republican rally here on the subject "Dangers of Present Economic Trends."

"Recent political developments," said Senator Dickinson, "cannot fail to convince every one that there is a definite socialistic trend under the present administration. In the 'peaceful revolution,' socialist authorities say we must have a definite plan, including a program for the transfer of industry from private to public ownership.

Cites Tugwell Writings.

"In one of the new books, Undersecretary Tugwell said: 'Complete economic planning is possible only when there is public ownership and control of the means of production.'

"It always has been found that the effect of Socialism rests heaviest on two classes of our people—the farmer and the working man.

"Land regimentation is one of the requirements of this socialistic scheme. We have started in with land rentals. The next step will be the purchase, under one excuse and another, of marginal lands.

"The last step, as is now being carried out in Russia, will be to take over all of the land. That is the ideal of socialization."

Doing Less for More Pay.

"The philosophy of doing less and receiving more," Senator Dickinson continued, "means less profit, less industrial activity, higher prices, and less consumption. In the end, it means depleted industries, workmen unemployed, capital idle, and increased breadlines.

"The NRA has not put the people back to work, but has retarted recovery. The NRA has increased uncertainty. The NRA, as a remedy for economic ills, was tried out in New Zealand, but under it there business was stalemated, unemployment increased and economically the country collapsed.

"It is claimed that the NRA has eliminated child labor. One million two hundred thousand children were taken out of the factories and put in the schools under state laws before any one ever heard of the NRA and under it only 15,000 have been granted that privilege.

Adopts Economy of Scarcity.

"This administration is committed to the economy of scarcity. It means that we must reduce our production in order to get more for what we produce. The result of this is to put the price of our products out of reach of the ordinary consumer. Naturally, we like to see the price of oranges high when we are a producer of oranges, but if we are a consumer of oranges and the price is too high, we just do not eat oranges for breakfast and will take home-grown applesauce.

"When a farmer receives pay for not plowing what he ought to plow, or for not planting what he ought to plant, if he continues in such a program, he will become a government dependent.

"In northern Iowa every farmer would receive five times as much return if his land was planted into corn rather than rented to the government. If we had the five million little pigs to eat up the corn that is now being produced in northern Iowa it would return to the farmers of Iowa five times the amount of benefit checks they are receiving under the corn-hog contracts.

Hopes for End of New Deal.

"My only hope of tomorrow is a return to American fundamentals. Under the system of private initiative, we had prosperity. Our country increased its wealth; home building advanced; employment was available to all classes of labor.

"Men should be permitted to buy land and operate it in their own interest. Men should be permitted to build buildings and rent them for private profit. A man should be permitted to expend his investments.

"The abuses that took place under the old system can be curbed. Reservations can be written into the laws of the land. Let us not destroy the system before reform can be attempted."

SEN. VANDENBERG CALLS TREASURY 'CAMPAIGN FUND'

Assails New Deal Press Agents on Pay Roll.

Flint, Mich., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Republicans now girding for the "most important election since the civil war" are confronted by an opposition "with the greatest campaign chest in all political history—the treasury of the United States," delegates to the Republican state convention here were told today by United States Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg.

Hits Publicity Men.

"In addition to that great campaign chest we confront an opposition which has the greatest army of press agents ever hired at public expense," Senator Vandenberg said, "and which adroitly covers up its greater errors by well managed emphasis upon the lesser achievements with which it is rightly credited and which it would be absurd to deny."

Speaking of the depression, the senator declared that the battle is less favorable with America than with most foreign countries "who have played less bravely with patent medicines."

Many New Problems.

"We create more problems than we solve," he declared. "There are now more unemployed than ever.

"Private business must resume; there is no other way. But it cannot resume and it cannot create jobs for workers nor get consumers for farm products in the face of handicaps I have sketched. It cannot resume in the face of persistent threats of government competition.

"Certainly it cannot make a long range plan so long as extraordinary and anti-constitutional powers permit any one man, even so great a man as the President of the United States, to decide for himself, whenever he pleases, what shall be our tarifs, what shall be the value of our money and what shall be the course and nature of our government activities."

"So, when I saw a big package of soap chips on sale at a bargain price, I took it. It looked as though it would last through a flock of wash days—but how that size fooled me! I had to toss in handful after handful of chips—and even then the few suds I got were just plain lazy. American Family used to float out the dirt—no hard rubbing at all—but it was a different story with those cheap soap chips!

"I always hate to throw anything away; so I used up the box—but how I wish I hadn't! My sheets and table-linens grew dingy and grey—my hands became rough and red—and it took me half the week to rest up from wash-day.

"But that's all over now. I'm back to American Family for good and all. It's the easiest, quickest, safest soap I know!"

I NEVER SAW WHITER LINENS IN MY WHOLE LIFE, ADA! IT SURELY PAYS TO USE AMERICAN FAMILY FLAKES!
DON'T I KNOW IT? WHAT'S MORE, I GOT THROUGH TWO HOURS EARLIER—AND NOT TIRED AT ALL! NO MORE BARGAIN CHIPS FOR ME!

If you're judging soap flakes by the size of the package—watch your step! Learn to measure soap by the amount and quality of the suds—before all your pretty things go faded and threadbare! Not only does American Family Flakes make more suds in this hard lake water—it makes finer suds, because of the extra measure of rich, pure soap it contains. That's why it is so gentle with cobwebby silks—and yet so efficient with grimy work-clothes! No wonder Chicago housewives buy more American Family than all other laundry soaps and flakes combined!

NEW YORK G. O. P. SPEEDS ATTACK UPON NEW DEAL

Robert Moses Favored for Governor.

ROBERT MOSES.

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—A challenge to the New Deal and to Roosevelt radicalism was voiced today by the New York state Republican convention. Those in control appear determined to nominate Robert Moses for governor and to fight out the compaign as an attack on the New Deal.

After two days of factional battling to oust W. Kingsland Macy as state chairman as well as to eliminate Samuel Seabury, whose candidacy for governor threatened to put an end to the old guard in state politics, the organization forces came back with a rush today.

Macy Issue Undecided.

Mr. Macy made no move to test any point in the temporary and permanent organization of the convention, and the platform committee began its hearings shortly after noon with Congressman John Taber assured of the chairmanship of the resolutions committee. There is a struggle coming, however, probably tomorrow, over displacing Macy and eliminating the Seabury boom for governor.

Clarence E. Hancock, representative from Onondaga, made the keynote speech, greeted with applause by the 1,505 delegates.

Attacks New Deal.

"It is time for sanity to assert itself before it is too late; time to say that national credit and government are not playthings for experimenters," Mr. Hancock said.

"Recovery is the all important question, and two steps are necessary. First, removing artificial barriers to normal business and employment, and, second, enactment of intelligent and practical measures to promote and protect business."

Giving the President credit for having acted courageously in the early days of his administration, Mr. Hancock charged that the federal administration then had started a deliberate campaign of propaganda and intimidation to break down all opposition and establish a one party rule which would be unbeatable.

Hopes to Arouse Public.

"The public mind, lulled to sleep by soft and disarming words, must be awakened and faced with the sinister facts," Mr. Hancock continued.

"The measures adopted by the administration and the words of the chief actors have caused a growing feeling of alarm; business is going backward and unemployment is increasing. The radio, the pulpit, the lecture platform, the signboard spread the false principles as we are threatened, cajoled, and assailed with propagating New Deal doctrines."

DIES OF HEART ATTACK.

Victim of a heart attack, William Baur, 77 years old, 127 South 19th avenue, Maywood, father of Richard Baur, Maywood trustee, was found dead in quarters above his cutlery store at 838 Jackson boulevard yesterday.

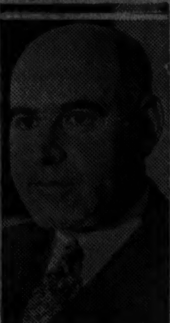
DEMOCRATS RENAME GOV. LEHMAN AND APPLAUD AL SMITH



GOV. LEHMAN.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Gov. Herbert H. Lehman and all the other present state officials were renominated today by the Democratic state convention.

Former Gov Alfred E. Smith placed the name of Mr. Lehman in nomination. Smith drew the greatest ovation of the convention. Introduced by Mayor John Boyd Thatcher of Albany, the permanent chairman, Mr. Smith stood up. The delegates arose en masse and cheered while the bands played.

"You are going to hear over the radio and in public speeches in the next weeks," Mr. Smith said, "a lot about Democratic waste and extravagance. It's all bunk. The Republicans won't get away with it, though they accused both Roosevelt and Lehman as well as myself of the same thing. Nobody was more careful in the handling of state's money than Roosevelt and Lehman."

Mae West Wants Indian; Vows He Won't Be Hurt

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Mae West has telegraphed a request to Henry Morgenthau Jr., secretary of the treasury, for aid in finding an Indian for her next movie—if possible, a direct descendant of the tribesman whose profile adorned the old pennies. "If I find the right one, I promise to return him in good shape," the actress said.

SEARCH FOR GIRL SLAYER POINTS TO AKRON, OHIO

Akron, O., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The search for Merton W. Goodrich, 26 year old trap drummer, sought on a warant charging first degree murder as the degenerate strangler of Lillian Gallaher, 11, of Detroit, centered here today when eight citizens told police they saw him in Akron last night.

The identifications were made after the citizens had seen pictures of Goodrich in the newspapers today. Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Wyland said they saw him walking in South Main street at about 5:30 p. m. yesterday.

Police at Detroit said they learned from acquaintances of Goodrich and his red haired wife, who is also sought, that the couple was there as late as Tuesday, leaving for Cleveland Tuesday night on a boat. The body of the school girl, who had been missing seven days, was found Wednesday trussed up in a trunk in the Goodrich apartment.

SEEK GOODRICH HERE.

The Chicago police yesterday investigated a clew in the search for the slayer of Lillian Gallaher, 11 year old Detroit girl, and made an arrest, but released the suspect soon afterward when he proved convincingly he had nothing to do with the crime. A sergeant of the Michigan state police, arriving in the city, said he had been informed a new bartender at 2327 East 71st street greatly resembleed Goodrich. The bartender, Felix Aurig, 44 years old, 411 Normal parkway, was taken to the bureau for questioning. He quickly demonstrated his innocence and was freed.

SELL HEIRLOOMS ON SLAVE BLOCK TO UNSEAT HUEY

5 Senators' Letters Bring but 50 Cents.

New Orleans, La., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—On the old slave block from which Negroes were sold in former days, the women of Louisiana began Thursday to sell their heirlooms and antiques. They seek funds with which to continue the campaign to force the United States senate to take action against Senator Huey P. Long, charged with gross election fraud in a report of the senate's own special committee.

MRS. HILDA HAMMOND.

Behind the block was a huge photograph showing a slave-selling scene in the old days, and the legend in mighty letters, "Louisiana is the slave state of America today."

The auction is being held in the old home of Adelina Patti.

The letters and autographs of five senators brought 50 cents.

They are the senators who constituted the special committee—Logan, Carey, Townsend, Connally, and Thomas—which refused to recommend the expulsion of Long from the senate, though it did report abundant evidence of fraud.

Heirloom after heirloom, some dating back to the time of Napoleon, was knocked down in the brisk bidding. The room was crowded with women and men.

Mrs. Hilda Phelps Hammond, head of the woman's committee of Louisiana, who acted as auctioneer, used a brass crawfish for a gavel and told the world that the women are going to keep up their campaign until the senate arouses itself from its amazing apathy.

"The senate," she said, "did its duty in the case of Vare, Smith, Newberry, and Lorimer, all Republicans. It is not doing its duty in the case of Long; despite the evidence of fraud that has been put before it, the senate has shown masterful inaction."

BETTY CARSTAIRS IS DRIVEN INTO EXILE BY TAXES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 28 (Friday).—The heavy burden of taxation and the high cost of living has driven one of Great Britain's wealthiest sportswomen into exile.

BETTY CARSTAIRS.

Miss Betty Carstairs, famous speedboat pilot, will sail on the Berengaria for New York tomorrow, en route to lonely Whale Cay Island of the Bahamas. Miss Carstairs has purchased the island for her future home. She is reputed to have an income of $260,000 a year. She has sold all her property in England, including her private boatyard at Cowes and two famous speedboats, Estelle IV. and Estelle V., with which she challenged Gar Wood for the international racing trophy on three occasions at Detroit.

"I have had to give up racing because of the expense," Miss Carstairs said. "High taxation and the cost of living means that I cannot afford to live here any more."

It is estimated she has spent more than $500,000 at speedboat racing. She also helped to finance one of Sir Malcolm Campbell's trips to the United States to set a new world speed record for automobiles at Daytona beach.

Fred Brown's Lost White Horse May Be Purple

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Fred Brown's horse was white when he lost it, but what color it might be now he couldn't say, as it was one of several "magic horses" from a circus. "They would turn from white to brown or from brown to white with brown spots, or from white to a kind of purple," he said.

NEW DEAL PERILS NATION'S LIBERTY HOOVER WARNS

Stupendous Invasion of Rights Assailed.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Herbert Hoover, in his book, "The Challenge to Liberty," published today, declares the New Deal's national regimentation policy is "the most stupendous invasion of the whole spirit of liberty" America has experienced since colonial days.

The former President, who has been working on the book for the last year at Palo Alto, Cal., sounds his theme in his introductory sentence as follows:

"For the first time in two generations the American people are faced with the primary issue of humanity and all government—the issue of human liberty."

Sees Regimentation Menace.

Mr. Hoover does not mention the Roosevelt administration by name, nor does he speak of the Brain Trust and the New Deal, but he applies to the various experimentations under the New Deal the generic phrase "national regimentation." This he vigorously assails as having in common with socialism, communism, Fascism, Naziism, the idea of "the servitude of the individual to the state, and the denial of liberties unassailable by the state."

All this, he says, is the opposite to the philosophy of Americanism, set forth in the constitution 147 years ago, that people are the masters of the state, the government is the servant of the people and that liberty and human rights are natural endowments and not to be conferred by kings and governments.

Sees Present Day Tories.

Present day radicals Mr. Hoover places philosophically with the old line Tories and conservatives who held that human rights were bestowed by kings and states.

"These," he says, "simply have shifted from the divine right of kings to the divine right of burocracies. In this sense the radicals of today are the conservatives of yesterday."

Many of the high points in Mr. Hoover's treatise, which is published by Charles Scribner's Sons, have been discussed since their appearance in serial form. The chapters on regimentation already have been given much publicity.

Farmer a Tragic Figure.

"The farmer is the most tragic figure in our present situation," he writes.

"From the collapse of war inflation, from boom, from displacement of work animals by mechanization, from the breakdown of foreign markets, from the financial debacle of Europe, and from drouth he has suffered almost beyond human endurance.

"Instead of temporarily reducing the production of marginal lands by measures of relief pending world recovery, the great majority of farmers were regimented to reduce production from the fertile lands. The idea of a subsidy to a farmer to reduce his production in a particular 'staple commodity' was expended by requiring a contract that he would follow orders from the secretary of agriculture in the production of other 'staple commodities.'

Got Action Through Threats.

"Voluntary action was submerged further by threats that if he did not sign up he would have difficulty in obtaining credit.

"The whole process has been a profound example of how burocracy, once given power to invade liberty, proceeds to fatten and enlarge its activities."

The program, Mr. Hoover says, is marching to full regimentation of 30 millions of agricultural population.

"The whole thesis behind this program is the very theory that man is but the pawn of the state. It is usurpation of the primary liberties of men by government."

Assails Sweeping Power.

Departures of the regimentation theory [New Deal] from the American governmental philosophy of liberty of the individual are cited in the chapter on "national regimentation."

"The first step of economic regimentation is a vast centralization of power in the executive," Mr. Hoover says. "Without tedious recitation of the acts of the congress in delegating powers over the people to the executive or his assistants . . . the powers include:

"To debase the coin and set its value; to inflate the currency; to buy gold and sell silver, to buy government bonds . . .

"To levy sales taxes on food, clothing, and upon goods competitive to them [the processing tax] at such times and in such amounts as the executive may determine.

Compete with Industry.

"To create corporations for a wide variety of business activities, heretofore the exclusive field of private enterprise.

"To install services and to manufacture commodities in competition with citizens.

"To buy and sell commodities; to fix minimum prices for industries or dealers; to fix handling charges and therefore profits; to eliminate 'unfair' trade practices.

"To allot the amount of production to individual farms and factories and the character of goods they shall produce; to fix stocks of commodities on hand. To stop expansion or development of industries or of specific plants and equipment."

He continues with other specific instances and discusses regimentation of industry and commerce and abrogation of the anti-trust laws as reviving a type of Elizabethan guild monopolies.

"All this," he says, "is in fact the greatest legal mechanism ever devised for squeezing the smaller competitor out of action, easily and by majesty of the law. Yet the small business is the very fiber of our community life.

"Over it all is now the daily dictation by government in every town and village every day in the week, of how men are to conduct their daily lives—under constant threat of jail, for crimes which have no moral turpitude. All this is the most stupendous invasion of the whole spirit of liberty that the nation has witnessed since the days of colonial America."

"History's Greatest Tyranny."

On managed currency and credit Mr. Hoover says one underlying intent of the monetary measures was the transfer of income and property from one individual to another or from one group to another upon an enormous scale without judicial process; and that it meant a universal shift of 40 to 50 per cent of the value of all debts.

"If the purpose of these activities is to enable the government to dictate which business or individual shall have credit and which shall not," he says, "we will witness a tyranny never before contemplated in our history.

"Executive power over the coin is one of the oldest components of despotism."

Was Mr. Smart Smart in Revealing His Name?

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 27.—(AP)—All because of his name, Oscar Smart, 27 year old farm hand, is in city hospital today suffering from a fractured jaw and severe bruises.

Smart met two strangers and one of them asked for a match.

"What's your name, buddy" asked the stranger.

"Smart," said Smart.

"O, is that so?" one of the men remarked as he knocked Smart down.

HOOVER LAUDS CHARITY GIVERS; RAPS BUROCRATS

Says Latter Lack "Radiance of Sympathy."

Portland, Ore., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Observing that "the kindly radiance of sympathy and encouragement which goes with voluntary efforts cannot be reproduced by burocrats," Herbert Hoover today lauded voluntary service in the relief of distress.

The former President was the guest of honor and the principal speaker at this city's Community Chest exposition.

"We have needed every agency in the disasters of the last five years," he said, "and I know of no greater evidence of the growing idealism of our race than has been shown during this period.

Four Million Families Helped.

"The twenty odd million families who have had employment have with manly courage and womanly sympathy taken the burden of support of that 4,000,000 families whose breadwinners have been rendered idle from no fault of their own."

Mr. Hoover mentioned that statistics for each six months since 1930 show a steady decrease in illness and in adult and infant mortality and that there has been no general sickness or death from hunger or cold.

This, the ex-President concluded, "is conclusive proof that the people as a whole, at all times since the depression began have been organized and better looked after than even when the nation was without economic anxieties."

Proves Spiritual Growth.

"Herein," he declared, "is proof of spiritual growth of our people." That growth and the effectiveness of this service, he said, are due to "the voluntary agencies, which deserve the major tribute."

For, he said, they had "builded the public conscience," and at the start of the depression the burden was almost entirely theirs, and it gradually became greater.

"In these days when there are vast agitations to have the government assume all these responsibilities," Mr. Hoover said, "some truths might be worth observing.

"One is that the kindly radiance of sympathy and encouragement which goes with voluntary efforts cannot be reproduced by burocrats."

Arrest Sportsman After His Boat Guest Drowns

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Jack Vallely, wealthy Beverly Hills sportsman, was under arrest today on suspicion of manslaughter in the death of Robert B. Vaughn, wealthy Long Beach engineer and Vallely's long time friend. Vaughn drowned after going overboard off Vallely's yacht in Avalon harbor, Catalina Island. Vallely said he struck at Vaughn during a disagreement.

MUCH REMARRIED REALTOR KILLED IN MYSTERIOUS BLAZE

VIRGINIA HOBBS HALL.
[Acme Photo.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Mysteriously trapped by flames, Melvin Hall, 38, wealthy real estate man who married two of his three wives twice, was burned to death today.

At the time of the fire his latest wife, Virginia Hobbs Hall, beauty contest winner from Memphis, Tenn., one of the two he married twice, was visiting her mother. Hall was trapped despite efforts to save him. His charred body was recovered from the ruins of the office building of the Verdugo Woodlands estate, fifteen miles northeast of here.

Hall married Vera May Hays in 1912. After twelve years, during which he amassed a fortune, she divorced him, naming Elizabeth Rocklair, whom Hall married in 1926 and divorced two years later.

Then Virginia Hobbs came to Hollywood. Hall and she were married in Mexico in 1929. Elizabeth rewon Hall, and he obtained a Mexican divorce and remarried his second wife.

But Virginia entered the picture again and in a few months Hall was sued for separate maintenance by Elizabeth. The realtor countered with a suit asking that his second marriage to Elizabeth be annulled on grounds that his Mexican divorce from Virginia was not legal. He won and the court denied Elizabeth's request for separate maintenance.

Investigating the fire, deputy sherifs said there were indications Hall had struggled with some one else or had fought desperately to escape the flames before being overcome.

Expect New Brain Trust Charges by Dr. Wirt

Additional evidence to confirm charges of radicalism among the brain trusters of the administration is expected to be given by Dr. William A. Wirt, Gary educator, in an address before the Paul Reveres, a patriotic organization, in Kimball hall, 306 South Wabash avenue, Oct. 5. Other patriotic groups have been invited to the meeting, which will be one of the initial steps in a campaign for a return to Americanism in America.

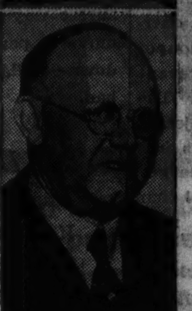
DARE FARLEY TO DEFEND AIR MAIL SCANDALS TODAY

Patronage Boss to Speak Here; G. O. P. Ready.

BY PARKE BROWN.



JUSTUS L. JOHNSON.

When Postmaster General Farley makes two public appearances in Chicago today he will face the question whether he will accept a challenge to discuss the air mail scandals and their aftermath.

A statement defying him to take up the cancelation of the air mail contracts, the resultant deaths of twelve army aviators, and the letting of new contracts was issued yesterday by Justus L. Johnson, chairman of the Republican state central committee.

Farley is scheduled to dedicate the already dedicated federal postoffice in Chicago at 2:30 this afternoon and to address a big show arranged by the Democrats in the form of a county convention at the Chicago Stadium at 7:30 this evening.

Fitting Time to Explain.

Chairman Johnson said that either occasion would be an extremely fitting one for a frank discussion of the subject.

On the eve of the two demonstrations, which it is admitted are intended primarily to impress the voters, there was a question of which is to be the bigger show. Weeks of effort have been put on each.

The postoffice ceremonies, in connection with which there has been considerable expense such as the issuance of engraved invitations, the erection of a reviewing stand, and the placing of decorations, will be preceded by a parade consisting chiefly of postal employés and American Legion units.

March from Grant Park.

This parade will form in Grant park, will go west in Jackson boulevard and south in Canal street to the postoffice. It will be led by detachments of soldiers, sailors, marines, and city police.

It is to be a big affair, but Republican critics want to know why such a fuss is being made following corner stone laying ceremonies late in 1932 and formal dedication ceremonies by Walter F. Brown, then postmaster general, in February, 1933—both events before the Roosevelt inauguration.

The Democratic stage effect in the evening will be based on the thought of reproducing the party's national convention there in 1932, except for some disturbances which it is desired to forget.

Standards for Chicago wards and the country towns of the county will replace those used to locate the state and territory delegations when Roosevelt was nominated. The Chicago delegates will be the precinct captains and the women precinct leaders named by the ward committeemen. It is predicted the hall will be filled to capacity, which means nearly 25,000.

In addition to Postmaster Farley, the speakers listed include Gov. Horner, Mayor Kelly, County Chairman Nash, State's Attorney Courtney, and Michael L. Igoe, nominee for congressman at large.

"Sordid Air Mail Grab."

Chairman Johnson's challenge to Mr. Farley was to "reveal why he wrecked the nation's air mail service, a sordid grab in which the lives of more than a dozen army pilots were mercilessly sacrificed."

"Did he do it to repay campaign debts?" asked the Illinoisan. "He was campaign manager and made the campaign deals.

"The public would like to know who inspired the first reports that there had been no favoritism in awarding the air mail contracts, and why the abortive attempt was made to conceal the fact that one company received the cream of the business—in fact, eight trunk line contracts. 'Ruthless Jim' Farley knows the answer, but he hasn't the courage to voice it.

"He has been too busy dedicating and rededicating postoffices. If there is any sorrow in his heart for the bereaved families of the army pilots he will accept the challenge of the public, either in his rôle as postmaster general and wrecker of the air mail, or as national dispenser of Democratic patronage, and tell the truth about the whole rotten mess."

FEAR OF GOVERNMENT.

Protests against governmental policies do not get much serious attention in Washington. Regardless of earnestness of purpose or thoughtfulness of consideration, they are dismissed lightly even by President Roosevelt.

It might seem that experimentation with the welfare of 120 million people would be regarded as a most serious thing. It would be natural to expect that it would be attended by the utmost reflection in the widest range of doubt. The country can stand considerable punishment, but certain policies of government, recklessly pursued without regard for consequences, can produce conditions from which a whole generation may not recover.

The present powers of the federal government are tremendous. Their exercise thus far has been checked only by such discretion as the administrators have chosen to use, and that has not been much. They constantly press for more authority and a wider range.

In support of these policies there is an uncalculating part of the public, tempted by illusions of benefits magically arrived at, and theorists seizing the great opportunity to try experiments on living organisms. Against such procedure there is the sound judgment of responsible citizens who become more alarmed every day by the consequences and prospects.

Americans who are greatly disturbed and expressing their fears are not selfishly interested, and they cannot be dismissed as self-seekers who fear to lose unjust privileges in the forward sweep of the New Deal. There is more selfishness arrayed behind the New Deal than there is drawn up in opposition to it. It has become an appeal to the acquisitiveness of the nation. The present campaign is being conducted with golden promises. The clearly revealed fact is that uncertainties and lack of confidence prevail in every activity which could be of service in promoting a real recovery, and when vitally interested citizens try to get a word of encouragement from Washington they are turned aside with a lightness which increases their foreboding. They find that their ideas and their recommendations will not even be seriously considered, and out of that situation their fears continue to grow.

A RATE LESSON UNLEARNED.

Recent developments in the railroad world present an interesting paradox. Prior to the year 1920 the treatment of the revenue problem of the two most important branches of railway transport—passenger and freight—had followed parallel lines. Through the war and post-war periods passenger fares had been steadily advanced as the financial needs of the carriers increased until the basic unit had reached a maximum of three and six-tenths cents per mile in 1920. Incidentally that year produced an all time record for passenger revenues. Then the public commenced to take to the automobile and latterly to the airplane. More and more through highways were demanded and constructed, with an immediate effect on railway patronage. By 1931 the number of passengers carried by the railways was less than half of the 1920 peak. Their only answer was service retrenchment.

Within the last year or two it appears to have occurred simultaneously to the managements of several of the stronger lines that there was something wrong with this policy. Advances in fares were out of the question in the face of the virility of automotive transport, which was constantly increasing its speed, flexibility, and dependability, while decreasing its costs. Timidly, at first, these railways inaugurated excursions and fare reductions in experimental territory. By the close of 1933 they had been able to prove that in many instances fares of one and one-quarter to two cents per mile would produce greater gross revenue than the standard basis of three and six-tenths cents per mile. Motor driven, streamlined trains and other modern experimental units to substantially reduce operating costs followed in natural sequence. Reconstruction of the right of way to safely meet the demands of higher speed is being seriously considered. A start has been made in the direction of revitalizing railway passenger transport through offering the public service it wants at a price it is willing to pay. Passenger policies have made an about face and the public applauds.

But what of freight? During the war and post-war periods the unit cost of transportation had more than doubled, until a peak was reached in 1920. Tonnage also touched a record high in that year, and then, barely holding its own, staggered along through the following decade of ultra-prosperity. At the close of 1930 freight volume was actually less than in 1920, and even the banner year of 1929, which showed Matterhorn peaks in the production of everything else, recorded an increase of but eight per cent over 1920 in railway tons carried. It is axiomatic that large corporations cannot stand still. They must move forward or perish.

Now comes the point of divergence. Instead of following the progressive passenger policies the railway freight departments, with a few notable exceptions, did nothing until New Deal tactics forced a crisis by materially increasing railway operating expenses. Then, instead of showing their teeth to their competitors on the highways and waterways, they have merely repeated the mistakes of 1918 and 1920 by applying to the interstate commerce commission for permission to increase basic rates. Earlier doses of this same medicine had firmly entrenched competing forms of transport. Now they propose to play further into the hands of their rivals. The railways cherish the hope that the long sought regulation of their competitors will promptly follow to prevent diversions, but they are deluding themselves. The vast volume of freight tonnage cannot be subjected to any such regimentation, and most of it is now paying the last available dollar in freight charges. Freight trafic is no more amenable to control than passenger trafic, and the passenger policy must prevail in the long run.

The interstate commerce commission would do the railways a favor by declining their application, thus forcing them to rehabilitate their freight service.

GENTLEMEN WHO KNOW THEIR ONIONS.

The Vegetable Growers' Association of America has adopted resolutions opposing the plan to include vegetables within the framework of AAA regulation. The members demand repeal of the Agricultural Adjustment act. They say the marketing agreements which the AAA has sought to impose do not accomplish what is expected of them, but do oppress the minority.

The association holds that "the growers themselves, as individuals or as coöperative groups, can better regulate their own business than any outside organization, considering the public interest as well as their own." The men who adopted the resolution are farmers who have watched closely the government's experiments. They have seen what the government has done for and to the producers of wheat and cotton, corn and dairy products, and, having seen, they ask to be excused. In the New Deal they are not drawing cards. They would rather take the honest risks of the market than subject themselves to orders from gentlemen in Washington who may or may not know anything about the vegetable business.

As time goes on and the mistakes and stupidities of the AAA become increasingly evident, it is to be expected that many other farmer groups will join the vegetable growers in their distrust of the burocracy. The sooner they do so the sooner the unwholesome mess will be cleared away.

THE FASCIST SALUTE.

There is something intriguing about the Fascist salute. It seems more than coincidence that Mussolini, Hitler, and Mosley, while they differ in some secondary principles, should have incorporated the upthrust arm and palm so prominently in their ritual. More than likely the salute is the only part of their program which great numbers of their followers fully comprehend.

Its origin seems to have been the military salute of the Roman legions. Our American Indians are pictured giving a similar greeting in some of Frederic Remington's drawings, but they can hardly be classified as breechclout Fascists, for theirs was a sign of peaceful intentions.

An ethnologist might make a startlingly accurate analysis of the racial and temperamental differences of the various Fascist groups by studying the manner in which they salute. Il Duce's followers thrust the arm free and high with the exuberance of an operatic tenor. Hitler's Brown Shirts incline it at 45 degrees from the perpendicular—more in keeping with their enshrinement of obedience as the supreme virtue.

Sir Oswald Mosley's young men keep the elbow slightly bent and the palm little more than head high—somewhat in the manner of a schoolboy seeking teacher's permission to leave the room. Such acknowledgment of the average Briton's disinclination to make himself conspicuous in public is as good an explanation as any of the failure of British Fascism to get far beyond the comic supplement stage.

Any one who argues that Americans are beyond the lure of such claptrap, if claptrap it is, forgets the thousands of the well disposed who went flapping through the night a few years ago disguised in nightshirts and pillow cases. But an American Fascist organizer must offer more than a salute. Who is going to trade a first class lodge uniform, complete with epaulets, tinsel sash, and ostrich plumed hat, for a Black Shirt?

FIRST WOMAN BRIDGE CHAMPION.

[Brooklyn Eagle.]

It has long been the theory among the great masters of bridge that, although women might become good average players more readily than men, they were temperamentally unfitted to scale the heights and win recognition as outstanding experts. All this fine-spun theorizing, to which women players as well as some of their male adversaries took exception, was knocked into smithereens by Miss Elinor Murdoch's victory in the individual masters' championship tournament of the American Bridge league.

Not only was Miss Murdoch a winner over most of the greatest bridge masters in the country but she also made a record by scoring a higher percentage of possible match points than any previous winner of this event.

Oddly enough, Miss Murdoch herself four years ago expressed the opinion that "no woman has a good enough card temperament to enable her to top the topnotch bridge man. Women never will be able to play bridge as well as the best man." The exact reason for this theory has never been made clear. Two of the principal requirements for bridge playing are mastery of psychology and mathematical deduction. Although women generally are credited with strong intuitive sense many experts seem to doubt that they can approach men in the psychology—or, as it might be called, the poker sense—of bridge.

Bridge is not the only field in which women are today attaining heights of which they were never previously thought capable. Among the afterguard of the British yacht Endeavour, challenger for the America's cup, is Mrs. T. O. M. Sopwith, wife of the famous skipper, holding the watch and ready to take her turn at the wheel. In the light of events in the last two or three decades it is difficult to understand why people insist on putting limitations on the capabilities of women as a whole. There will always be outstanding exceptions as there are among men.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

IT'S ALMOST THE TIME for October moving. The big problem is how to move the hootch. Hootch is hootch these days; it costs money. The only infallible way to transfer the Demon Rum these days is for father to stuff his pockets full of bottles and then get very carefully into the family hack and move the hootch personally. Of course, you can pack it in with the dishes, but I lost a grand bottle of Scotch that way the last time I moved. I'm not accusing anybody. It may have evaporated. I just say I lost a grand bottle of Scotch by packing it in with the dishes. Anything liquid will evaporate, I know that. But the funny part was about the bottle evaporating. But they do evaporate. Oh, they certainly evaporate. I know that. So the surest way to move hootch safely is for papa to move it personally. But if papa trips and falls down—well, of course, that's going to be just too bad.

LADY INTO RECTANGLE.

A circular lady is comely,
If you're partial to that sort of thing;
Perfection of form, said the ancients,
Is found in the shape of a ring;
For elegance, grace, and precision
There's nothing to equal a sphere—
Yet a spherical lady, believe me,
Feels often exceedingly drear.

It is true there are organizations
Of ladies abundantly wide,
And the more they exceed their foundations
The better they're thought to preside;
There's nothing like plenty of bosom
For filling an officer's chair,
And quality's seldom demanded
If quantity's solidly there.

But even with this consolation
The circular lady is sad;
Away from the organization
Her poundage is all to the bad;
And life isn't all resolutions
Or browbeating members for dues . . .
She croaks when she steps to the trolley;
She aches when she buckles her shoes.

But of all things that life has to offer
Commend me the lady above,
When sorrow, or worry, or diet,
Or sickness, or anger, or love
Has melted her down to a semblance
Of the shape she prefers to be in—
She's the blithest of all earth's creations,
The circular lady grown thin.

Her walk is the dance of a sunbeam;
Her voice is the song of a lark;
Her smile is the gleam of a rainbow
From out the enveloping dark;
Her face is the face of an angel
Who knows neither sorrow nor sin—
She is Happiness' foremost evangel,
The circular lady grown thin!

DOROTHY KISSLING.

THERE ARE OVER EIGHT MILLION people still unemployed in these United States, according to the statistics of the labor leaders. But maybe the girls included in that eight million paint their finger nails. Personally, and now understand I am speaking for myself only, I could never give a job to a lady with bright red painted finger nails. I would think she was the queen of England or the grand duchess of Goobooling-Hootchkala, and far be it from me to attempt to compel the queen of England or the grand duchess of Goobooling-Hootchkala to pound a typewriter for me.

HONESTLY, I HOPE they find another job for Gen. Johnson, formerly boss of the NRA. The Brain Trust may find somebody that suits 'em much better than the general, but we all have to look after our own interests. And I want somebody that is loud and funny. And I can't think of anybody right offhand that is louder and funnier than Gen. Johnson.

MUSSOLINI HAS ORDERED all women employed by the government to quit their jobs and get married so their places can be filled by men. It's the old argument of rulers. There must be families so there can be babies, especially boy babies, so that in future wars there can be plenty of cannon fodder. This old world doesn't change as fast as we sometimes think it does. Cannon fodder, for wars demand human sacrifice. Shove 'em in! What would we have done during the civil war when Grant lost thirteen thousand men in an hour at Cold Harbor if we hadn't plenty more cannon fodder behind the ones that were thrown away? And the world still has to have plenty of cannon fodder.

PYGMALION.

MR. HOOVER caught two salmon in the Columbia river in Oregon a couple of days ago and the Republicans regard it as an omen of success for the party in the November elections. Well, it isn't much of an omen, but when omens are a little scarce it's a good idea to make the most of any that happen along. On the other hand, it might be construed as a Democratic omen showing that the fish are biting eagerly this fall. And that easy money bait of the NRA is mighty good bait. So this omen might not be a Republican omen at all. You never can tell.

NO, NO, NO! A thousand times NO! Snow in California, yes. Snow even as close as Oak Park, we grant you. But not yet. Warm days will yet come in golden September and red flannel is mighty scratchy. Wait. I'll tell you when to put 'em on.

FERMENTATION IN THE COLON.

THERE is a type of intestinal disturbance that is responsible for a considerable amount of body weakness, loss of tone, and "that tired feeling." The patient sometimes wakens in the morning with the expression, "I am as tired as when I went to bed."

In describing his symptoms the individual will relate that during the day there is a good deal of rumbling and gurgling in the abdomen. There is usually a sense of fullness, or a feeling that the abdomen is bloated. The bowels are free and move normally once or twice a day. When the rectum is emptied there is generally considerable gas. The material is frothy and sour in odor. There is rarely any mucus or blood. The patient usually states that his appetite is poor. Many complain of abdominal distress. Some will describe the pains as cramplike, and a few will associate nausea with abdominal pain. Occasionally the pain will come on after eating and may be mistaken for a symptom of peptic ulcer. The pain, however, is not constant but intermittent in type.

Many people suffer from this condition for years. Some give a history of fermented stools for twenty years or longer; others will relate that for several years they have noted an increasing amount of gas passed from the rectum.

The characteristic lassitude is the chief complaint and some persons have noticed that they feel better, stronger, and more alert after a period of diarrhea has thoroughly emptied the intestinal tract. Because of this observation many patients have come to rely upon the periodic use of a laxative which has the effect of ridding the intestine of its sour, acid content, thus permitting nature to produce the normal alkaline secretions.

Treatment consists in restricting the use of starches and sugars by means of a diet such as that suggested by George O. Solem. The patient is allowed meat, fish, chicken, bacon, eggs, cheese, butter, cream, and gelatin preparations. Vegetables are confined to spinach, asparagus, lettuce, celery, Brussels sprouts, tomatoes, and string beans. One orange or half a grapefruit is prescribed for breakfast. Starches are limited to one slice of well toasted bread with each meal.

If marked improvement is not noted after a week of dietary management alkalis in the form of calcium salts are given by mouth. Calcium carbonate, calcium phosphate, and bismuth subnitrate are given every four hours in sufficient doses to produce an alkaline stool. The exclusion of starches and sugars must be insisted upon, as a single break from the strict dietary régime may be sufficient to reëstablish the fermentative process within the intestine. After two or three weeks many patients will report marked improvement with the amelioration of most of the symptoms.

Occasionally, if the condition has been long established, considerable difficulty will be encountered, and in such cases the use of alkalis will need to be continued for months.

MELANCHOLIA.

F. F. writes: Is there any chance of cure of melancholia or manic-depressive insanity? My sister-in-law has been suffering from this ailment for the last eighteen months and has attempted suicide once. My brother insists on keeping her at home, as he thinks she will get well. She insists she can never get well. She is 47 years old and not yet through the change of life.

REPLY.

Patients with melancholia or with manic-depressive insanely frequently recover. Sometimes they improve rather quickly when removed from the environment in which the illness developed.

Manic-depressive is frequently cyclic. That is, recovery occurs and the person may remain in normal health for years. There is often a tendency to relapse, followed by recovery, etc. The periods of mental confusion may last for a year or more. Periods of normal mentality may last for several years.

RUNNING EAR.

G. S. writes: I am 35 years old and have had a running ear since I was 11. I had scarlet fever when I was 5 years of age. I am hard of hearing.

REPLY.

A good ear specialist should be consulted. The infection can no doubt be cleared up. It is probable that your hearing has been destroyed in the diseased ear which more prompt attention might have saved. Do not delay any longer.

CYSTITIS.

M. C. L. writes: What is cystitis? What are the symptoms?

REPLY.

Cystitis is inflammation of the bladder. The symptoms are frequent and painful urination. The urine usually contains a large number of cells, mucus, and sometimes pus.

UNOCCUPIED BUILDING.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—[Friend of the People.]—There is a vacant building at No. 4344 on our street which is being demolished by some one in the neighborhood. The building is wide open and boys of the neighborhood play in it. To prevent further destruction and possible fire will you kindly intercede in having this building boarded up? K. O.

This building is not structurally dangerous. It is vacant and vandals have broken down the rear door and several panes of glass. The owners have been notified to board up the building, and the police have been instructed to make frequent visits and arrest all unauthorized persons found on the premises. RICHARD E. SCHMIDT,
Commissioner of Buildings.

EXECUTOR'S PROBLEM.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am executor and sole legatee of my late sister's last will. The store manager of a store where my sister worked released a sum of money to an heir-in-law. Said sum belonged to the estate of deceased and was released without court authority. 1. Is this store or manager liable for the sum they released without authority? The will was unsuccessfully contested on minor technical grounds. Said contestants harassed me, so I [2] settled. 3. Could contestants be sued successfully by me for the amount I paid them, providing I could prove their object was not to determine the legality of the will, but to force a settlement? 4. It seems definite that several witnesses on the will were approached and their testimony perjured. 5. If this is proven, can I sue for return of money paid out to heirs? 6. Said settlement was paid jointly to two heirs. If evidence be introduced that one heir is not a legal heir to deceased, would not that be grounds to successfully sue for return of money?

E. T.

1. Yes, as we understand the facts.

2. The effect of the settlement would depend largely on the wording of the order, which you have not given us.

3. It would seem to us that if you wish to contest this point you should have refused the settlement and proceeded with the case.

4. Presumably you have employed an attorney. If so, he is in a better position to advise you than we are.

5. See preceding answers.

6. It is hard to understand why you should have paid this money and now desire a hearing on the question whether you should have paid it. It is a general rule of law that a payment voluntarily made on disputed claims cannot be recovered.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

JUDGMENT.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A judgment has been secured against me amounting to $150. 1. Has the holder of this judgment the right to levy on the contents of my safe deposit box, said [2] box being rented jointly by myself and wife? H. G.

1. In our opinion he is entitled to reach, under a creditor's bill, such of the contents as belongs to you.

2. The fact that the box is rented jointly does not affect your creditor's rights. The question is who owns the contents.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—The duke of Gloucester, third son of the king and queen of England, is en route to Australia for an official tour.

It is usual, when these royal publicity agents make a tour of the dominions, for the government to sanction a "grant-in-aid" for their expenses. This naturally leads to the impression that ample funds become available for the use of the royal tourist. Actually this is not so, for the amount voted for this purpose is invariably much less than the total sum required, and the royal traveler must dig into his own pocket for the balance.

Out of the "grant-in-aid" the member of the royal family concerned must allocate outfit allowances to the staf accompanying him. He must buy gifts for distribution during his visit and he must lay in a stock of wine, food, and cigars for the guests he will be expected to entertain. He must pay the cost of cables, stationery, and fares. He must give large tips and donate liberally to any local charitable institutions.

If, for instance, he would like an extra bathroom, or a squash-racquet court, or some similar structure for his convenience not comprised in the normal equipment of a warship, the admiralty will send him a bill for the work done. A royal tourist often finds himself, after probably many weeks of strenuous work, faced with a pile of bills for which there is no "grant-in-aid," and routine expenses at home during his absence just as great, or at least showing very little material difference.

The royal tourist is not the only one to pay out-of-pocket expenses. When he reaches his destination he sees the result of local expenditure in connection with his visit. Large sums are spent in preparation for and in connection with a royal visit.

As an instance, take the visit made by the prince of Wales, first son of the king and queen of England, to New South Wales. He arrived in Sydney aboard the warship Renown on June 16, 1922, and left on June 25. Those eight days cost the government of New South Wales $131,500.

Decorations and illuminations were responsible for the greater part of this expenditure, amounting to no less than $90,000. Catering cost $10,000; automobile hire, $7,500, and printing, $5,000. Building stands for disabled soldiers to view the proceedings cost $1,400 and a like amount was disbursed for bands and orchestras. Providing accommodation for the Renown's crew while on shore raised the outlay by $5,000, and sundry expenses accounted for a further $7,500.

The visit of the duke and duchess of York in 1927 cost the New South Wales government $95,000 in connection with the royal couple's nine day stay in Sydney.

SMEARING THE CONSTITUTION.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 20.—Your attacks on the Roosevelt administration are so obviously unfair and so clearly misrepresentative of just what this administration is seeking to accomplish they do not deserve any consideration from thinking, reasonable people. However, a certain class of your readers, judging from the letters in the Voice of the People, do approve of your vicious editorials and cartoons as well as your news items which also are colored and distorted by implication and innuendo to suit your evident policy of smear the President.

All this hullabaloo about the constitution is just a trumped up issue created from thin air which means nothing to the average citizen. You know and I know the constitution is in no danger; as a matter of fact, any of the measures which are being attacked by you and your crowd that are not constitutional will be ruled so by the Supreme court, which is the final tribunal on all legislation. This court is made up mainly of ultra-conservative men who would have a tendency to lean backward on all progressive legislation, so there is nothing to fear from that source.

You are of course aware that the conditions that now exist were brought on and created by the Republican party during their twelve years of misrule and misgovernment. During the four years of Hoover, when Americans were losing their investments, their homes, their jobs, and in some cases all their possessions, why was not the constitution used as a remedy for all these ills? It should have been easy for the Republicans to appease a man who had lost his job or his home or his investments by simply saying to him, "We are very sorry that all these things have happened to you, and we are going to fix you up. We are going to slip you a nice, fat constitution. Take that to the man who holds the mortgage on your home or use it to replace the money you lost in the bank that failed, or even take it to the corner grocery." That would have been a very easy, simple way out of the whole affair. HERBERT F. NEW.

WHEN BUSINESS WILL IMPROVE.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Business will improve when the following self-evident facts become recognized again: The purpose of saving one's money and putting it into business or buying stocks is to make money and the business owes a profit to the investor or mortgage holder just as much as it does to the taxing bodies or to the laborers who work on the job. You'd be surprised at the good people [mostly salaried people] who think that a business is primarily for the purpose of giving jobs and paying taxes. This may be just a sort of passing fad and will cease when it is seen that folks won't save their money and put it into business.

May I suggest that when a man enters business he assumes many risks and should therefore be permitted to make a good profit if he can; that taxes and high wages should not be forced upon him beyond the point of allowing him to make at least interest on his investment; that default on an honestly placed mortgage or bond is a terrible thing and that the owner of the equity, the tax gatherer and labor should all make sacrifices to permit at least some payment on account of interest? M. M. DWINELL.

AND HERE'S THE ULTIMATE DEGRADATION.

Racine, Wis., Sept. 22.—The Vox Pop column has gotten to be lousy and has all the earmarks of being a carefully doctored bit of office work. Three or four years ago it was as interesting and worth while a section as was to be found anywhere. Not only was the subject matter of interest and worth but the men who voiced their opinions in this column were far more erudite and wrote more concisely and in a more interesting manner than the staf of any newspaper in the United States. Why these men have all folded their tents like the fabled Arabs merits some explanation. Possibly they have all become New Dealers and are blacklisted.

First there was the jovial jester, MacCartie. We all miss Mac, and no one on your staf can write as entertainingly. There was the sympathetic Sophonisba Breckinridge with pleas for the unfortunate and the grave Sudby-Hansen with his treasure trove of folklore and Norse mythology. C. G. Smith was there, eloquent and erudite and never groping for words; Iconoclast of the stinging satire and vitriolic diatribe, and the interesting but rather sophomoric John Owen Thomas. All gone! And what have we had to replace them? Snivelers of the bought pen. Office boys purveying doctored news.

JEAN BART CHAPDELAINE.

AN HISTORIC BUILDING.

St. Augustine, Fla., Sept. 21.—The following inscription is on a bronze plaque on the east end of a building in our plaza:

"Spanish Governor General's Palace.

"Original building on site was of logs.

"Present structure built by Gonzalo Menendez de Canzo, 1597-1603.

"Purchased by king of Spain in 1603 as a dwelling for the governor of Florida at a cost of 1,000 ducats.

"From that time on it was officially recognized and known as the governor's mansion.

"Under Spanish flag over 200 years.

"Under British flag 20 years.

"Under American flag since July 10, 1821."

Yet this historic building, the only official palace in America, is soon to be remodeled into a U. S. government postoffice. Its true identity will be lost forever. Future generations are to be deprived of the original seat of all government in America. And St. Augustine does not get a new postoffice, just an expensive remodeled, antiquated building.

J. E. HEMPSTED.

AREN'T THEY!

Chicago, Sept. 19.—I do not think it is very good sportsmanship to call the crew of the winning boat amateurs. The whole world knows that the British are no amateurs in whatever they undertake to do. Let us be like the country which built this Endeavour and sailed across the ocean. Their motto is never say die. More power to them.

ANGUS MCDONALD.

LOAN IS ALSO A VERB.

Oak Park, Ill., Sept. 21.—I was perked up for work this morning when my eye caught the title "Loans Cardinal Mundelein Relic for Anniversary" in today's TRIBUNE. It is my understanding that the word "loan" cannot be used as a verb—only as noun—and the verb is "lend." A STENOGRAPHER.

9,000 ELECTRICAL WORKERS MARCH UPON FAIR TODAY

Nebraskans and Italian Students Have Day.

Today will be celebrated as "Western Electric day" at A Century of Progress. More than 9,000 employés of the west side plant of the Western Electric company will participate in events which have been arranged by the Hawthorne club, whose membership is composed exclusively of employés.

The Hawthorne Male chorus of 45 voices will present a concert at the Ford Symphony gardens at 2:30 and at 5 p. m..

Yesterday was Nebraska day at the Fair and a program of speeches and music was held at that state's exhibit in the Travel and Transport building. A message, which was sent by Gov. Charles W. Bryan for the occasion, was read by H. D. Porterfield, his secretary.

Italian Students at Fair.

Italian students, 296 in number, representing 26 Italian universites, which are here on a tour of the country, visited the Fair yesterday afternoon. The students marched into the grounds at 3:30 p. m., many wearing the uniform caps of their universities. They were greeted by Fair officials and entertained at the Italian pavilion.

Beginning Monday, Oct. 8, high school students will be permitted to take "student tours" inaugurated recently for grammar school pupils. Members of these tours will be admitted to the grounds for five cents. The instructor in charge will be admitted free.

Plan Class Tours.

Class tours have been planned for pupils studying physics, chemistry, biology, physiology, fine arts, mathematics and other subjects. The Hall of Science will be used as a laboratory for most of these subjects.

Special rates for transportation to the Fair have been offered by the surface lines, the elevated lines, the bus company, and the Illinois Central railroad. General Motors corporation will provide transportation for more than 5,000 students whose parents are still on relief rolls.

After their tour of the Fair buildings where their class study is exhibited, they may visit concessions. Nearly a score of concessions have reduced admission charges to five cents for tour members.

Bright sunshine and an invigorating tang in the air caused a big attendance increase yesterday over Wednesday, when lowering skies and cold weather kept sightseers away. At midnight 61,104 had entered the gates.

If Fred Intends Marriage It's Surprise to Josephine

Fred Peterson, 29 years old, of Lockport was wanted for questioning by Cupid yesterday. Peterson got a license in Joliet recently to marry Miss Josephine Moreau, 29 years old, of Braidwood, in southwestern Will county, and showed it to friends in Braidwood. Hearing about it, Miss Moreau yesterday visited Joliet to see if the rumor was true. She knew Peterson six years ago and has seen him once, for a moment, since that time, she said. "If he means me," she declared, "he's going to be jilted."

Colorado Votes on Chain Store Taxes in November

Denver, Colo., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Colorado voters will have an opportunity to express themselves in the November election on the question of chain store taxes. In the contest last night in the Midway café five girls were chosen to represent Poland, three for France, three for Italy, one for Bulgaria, and five for the French-Canadians.

Representatives from the Civil Conservation corps camps in the middle west will participate in log sawing wood chopping, tug of war, and other contests on CCC days at the Fair next Friday and Saturday, Oct. 5 and 6. The contests will be held in the Court of States. An exhibit of handicraft, photography, and paintings by the workers will be placed in the Hall of States. All CCC workers wearing their uniforms will be admitted free to the grounds.

The Wings of a Century four won the finals for men in the quartet contest in the Hall of States last night. The finals for the women was won by the Bennett quartet. The contest attracted twenty-eight groups in the preliminaries.

The four finalists in the amateur auditions contest were chosen last night on the Lagoon theater. They were Patsy Arnold, 9 years old, Akron O., dancer; Dolores Freymouth, 5 years old, Gary, Ind., dancer; Bill Hensley, 21, 3825 Pine Grove avenue, soloist and crooner, and Robert and Muriel Wirth and their father, William, who sing as a trio. Finals will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the Lagoon theater.

A "brown October ale" festival will be held in the Red Lion inn in Merrie England Friday night, Oct. 5. Souvenir mugs will be given to visitors.

EXPECT LENGTHY COURT BATTLE AS T-N-T CASE OPENS

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

The first day of the trial of fifteen business men and labor leaders, members of the Trucking and Transportation exchange [T-N-T] on charges of racketeering conspiracy, ended yesterday afternoon without much progress being made in the selection of a jury. Only one venireman was tentatively accepted by both sides and indications were that he would be excused because of lack of discretion on the part of state investigators in determining his jury qualifications.

A flurry was caused by intimations of a jury fixing plot, but when Judge William V. Brothers concluded his investigation it was discovered that some of the prosecution investigators merely had not used good judgment in investigating the prospective jurors. The incident was dismissed by the judge after he had warned the investigators to use more caution or "suffer the consequences."

Venireman Hints at "Plot."

Eugene W. Gustafson of Blue Island, one of first veniremen examined, said that some one had been "around his house" in connection with his possible jury service.

It developed that the investigators had questioned Gustafson's neighbors to "find out about him" before he officially was served with his subpena for jury service. Gustafson was allowed to remain on the panel temporarily, but likely will be excused later.

The state used four peremptory challenges before it found four veniremen who had no labor connections, either directly or through their families. Prosecutors Donald Thompson, Robert Donigan, Thomas Bugan and William Crawford thus indicated they are not desirous of having "labor" men on the jury. The defense excused three of the four men tendered by the state.

The trial, which is expected to take several months at least, is the second attempt by State's Attorney Courtney to drive out alleged racketeering between business and labor officials.

In the present trial which gives indications of being a bitter fight, John Bransfield, a contractor, is the main defendant. Others are Tony Palumbo, a contractor; Marcus Looney, business agent of the excavating, grading and asphalt teamsters union; John Sheridan Sr., a labor leader of the teamsters for more than 25 years, and Charles J. Wilson, secretary and treasurer of T-N-T.

Charge Threats of Violence.

Other labor defendants are Sam Alex, John Baggot, James Farmer, Lloyd Little, John I. Lynch, William E. Maloney, David Reese, Thomas C. Sullivan and James R. Waldt. John Steffen, former president of the Associated Contractors, an alleged affiliate of T-N-T, concludes the group of defendants.

The state charges the defendants with intimidating through violence contractors who did not pay tribute to the T-N-T and its affiliates, the Associated Contractors, Inc., and the Engineering Service corporation. Recalcitrant contractors in the coal business and various other industries in which trucking is necessary were boycotted by the unions through the T-N-T, it is charged.

The jury selection task is expected to take several weeks. The jurors in the case will not be locked up as is the usual practice.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Adam Grabos, Edward Kenneke, and Joseph Kolodicz, robbery, sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Cornelius Harrington.

Martin Serzynski, manslaughter, sentenced to one to fourteen years in the penitentiary; Leony Toney and Earl Davis, robbery, sentenced to one year to life, and Arnold Porter, forgery, sentenced to one to fourteen years by Judge John C. Lewe.

NEW YORK
Herald Tribune

FIRST

In Automotive Advertising in August

Among all 9 New York Newspapers

For many years, through good times and bad, the Herald Tribune and one other MORNING newspaper have been the accepted leaders in New York automotive advertising. Now, for August, the Herald Tribune is first. The Herald Tribune has a gain. The second newspaper takes a sizable loss.

The record so far this year—first 8 months—is impressive in a period of gains for nearly all New York newspapers:—The Herald Tribune has the largest gains in town in total automotive (160,000 lines GAIN); in new passenger car display; in gasoline and oil; in truck advertising.

The automotive industry knows that it takes a better-than-average income in the New York market, to buy and maintain an automobile.

Nowhere in America are the spheres of influence of the various newspapers so clean-cut as in the New York MORNING newspaper field. Here the Herald Tribune is winning more striking recognition than ever, from many advertisers, in many classifications, for whom a big audience with better-than-average buying power is imperative.

GAINS in Total Advertising

8th consecutive month

Every month this year, the Herald Tribune has made a gain in total advertising. For August, the gain was 34,053 lines; for the eight months, 1,106,453—the largest gain made by any of the seven standard-size New York newspapers. All of the 6 broad groups into which Media Records divides total advertising, share the 8-months' gain: RETAIL has a gain of 315,112 lines; GENERAL, 575,319; AUTOMOTIVE, 160,673; FINANCIAL, 9,411; CLASSIFIED, 24,172; LEGAL, 21,766.

TRAFIC VIOLATOR "NIGHT SCHOOL" PLAN IS VOTED

Safety Group Proposes Written Tests.

BY HAL FOUST.

A subgroup of Mayor Kelly's "Keep Chicago Safe" committee voted yesterday to inaugurate a trafic violators' school on or about Oct. 15. At the discretion of the judges certain defendants in automobile cases will be given the alternative of attending four night sessions of this school or of paying a fine.

CHARLES M. HAYES.

The subcommittee, headed by Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, also approved a police contest designed to reduce accidents and a proposal for enlarging and improving the trafic division of the police department.

The school is to meet twice a week for one hour at some centrally situated place yet to be selected. There will be illustrated lectures and written examinations. To win a dismissal of his case in court the "pupil" will have to get a passing grade on his written test.

Stress Huge Loss of Life.

The subjects to be discussed in the lectures will relate to the importance of trafic regulations from a safety standpoint, the seriousness of the annual loss of more than 900 lives in Cook county motor accidents, and suggestions for avoiding such mishaps.

Those who will attend the school, according to plans, are:

1. Youths whose parents would pay any fine.
2. Repeated violators of less important regulations.
3. Defendants displaying an actual ignorance of the laws and rules.
4. Those to whom a fine would be an undue hardship.
5. Volunteers.

The police contest would divide the city into sections, each section to be graded upon the reduction in accidents in its territory, upon improvements in control for the convenience of trafic, upon thoroughness in reporting causes of mishaps, and upon courtesy.

The reorganization of the trafic division would have this department absorb the 114 men who are now assigned to the vicinity of the World's Fair. Motorcycle men, now on special duty, would be returned to the streets. Men assigned at outlying intersections would be disciplined and instructed in the nature of their duties.

Driver Gets 10 Days.

In the Safety court yesterday Judge Harold O'Connell imposed a fine of $100 and a sentence of ten days in the Bridewell on Gunner Hilmer, 32 years old, 6226 Eddy street, charged with driving while drunk. Hilmer's car on Aug. 12 crashed into a parked automobile at Irving Park boulevard and Lake Shore drive.

Judge Edward S. Scheffler, who relieved Judge O'Connell later in the day, sentenced James Reed, 28 years old, to ten days in jail and to pay a fine of $100 for driving while intoxicated. Reed told police who arrested him that he had no home. James Curley, 51 years old, of 3119 Wentworth avenue, who was riding with Reed, was fined $25 on a disorderly conduct charge when police testified that he, too, was drunk.

Martin Lamberg, 25 years old, of 817 Buckingham place, was sentenced to five days in the Bridewell for leaving the scene of an accident at Halsted street and Waveland avenue.

The Safety court, which hears the more serious trafic violation cases, will be moved on Monday from the police building at 11th and State streets to the Criminal Court building.

Bull Frees Self in Yard and Gores Farmer Fatally

Carlos Lantz, 54 years old, a farmer of Wheatland township, Will county, about twelve miles northwest of Joliet, was gored to death by a bull in his farmyard yesterday. Lantz was attempting to lead the animal to a drinking tank by means of a staf attached to a nose ring when the bull broke away and attacked him. Lantz's brother Isaac and a farm hand seized the animal, but not until Lantz had been injured fatally.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless gentle vegetable extracts amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug store. © 1931 C. M. Co.

Laundry Safe Blowers' Loot Amounts to $1,022

Three burglars who bound and gagged a 60 year old watchman in the Rainbow Wet Wash laundry, 4307 West Division street, early yesterday and burned through a safe wall, escaped with $300 in cash and $722 in checks, it was learned when officials of the laundry were able to make a definite report on the amount of loot. Samuel Luckman, 911 North Harding avenue, the watchman, was overpowered in the rear of the plant by the three masked men, who gained entrance through a rear window. After remaining bound from about midnight to 6 a. m. yesterday, when he worked his way free, Luckman notified Austin police.

ARMS FOR CUBA 'SPORTING GOODS' ON MORRO CASTLE

Ward Line Official on the Witness Stand.

New York, Sept. 27.—[Special.]—It was testified today that during the last few years of strife in Cuba, the Morro Castle carried munitions to Havana billed as "sporting goods." The Ward line officers had "no information" concerning the recipients, it was added.

Henry E. Cabaud, first vice president of the Ward line, told that story before the board of steamboat inspectors investigating the Morro Castle disaster.

Mr. Cabaud said the line never had had any difficulties with any of the warring political factions of Cuba.

Says Union Aided Alagna.

Dickerson N. Hoover questioned the witness closely concerning his knowledge of the friction between the late Capt. Willmott and George I. Alagna, second radio operator of the ship.

Alagna was kept on in his job only because of his union affiliations, Mr. Cabaud testified. He understood, however, that Alagna was quitting at the end of what turned out to be the last voyage of the Morro Castle.

Cabaud said he never had heard that Capt. Willmott was afraid of Alagna until it was brought out at the current hearings by many witnesses, but Capt. Willmott had complained Alagna "had caused a disturbance among other officers because of petty grievances."

Warns Captain of Freighters.

Acting Captain William F. Warms, he said, had been with the Ward Line for twenty-three or twenty-four years. He had commanded freight but not passenger ships until the death of Capt. Willmott.

Boat drills were left to the discretion of the ship's officers, Cabaud said. He promised to supply the board of inquiry with records showing the turnover in the crew of the Morro Castle.

Thomas S. Torresson, marine superintendent of the Ward Line, and as such charged with the maintenance of the ships, testified concerning the relations between Capt. Wilmott and Alagna. Although members of the ship's staf invariably were fired on recommendation of the captain, Torresson said Capt. Willmott had refused to prefer charges against Alagna.

CHARGE LAWYER WITH CONTEMPT IN ALIBI PERJURY

A formal contempt petition was filed before Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Criminal court yesterday, naming Attorney Emil Broz, who was charged by two witnesses with having furnished them a perjured alibi for use in a criminal trial. Joseph Spiewak, 17 years old, 2218 West 18th street, and Theodore Przybyteke, 18 years old, 2158 West 18th street, testifying in behalf of Spiewak's brother, Walter, in an automobile theft case, told the court Wednesday of the false alibi. The petition yesterday was drawn up by Assistant State's Attorneys Frank Donohue and Francis T. McCurrie at the court's direction. Chief Justice Sullivan allowed the petition to be filed and ordered Broz notified.

"Tending a furnace is no job for a woman, so I installed Gas Heat"

Mrs. Barbara Stejskal, 2113 South Cuyler Avenue, Berwyn, tells why she prefers gas heat to all other types

"NOW I have complete comfort." That's the way Mrs. Stejskal sums up gas heat. "All I have to do is set a little thermostat and the temperature is automatically regulated—day or night." Tending furnace is a dirty job—a hard job. No man, and surely no woman, wants to look forward to a winter season of shoveling coal, hauling ashes, getting up at dawn to fire a furnace.

That's why many thousands of families in the Chicago area are so enthusiastic about gas heat. For with gas you can forget you ever had a furnace. There's no back-breaking shoveling, no ash hauling, no heavy work, no stairs to climb up and down at all hours. A little thermostat regulates the heat quickly and without the slightest bit of effort. Gas heat is completely automatic.

Then, too, there's the enormous advantage of banishing soot, dust and dirt forever. Gas heat is clean—absolutely clean. The house stays spotless. The furnishings, carpets, drapes, curtains, woodwork and even clothing are free of grime and dirt. No wonder gas heat is winning its way into hundreds of Chicagoland homes every day.

Rates for gas heat are now only half of what they were a few years ago. Every home—even the most modest—can now afford it.

Investigate our trial offer —now!

You can try gas heat without investing one cent for equipment. We will install a burner in your present furnace or boiler at our expense. Remove it at our expense if you don't like it. You have a year in which to decide. While you are trying it you pay only a small rental—during the heating months—only $3 a month for the burner in the average home. This charge is included with the bill for the gas you use. When you decide to keep gas heat, the money you have paid applies on the purchase price of the equipment. Get all the facts on gas heat now. Find out how you can make your home more comfortable, more livable, more enjoyable. Call your local gas company today for full details of our startling offer and free estimate of the cost of heating your home with gas.

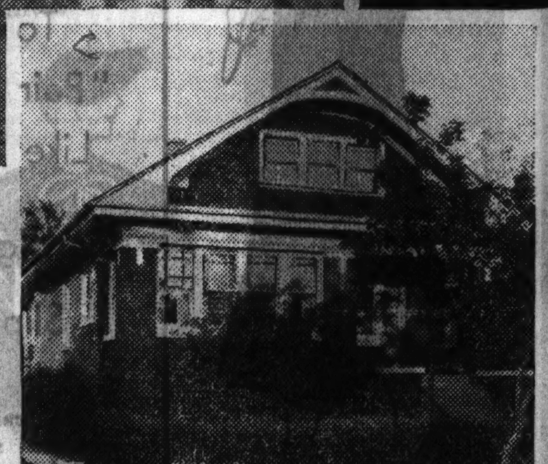
YOU INVEST NOTHING
To Try Gas Heat

Gas heat can be installed without your investing one cent for equipment. To prove that every home can now afford to heat with gas, we'll install it at our expense—remove it at our expense, if you don't like it. Accept this startling offer. Phone your nearest gas office TODAY.

'It is wonderful to have clean heat," says Mrs. Stejskal, "I'll never regret that I tried gas heat. And now that I know its comforts, I'll never be without it."



The home of Mrs. Barbara Stejskal, 2113 South Cuyler Avenue, another one of thousands that is receiving the countless benefits of automatic gas heat.

PRICED RIGHT!

Any commodity that is consistently overpriced will not find a consistently increasing market. If the price is too high, folks just don't buy.

The Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company has repeatedly reduced its rates in the past dozen years, while the prices of other commodities in the home have pursued an up-and-down course, mostly up. Right now the prices of most of the items in your household budget—food, clothing, furnishings—are on the way up again after a short period at low levels.

And so, through the years, gas is increasingly used in Chicago homes—for cooking, for water heating, for home heating.

Stitches Map of Hoffman Travels

Mrs. Charles Garfield King and the petit point map she just has finished, illustrating Malvina Hoffman's world travels in search of models for the bronze statues she has made for the Hall of Mankind at the Field museum. This picture of Mrs. King and her exquisite and interesting needlework was made by her son-in-law, Clarence Buckingham Mitchell of Santa Barbara.

Makes Needle Work Map of Sculptor's Trip

Tells Journey to Gather "Races of Men."

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

When Malvina Hoffman, the sculptor, presented Mrs. Charles Garfield King with a map of the globe girdling trip on which she was about to embark four years ago in the interest of her series depicting the "Unity of Mankind," she had little idea that Mrs. King would use the map to make an important addition to her series housed in Chicago's Field museum.

Taking the map as a nucleus, Mrs. King has just completed a needlepoint chart, exquisite in its detail and coloring, that traces all of the places Miss Hoffman visited for the purpose of making lifesize statues in bronze of the races of the world. More than three years of painstaking work have been necessary to its completion.

Learning of the chart, its beauty and accuracy, the San Diego Art museum has written Mrs. King asking permission to exhibit it in connection with a display of miniature reproductions of Miss Hoffman's bronzes. Since the map is to be a gift to Miss Hoffman, it is expected that its permanent home will be in the Field museum in the Hall of Mankind.

"I had no idea at the time of Miss Hoffman's departure that I would attempt anything as elaborate as the petit point map," Mrs. King explained yesterday.

Mrs. King is in Chicago at her apartment at 1530 State parkway preparatory to spending the winter in California with Mr. King.

"Miss Hoffman [in private life Mrs. Samuel B. Grimson] and Mr. Grimson visited us in Santa Barbara just before leaving," Mrs. King continued. "As I studied the world folder she left with me the idea for the map grew. On my return to Chicago Andrew McNally III., a good friend of my family, helped me to have it reproduced, geographically correct, on cardboard."

From this cardboard which was 48 by 28 inches Mrs. King then had the map transferred to heavy canvas. The Needlework and Textile Guild of the Art institute, of which Mrs. King is a member, assisted her in this work.

The completed map, framed under glass, is solidly petit point. A black line crossing land and sea indicates Miss Hoffman's journey.

The most difficult task, Mrs. King explains, was in tracing the course in Europe, especially in and about Czechoslovakia. On the contrary, the greatest difficulty or danger confronted by Miss Hoffman was in the Malayan peninsula where a native's husband sat with a sword across his knee while she modeled his wife.

In the manner of the maps of old, Mrs. King has worked small ships along the course that Miss Hoffman traveled. She has also made spouting whales, palm fringed islands, and Chinese sampans. As England and its possessions are worked in the same rich shade of red, so every other country and its possessions are done in the same color.

Not least among the distinguishing features of the map is the border in which are written in needlepoint the names of the countries Miss Hoffman visited. Under each country there are also written the names of the tribes portrayed in the Field museum collection.

Before returning to the west coast to join Mr. King, Mrs. King and her youngest daughter, Mrs. John I. Shaw, will go east for the celebration of Garfield King's birthday, Oct. 5, in New Haven. Garfield, the Kings' only son, is a student at Yale.

Addison Stillwell has leased the King apartment for the winter.

Declares Platinum Blondes Are Doomed in New Color Films

New York, Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Robert Edmond Jones, one of America's foremost scene designers, returned from Europe on the Italian liner Conte di Savoia today and announced some bad news for Miss Jean Harlow and her imitators.

If color comes into general use in the films, and his recent experiments with it lead him to believe it will, the day of platinum blondes is done, Mr. Jones declared. The color camera makes them look entirely too artificial, he explained.

What he called "regular" blondes—those with less exotic shades of hair than platinum—don't have to worry.

THE Anthony Adverse stories persist. Last Saturday a woman went out to see the coal mine exhibit at the Rosenwald Museum of Science and Industry. She paid her quarter and got into the train that carries sightseers through the mine. But she read "Anthony Adverse" during the entire trip.

AN early morning big city sight was the young man who apparently had spent the night on top of a sedan parked on Jackson boulevard. He had long red hair that fell to his shoulders, and his feet were swinging over the side of the car when Dolores Colangelo saw him from the top of a bus. One foot was bare, and as the bus passed he put on his sock, then yawned and clambered down from his perch.

IT was during Sunday school class. The choice of a song for a particular ceremony in which the class was to participate was under discussion, Edith Ballou reports.

"I think we will sing 'Onward Christmas Soldiers,' since that is what most of you seem to prefer," the teacher announced.

"Hot-cha!" exclaimed the little boy in the back row.

CATHERINE REA says she was walking through the Hall of Science at a Century of Progress, when an elderly woman approached and asked:

"Can you tell me where the transparent man is now?"

She directed her toward the Mayo exhibit, telling her to go to the main corridor and walk to the north end of the building.

"O, I'm too tired for that," the woman answered. "When do you suppose he'll get down to this end of the building?"

HERE we go with another Mae West story, in spite of private vows never to print another. Gertrude Alden Neeley tells it, and it deals with an alleged fondness of Miss West for gardening. It seems that her tulips particularly were admirable and her director asked if he might have some of the bulbs when they were taken up. Miss West remembered his request, and sent him some along with a note reading:

"I hope they come up sometime."

Mrs. August Belmont to Visit Chicago

Arrives Tomorrow with Eliot Wadsworths.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MRS. AUGUST BELMONT of New York and Mr. and Mrs. Eliot Wadsworth of Boston are going to spend this week-end in Chicago primarily to see the Fair, but their many friends here could not let them pass through the city without entertaining them, both officially and unofficially, so several affairs have been arranged for the time they are here.

They arrive tomorrow morning and at noon will be the guests of the executive committee of the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross at luncheon in the Trustees' Lounge in the Hall of Science. Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy is to act as hostess at this luncheon and also at one she will give Monday at the Casino for Mrs. Belmont to open the work of the newly organized women's division of the Community Fund of Chicago.

Mrs. Cudahy has invited about one hundred women to meet Mrs. Belmont Monday and to hear her talk about the work of the women's division of New York's Community Fund, which Mrs. Belmont headed for two years, and the American Red Cross, of which Mrs. Belmont is a member of the governing body—the central committee—and also one of the board of incorporators.

Mr. Wadsworth, who holds the same position with the Red Cross that Mrs. Belmont does, and his wife are en route to the fifteenth international conference of Red Cross societies in Tokio, Japan, which opens Oct. 17. They leave Monday morning for the west coast. Mrs. Belmont had planned to go, too, but business affairs forced her to change her plans, so she had to content herself with accompanying them only as far as Chicago. She is returning to New York after the luncheon at the Casino.

Silas Strawns Plan Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Silas H. Strawn have planned a dinner party for Mrs. Belmont and the Wadsworths for tomorrow night, but Sunday will be devoted to seeing the Fair by the visitors, who will stay at the Blackstone while they are here.

Mrs. Cudahy has been active in leading the women's division of Chicago's Community Fund for the last four years, but this year she is serving on the executive committee, so she is not on the committee that will head the work of the division. The five women who make up the committee are Miss Margot Atkin, Mrs. Cushman B. Bissell, Mrs. Frank P. Hixon, Mrs. Philip W. Moore, and Mrs. Charles P. Schwartz. The division will devote its efforts to an educational program. Campaign literature will be distributed among women's clubs and a speakers' bureau will be organized to tell the story of the Community Fund at as many meetings as possible.

Mr. and Mrs. Cudahy are planning to remain in their Lake Forest residence until mid-October and then will return to their town residence for the winter.

McEwen-Hamill Nuptials Today.

Finds Evening Wraps to Fit Modest Purse

Expert Has Good News for Party-Goers.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

All of these long and romantic looking party gowns must have the right coats or the effect is lost. If your clothes allowance has dwindled to almost nothing at all, you can still have a grand new velvet evening coat, for a new and exciting collection has low price tags that will do your heart good.

These coats are long, dashing affairs lined throughout with gleaming white satin. The velvet is black as midnight, with collars and sleeves that will keep you busy trying to pick the most becoming.

There is one model with wide, wide pointed revers of snowy white fur, with puffed sleeves that taper slimly at the wrist. Another short, knee-length number with almost entire sleeves of the same fur has a big bow of velvet tied at the throat.

A heartbreaker with a flaring petal collar is without fur, but the unusual collar makes you feel like a story book princess going to a gala ball. If you like glitter you'll buy the black beauty closing with three huge rhinestone clips fastening diagonally across the chest line, with draped sleeves and a tiny upturned collar.

Some of them reach the floor. All fit smoothly at the waistline and hug the ribs. The best buys are the black affairs, although some bottle green and dark blue coats are available in the same styles.

For the fur jacket collector or the girls who like the snappy short fur evening capes some one has designed the fetching little gray cape of chinchillette. It is an undyed pearl gray fur, as flattering as any genuine chinchilla, and can be yours for a fraction of what the real stuff would cost. This sort of cape is used for early rushing parties, with afternoon dresses as well as the picturesque top for any of the new evening gowns.

Fashion photograph. . . . One of the newer street dresses in colorful checked wool. Long, contrasting slip-on gloves are worn to accent the long loose sleeves. The creased hat is feminized with a dashing feather and slants down over the right eye.

Martinelli Reveals Deathbed Concert Given for Father

New York, Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The tenor voice of Giovanni Martinelli, opera singer, was husky with tears as he told today, on his arrival on the Italian liner Conte di Savoia, how he sang old Italian songs beside the deathbed of his father in Montagna, near Venice.

"He was a sweet old man," Martinelli said. "He was 77. He kept living until I finally arrived at our little village of Montagna.

"I sang for him when he was conscious songs that he sang to me as a child. He was greatly pleased."

Fear Nudist Tendency in American Men; Plan a Commission

New York, Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Plans for the organization of a national men's apparel commission are being laid, it was announced today, the commission's objective being to combat, with the slogan, "Dress Up America," the tendency of men to dispense with hats, garters, collars, underwear, and other articles of dress.

The commission idea grew out of a meeting in this city of more than 100 of the nation's leading apparel makers and sellers, representing almost $150,000,000 in annual business.

Several speakers flung verbal darts at the current "go-withoutism," including Joseph M. Kraus of a garter company, who asserted that the average man's omission of a hat or pair of garters is a subconscious reaction to the notoriety of nudism, which Mr. Kraus called "the challenge which barbarism has hurled at civilization."

Said Mr. Kraus: "People's minds have been so fertilized with nudist ideas and nudist propaganda that, subjectively, they are ready to yield to the slightest suggestion that one item of apparel after another be discarded. Psychologically, that is the reason why so many men are going without hats in ever-increasing numbers. That is why men are eliminating underwear. That is why men are going without garters or socks. Nudism makes seminudism seem conservative. The nudist of tomorrow will be found among the people who are going about half dressed today."

BLAZING GUNS

By WILLIAM MacLEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Mary Landis inherited the Lazy B ranch from her uncle. It adjoins the Circle 3 T ranch, owned by Chet Radbourne, powerful boss in the county, and Mary's legal guardian. He has been stealing Mary's cattle and trying to force her to marry him. To escape his tyranny Mary marries Cole Sanborn, fearless young outlaw and suspected train robber, within an hour after meeting him. The marriage is one in name only, giving them both better advantage to fight their common enemy. Cole drops in on Chet Radbourne. A fight ensues. Two of Chet's men, Jerry Haskell, his foreman, and Curt Jordan, are injured. Cole escapes. Chet sends Jordan to Jonesboro to lie in wait for Cole. Jordan captures Mary and sends her back to the Circle 3 T. Cole, unaware of Mary's plight, rides into Jonesboro with Rusty Hunter, one of his trusted men. He gets Judge Fairley to sign an order terminating Chet's guardianship over Mary. Cole kills Jordan in self-defense and is exonerated. Chet sends Slim Calhoun, a good looking young outlaw, to ride the range with Mary. Slim dislikes his employer and is on the point of quitting. After a run-in with Haskell and Chet, Slim leaves the Circle 3 T and Mary gives him a letter to Cole, who takes Slim's measure and accepts him as a follower. Cole plans to take possession of Lazy B ranch in his wife's name, though the Jonesboro editor warns him it means bloodshed. Cole gets a cowpuncher to let Chet learn of his plan, then dodges their ambush and captures Lazy B ranch.

INSTALMENT XXIX.

ENCOUNTER.

Cole dropped back and rode beside the man called Jim.

"I'll say this for you, Gray Shirt," Sanborn said. "You're a game villain. I don't care much for you, but I prefer your kind to that of your friend Hank."

Gray Shirt met him eye to eye. "Am I supposed to say thanks?" he asked coolly.

"Apologies offered," Cole replied. "What I'm here to tell you is that I don't kill in cold blood. I'm not like Radbourne and his hired rifraf. You're safe enough, unless you make a mistake."

"Such as?"

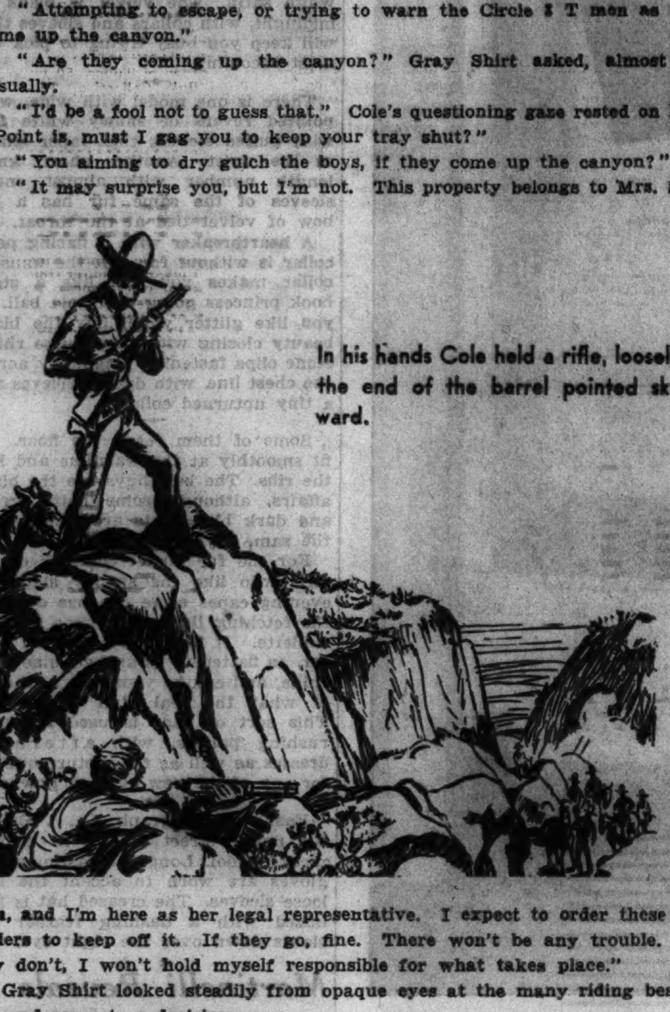
"Attempting to escape, or trying to warn the Circle 3 T men as they come up the canyon."

"Are they coming up the canyon?" Gray Shirt asked, almost too casually.

"I'd be a fool not to guess that." Cole's questioning gaze rested on him. "Point is, must I gag you to keep your tray shut?"

"You aiming to dry gulch the boys, if they come up the canyon?"

"It may surprise you, but I'm not. This property belongs to Mrs. Sanborn, and I'm here as her legal representative. I expect to order these intruders to keep off it. If they go, fine. There won't be any trouble. If they don't, I won't hold myself responsible for what takes place."



In his hands Cole held a rifle, loosely, the end of the barrel pointed skyward.

Gray Shirt looked steadily from opaque eyes at the many riding beside him and came to a decision.

"If you're going to warn them, I'll sweat the game and not put any chips in the pot," he promised.

Captors and captives rode up the ridge back of the rim-rock. In a clump of live oaks they dismounted. The prisoners were fastened together. One man was left as a guard. The others climbed up the steep, rough ascent to Big Pine point.

From the bed of boulders at Big Pine point the pass below could be covered for a distance of two hundred yards.

Dunc McCoy let his glance sweep along the trail. "A fat chance we would have had if we'd come up there, lads. I'll remember that when I cut loose at Radbourne's wolves."

Cole looked at him. The Scotchman's blue eyes, mere slits, were drained of color. Anger was in his grim face.

"No, Dunc," Cole said to the red headed man. "We're trying to stay inside the law. Unless they force it, there won't be any shooting. We're here on our legal rights. I don't want to throw away that advantage."

"Then what in Mexico did we come up here for if we ain't going to give that bunch of scalawags what their friends were fixing to give us?" Rusty asked sharply.

"Don't you reckon that if they go crawling back to Chet with their tails between their legs Boone county is going to get a good laugh?" Cole answered. "The important thing isn't to bump off a lot of Chet's warriors, but to show him up for a bluffer. If we do that, folks won't let him crowd them. What they need is confidence. With enough of that a brush rabbit will spit in a rattler's eye."

Below them they could see Slim Calhoun and Pete Daggett on the trail. Exactly in the center of it they were propping up the sign with big rocks.

"If there is a dozen or more of Circle 3 T riders that sign won't stop them," Rusty said. "They will come pouring up like longhorns with their tongues hanging out when they smell water after a hot drive."

"That will be their lookout," Cole said. "They will have had their warning."

He gave his men explicit instructions. Nobody was to fire unless he gave the signal. He might have to drop a bullet in front of the invaders as a warning, but this would not mean that the battle had begun. Radbourne's men were to be given a chance to withdraw if they would.

Cole stationed his men among the boulders. Presently Daggett and Calhoun joined them.

"We d-don p-posted yore road for you, Cole," Pete said. "I r-reckon their eyes will b-bug out when they read the sign."

Dave Pope chuckled. "I hope these guys aren't going to disappoint us the way we did their friends," he said.

"We'll know about that inside of half an hour," Cole mentioned.

"They'll be here," Rusty prophesied.

The oldtimer was right. They had not to wait long before sounds of approaching riders drifted up the canyon walls to them. Those posted in the rocks could hear voices, laughter, the striking of horses' hoofs against stones. The party below was making no attempt to conceal its approach. Evidently danger was the last thing in mind.

A man rode around a bend in the gulch trail. Others followed. Cole counted twelve. Jerry Haskell was in the lead.

At sight of the sign he pulled up with an oath. "Look!" he cried.

An exploding bomb could not have been more unexpected. The men gathered in a huddle and discussed the meaning of the warning. Had Sanborn broken through the ambush set for him? Had there some[illegible] been a slipup? Or was this Hank's idea of a joke? Everybody had a suggestion, but Haskell's heavy voice bore down the others.

"If Sanborn's fellows were here they would be cutting loose at us right now," he shouted. "I'm going on. I don't scare worth a cent."

Braggadocio was in his words and manner, but he flung a nervous glance up at the big boulders above. What he saw there riveted his gaze. The bulbous eyes of the foreman fixed on a figure that had risen from the rocks.

In his hands Cole held a rifle, loosely, the end of the barrel pointed skyward.

"I've taken possession in my wife's name," he called down. "This road is closed, for the present."

"How did you get there?" Haskell demanded. "Where is Hank? And the other boys?"

"Don't get to worrying about them," Cole advised. "Keep your mind on Jerry Haskell and those with him. That ought to keep your thoughts busy."

"You—killed them?" a Circle 3 T rider cried, almost in a gasp. He was thinking that in another moment the roar of guns would fill the gorge.

"First off, drop your weapons right where you are, every last man of you," Cole ordered sharply. "We've got you covered. You haven't a chance."

There was one critical moment of hesitation. Some one in that party of hired gunmen might decide to fight it out, even with the odds heavily against them. Perhaps the men waited for Haskell to give the signal by drawing his gun and blazing away.

The face of the foreman twitched. Conflicting emotions surged in him. There was the venomous desire to throw away caution and fight it out with his enemy. There was the urgent fear of instant violent death. The men in the rocks had the drop on them. It was almost certain that they had been instructed not to let him escape if there came a clash. In racing brain flashes he decided against battle. The chances were not good enough.

Cole's voice took on a sharp accent of command. "Drop those guns."

Rifles and revolvers clattered to the ground.

"Move back into that rock pocket," Cole ordered.

The disarmed men did as they had been told.

"Out of your saddles."

Twelve men dismounted.

"Tie your horses together, in bunches of six. Two of you move up far as that clump of Spanish bayonet with the broncs. No farther."

Again the imperative in Cole's curt mandate gained obedient answer. Two Circle 3 T men moved the animals as directed.

Properly Done Home Shampoo Most Effective

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

No, June, it's some other person who will have to stand accused by you of saying only a professional can give a decent shampoo. I've given myself too many of them, and good ones, too, to believe one cannot give her scalp and hair a grand home scrubbing. I've had good ones in salons, I'll grant you that. But I've had shampoos in salons, too, that were not worth the money. Not that I'm trying to discourage professional shampoos. When you find some one in a hairdressing parlor who isn't afraid to use a little elbow grease, who gets right into the scalp, so to speak, and you can afford it, it is a comfortable sort of pleasure not to have to do it yourself. The drying measures in the professional places quicken the busy women. However, this has nothing whatever to do with the lay person's ability to shampoo her hair and do it thoroughly and well.

There are such grand shampoos on the market now, for every kind of hair and scalp, really, shampoos that leave the hair soft and glossy. But you don't even have to spend money on these if you feel you can't afford them. There is always the good old castile soap you can melt by shaving finely, adding a quart of water, and letting boil, cool, and then use.

I think where the home job falls down most frequently is in giving only one soaping. With a bland soap you can lather the hair twice, three times, even. I think twice almost imperative to get a well finished job. You work up a good lather once, rinse, and work up a second lather. Then, in the rinsing, I find again that there isn't always enough application. If you're washing the hair in the washbowl you have to use four big dippers of water or saucepans or whatever you use. Better to let the head hang over the tub and take as much rinse water as you can stand, especially finishing off with cold water. That cold water finale does something fine and invigorating to the scalp. But rinse and rinse the hair in clear water, anyway, whether you use the cold or not. Drying the hair with coarse bath towels is better for it than the hot air system. You are giving the scalp the best kind of massage every minute you rub.

I think it fine for hair and scalp, too, if you have a firm-bristled hair brush on hand for the drying. You need a stiffer one than usually goes with the fancy dressing table set, one with body and vigor to handle and bristles. Then rub for a while with the towel. Set the towel down and take up the brush for another workout. Keep alternating until the hair is dry. Thusly, you cannot help but have clean hair and scalp and a general lift toward healthier hair.

THE STAGE

The management of "As Thousands Cheer," which has been booked for an engagement at the Grand Opera house beginning Oct. 15, sends word that the arrival of this musical show in Chicago will probably be delayed a week or two beyond that date. Its popularity in Boston, causing an extension of the engagement there, is given as a reason. However, the popularity of the "Ziegfeld Follies" at the Grand Opera house is an equally valid reason. As matters stand in the erratic arrangement of bookings for the Chicago stage, the "Follies" will probably remain in Chicago until Oct. 27 or Nov. 3, and "As Thousands Cheer" will follow.

The showboat Dixiana announces that its third revival of old school melodrama will take place Sunday, Oct. 7, in the form of "The Fatal Wedding." After this piece has exhausted its popularity, the Dixiana will stage "Nellie, the Beautiful Cloak Model," and "Bertha, the Sewing Machine Girl." C. C.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

In the last article but one I explained how a no trump bidder with only one ace in his hand must keep signing off when his partner makes a slam try by a jump take-out in a suit, until the latter shows two aces by his next rebid. The slam try can then be continued, the enemy being known to hold only one ace, by virtue of reserve values of a less immediate character in either or both the bidding hands. My wife read the article and immediately said: "Why not say something about no trumpers with no ace at all? I find them difficult to handle." This is good advice, for they are difficult to handle; the main difficulty centers around the opening bid. With

Sp. K Q x Di. K Q x
Ht. K Q 10 Cl. Q J x x

you have too big a hand to pass. Games in no trumps have often been made with three aces against them, and with this kind of hand the best spot, for game purposes, is plainly three no trumps. If partner is weak, four tricks may well be lost in any declaration. Nevertheless, with the above hand I would bid a club.

Make It Easy for Partner to Respond.

I want to make it easy for my partner to bid. I expect him to bid one no trump, which I will immediately raise to three. To deliver the game I need from him only the king of clubs and one ace. True, if both missing aces are on my left I might only take eight tricks, but this bad break would be offset if he held a needed jack or if his four card suit broke evenly, setting up a thirteenth card in it. The point is that with an ace and the king of clubs he would probably have to pass a no trump bid—there are not enough intermediates left to give him protection in the other two suits—whereas, with these same values he would unhesitatingly bid one no trump in response to my club bid. If his response were one-over-one in any of the suits I would bid two no trumps, a forcing response. If his bid had been two clubs I would bid three no trumps. We would not get beyond game unless he held three aces and the king of clubs, in which case he could almost name my high cards and would bid either four no trumps, which I would take to six, or five in his suit if it were a six card holding, or with A J x x x and distributional inducements for suit play in preference to no trumps. Even with the Q J x x holding in a major suit I would bid it instead of a no trump, trusting to our unhurried response procedure to steer the declaration to three no trumps. If my partner did insist on four in my major suit, it would be because he held four trumps for me and an uneven distribution calling urgently for suit play, not no trumps. The game contract would then be best in the suit in nine cases out of ten. With no ace in his hand, he would not have enough to keep the bidding open for me on the first round. With an ace and a king he would have enough to keep the bidding open, but not enough to take command away from me and insist on going beyond three no trumps into four in the suit. If he actually did so, it would be because he had probably five of my suit to the king, a singleton and an ace. The suit contract would then be the better one.

When Very Little Is Required from Partner.

With a four trick aceless hand such as

Sp. K Q 10 Di. K Q J x
Ht. K Q J Cl. K Q x

where for game purposes you need from dummy only an ace, or with

Sp. K Q 10 Di. Q J 10 x
Ht. K Q J Cl. K Q 10

where a king and a jack will give you game, holdings with which your partner would, in a short suited hand, pass any bid of one, you have the proper bid available—two no trumps. If game can be made, this will infallibly lead to it.

If there is a slam, it is only because your partner has three aces; in that event he can name every high card in your hand and must himself make the decision which is plainly up to him and bid six no trumps, or six in his suit on the grounds already explained for preferring suit play.

How to Handle Weak Aceless Hands.

With

Sp. Q 9 x x Di. K Q x
Ht. K Q x Cl. K Q x

I would pass first or second hand; third or fourth hand I would bid a spade and, if partner responded with a no trump, reply with only two no trumps—a strong invitational bid. He must supply about an ace, a king and a jack to make game. With

Sp. J 9 x x Di. K Q J
Ht. K Q x Cl. K Q 10

I would pass first or second hand, but bid a no trump third or fourth hand, as the spade bid might prove too difficult to get away from, and even if my partner had K Q x x in spades, three no trumps would be a better game chance than four spades unless both bids were safe, because the dummy supplied also an ace.

To Resume.

With strong short suited aceless hands, as dealer or second hand bid one in even a greatly shaded four card suit rather than one no trump; if very strong, using as a yardstick the values which your partner must supply to yield game, bid two no trumps. In third or fourth position you may have to bid a no trump without an ace if your four card suit is too weak, with a hand which you would pass in first or second position.

South Side Art Group Displays Work at Fair

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Horticulture Hall on Northerly Island has been, through A Century of Progress Exposition, an important place for the showing of works of art. The Chicago Galleries have shown flower paintings there and sculpture has been displayed to good advantage. The current exhibit is of work by members of the South Side Art association, of which Mrs. Albion L. Headburg is president.

The exhibition is interesting, embracing sculpture, oils, water colors, and etchings. Among the important artists contributing to the success of the show are Florence White Williams, Florence Ezzell Stevenson, Alice Bidwell, and Tunis Ponsen. Miss Williams has been painting many colorful incidents on the Fair grounds themselves and her paintings are fresh and decorative.

Stark Davis, Palette and Chisel member and a painter whose decorative canvases figure in the limelight in most of Chicago's galleries, is just back from California, where, among other commissions, he painted a striking overmantel for Michael Curtiz's "shack" by the sea. The shack is a luxurious lounging cottage, the living room walls paneled in pine.

Stark Davis caught a thirty pound salmon fishing in the north of California and had it canned. Seventeen cans neatly labeled with his name and the date he caught the fish is something new in the line of trophies.

DEW
AT NIGHT

Dew forms on grass in the same way that "sweat" does on the sides of a glass of cold water. On clear nights, stones, grass and other objects lose their heat rapidly by radiation to the sky. This makes these objects colder than the air about them; therefore, the moisture in the air condenses on the cool objects—just as the moisture of one's breath condenses on a cold window pane. Some of the moisture may rise from the earth itself and condense on the blades of grass. In this case the dew would be rising rather than falling. On cloudy nights the amount of heat radiation does not lower the temperature of the objects sufficiently to cause condensation on them.

A TRUE STORY

By A MOTHER

A MOTHER will go to any length to get something which her children need. She will go without food to feed them if they are hungry. To her, their welfare is the only thing that matters. That's why this letter from Mrs. Ralph W. Michael, of Lakeville, Indiana, is worth reading. But let her tell her own story:

"Six years ago before my daughter Marilyn was born, I was a very sick woman. I suffered terribly, and I was sure an operation was the only way out to end my suffering.

"Then my doctor prescribed Nujol. I used it daily for over a year, and from the start found improvement from the constipation which was the main source of my trouble. Because Nujol is a 'natural regulator' and not a 'habit former,' I found I could gradually decrease the amount taken, and at the beginning of my second year I needed only a little every other day. Now I am so perfectly regulated that I only need to take Nujol every now and then.

"You may be sure, however, that I keep nothing but Nujol in my home for this purpose. Its splendid results speak for themselves.

"My two lovely little daughters, Marilyn, 6, and Prudence, who is 4, are being brought up on this same safe Nujol which was such a godsend to me. I would not think of trusting their delicate little organs to anything but Nujol. I have had them on Nujol since they were tiny babies and, just as in my own case, I find that it has trained them to daily regularity, and that now they only need this outside help occasionally.

"Yes, indeed, I am always glad to say a good word for my dear old friend, Nujol, and you may publish this letter. It may help Nujol to do for other people the same good that it has done for me."

This fine letter from a devoted mother speaks for itself. Follow Mrs. Michael's example. Use Nujol yourself—bring up your children on it to be regular as clockwork. It cannot hurt them; it is perfectly harmless; it forms no habit; and it is the standby that keeps millions of people healthy all over the world. You can get Nujol at any drug store—now in two forms—plain, and Cream of Nujol, the latter flavored and often preferred by children.

What is your Nujol story? If you have been using Nujol for ten years or more, if you are bringing up your children on it, tell us. Address Stanco Incorporated, Dept. 23-T, 2 Park Avenue, New York City.

WASH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Win Back Pep — Vigor — Vitality

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages, with scanty amount, causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbago, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints every day and get rid of 4 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. It may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS . . . a doctor's prescription . . . which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs or so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix you up in 15 minutes, for they may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS . . . the old reliable relief that contain no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist ©1934, Foster-Milburn Co.

CHICAGO RATES UPSET RELIEF IN ROCKFORD AREA

Blame New Dealers for Cost Increase.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Rockford, Ill., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The imposition of "Chicago standards" on Winnebago county is one of the main factors complicating the relief problem here, it was said today by Kay McCurrie, chairman of the county board of supervisors. The relief picture shows that 21.9 per cent of the population of about 100,000 are on relief rolls, which is half again as much as the average for the state.

Average relief per family is climbing much more rapidly than it had, Mr. McCurrie declared, and it is difficult to know how many farm hands have chosen the liberal governmental doles to the fare their employers are able to offer them.

Expenditures to relief families in the county between February and June increased 61 per cent, from $134,774 to $217,304, while the number of families went up only 23 per cent.

Tells Own Situation.

"I've got a man working on my farm who could get more food, clothing, and other things on relief than I can give him for working," said Mr. McCurrie.

"The costs are increasing just because the Illinois emergency relief commission encourages it. Where I used to give a family $4 a week as supervisor of Roscoe township, they give him four times as much. They make Chicago standards apply here."

Mr. McCurrie charged that the community has been deprived of its home rule in relief matters, and that the entire setup is controlled by officials at the Chicago headquarters. Formerly the county relief committee was composed of seven members appointed by the IERC and three members drawn from the county board of township supervisors.

A short time ago the supervisors were told during a meeting that they had no right to vote, but were thereafter to be present in an advisory capacity. The three men resigned immediately.

Board Passes Resolution.

Soon afterward the county board unanimously passed the following resolution:

"Resolved, that the board of supervisors go on record as being dissatisfied with the present handling of relief, and that the federal government be asked to take steps to rectify the situation in this county, and that the county clerk be instructed to send copies of this resolution to Federal Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins and to the United States senators and representatives from this district."

Since then, Chairman McCurrie has been asked twice to approve new appointments to the relief committee, and has refused on grounds that he had no opportunity to familiarize himself with the qualifications of the appointees. Although his approval is required by law, he said, the men became active in relief affairs without it.

Can't Keep It Up.

"After the election the Democrats will cut out a large part of these presents," the chairman declared. "They can't keep it up—we all know that."

"The relief committee has become a rubber stamp for the IERC heads," said Horace Buker, a member of the board of supervisors. "There has been an increasing tendency to disregard the county board. The whole thing is now handled from Chicago without knowledge of local conditions. Case costs have gone up steadily, tending toward making it a socialized affair."

Mr. Buker declared that "standards of a metropolis have been forced on country people." The result, he said, if the burden of supporting indigents is thrown back on local communities, will be to wreck local government. The average relief per family, not including the many gifts from the Federal Surplus Relief corporation, has risen to $28.83 in Winnebago county, not far behind the Cook county figure.

Administration Up 130 Per Cent.

Administration costs for June were $24,705, or 130 per cent more than for February, although the relief expenditures had increased less than half that much.

In June the cost of handling relief was 11.15 per cent of total expenditures, as compared with 7.1 per cent for the year from April, 1933, to April, 1934.

The administrator of relief for the county, which is three-quarters urban, is Miss Prudence Ross. She said that figures on expenditures in recent months could not be given out because they might not agree with those arrived at later by the IERC.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm By Bob Becker

Birds Hold Conclave

September 27, 1934.

WHEN I stopped off at the Tribune auxiliary farm yesterday on my way to the experimental farm I ran into some sort of a morning "conference" between the turkeys and the pheasants. The birds were on the east side of the duck pond when I saw them. The pond is such an interesting corner of the farm these days because different species of waterfowl are constantly dropping in, that I walked around the place to look it over. Slowly making my way along the east side of the pond where there is a thick stand of low oaks and plenty of weeds for bird cover, two pheasants gave me a big scare when they roared into the air not more than 15 feet from me.

After stopping for a moment to look at about 30 ewes calmly grazing under the oaks where the grass is long and thick, I walked ahead again and almost stepped on a pheasant cock. This fellow hustled away with a lot of cackling and complaining about being disturbed. Then a hen pheasant got up and swung to my left.

Inasmuch as the cover was very thick at this spot I figured there might be another pheasant or two still in the thick weeds and grass. However, a surprise bird made his appearance. Out from the edge of the tall grass came the inquisitive head of a turkey gobbler. He gave the appearance of being very suspicious about the intruder who had disturbed the calm of the morning. Then a turkey hen came out of the grass to look things over, craning her neck around to see what it was all about. Behind her walked four poults, all intrigued by the proceedings. Apparently I had stumbled on a morning "meeting" of some kind with six turkeys and a number of pheasants gathered together in the heavy cover around the duck pond. It is not surprising, of course, to find turkeys enjoying a contact with wild birds of any kind. Many of them still retain the urge to "go native" here on the farm, choosing to nest in the woods, spend their time away from barnyards and roost out in the timber.

If a city dweller could see or even sniff the noon dinner which is placed before the boys on the experimental farm who have been helping out with the filling of the silos, he would want to forsake the city for a farm job at once. With John Hill, Clarence Brown, and Chester Holt of the town of Fox, and Flay Sleezer of Millburn assisting the regular farm help, there's quite a gang here at noon. Mrs. Sleezer got them together one day around a dining room table and in order to make sure that no worker would weaken on the job from lack of nourishment she served fried chicken, mashed potatoes and gravy, escalloped corn, cabbage salad, cucumber pickles, bread, butter, apple pie, and coffee.

Needless to say, this meal was enough to bring everybody back on the job eager for another day of silo filling. The next day the boys waded into another dinner consisting of meat loaf, mashed potatoes, gravy, radishes, green onions, banana salad, bread and butter, coffee, and a delicious lemon pie about three inches high.

MAGILL RESIGNS CHURCH POST TO HEAD INVESTORS

Calls New Deal Threat to Utilities.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Dr. Hugh S. Magill yesterday announced his resignation as general secretary of the International Council of Religious Education in order to become president of the American Federation of Utility Investors.

He gave two reasons for his decision: First, that the New Deal is a threat against the holdings of 10,000,000 investors in utility securities; and, second, that Christians are obligated to protect their own and their institutions' honest investments.

The International Council of Religious Education represents educational coöperation of about 30 denominations. It holds the copyright of the American Standard Revision of the Bible and publishes widely used journals for Sunday schools and other educational projects of Protestant denominations.

Assailed by Church Press.

When it was learned last spring that Dr. Magill, who 12 years ago brought about mergers to create the council, had been one of the founders of the utilities federation he was assailed by what he termed radical religious journals and socialist pastors. These declared he had forfeited his right to leadership in the religious education field. The Christian Century, advanced religious journal of Chicago, demanded Dr. Magill's resignation.

"But is it wrong to help honest people to protect their honest investments?" Dr. Magill asked yesterday as he gave his reasons for his decision. "There are 10,000,000 utilities investors in about 800 operating utilities companies throughout the country.

"Until the advent of the Tennessee Valley authority and other threatening New Deal proposals, these utilities were solid. No fault could be found with 90 per cent of them. They are all regulated by law so that only a reasonable return was left to the investors who had made their development possible.

Blames New Deal Projects.

"But now, due to governmental developments, these investors are feeling a new insecurity. According to M. J. Cleary, president of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company, Milwaukee, the life insurance companies are no longer buying utilities stocks and bonds. Mr. Cleary declared that this refusal is due to 'the threat of the government' in the TVA and other projects."

"My issue," Dr. Magill went on, "is this: We not only have a right to protect innocent investors, but also, we ought to protect their rights in every way we can.

"I believe this question is now a great national issue and a great religious one as well."

Dr. Magill's letter of resignation was addressed to Dr. Harold McAfee Robinson of Philadelphia, chairman of the executive committee of the religious education council.

The federation of utilities investors which he will head, Dr. Magill explained, "is strictly an organization of investors. It accepts no financial support of any kind either directly or indirectly from utility companies. It seeks to correct any abuses that may exist either within or without the industry, and to bring about a change in public policies that are unjust and unfair to the investor." The federation, he said, now has 30,000 members.

70,000 CATHOLIC YOUTHS IN MOVIE CLEANUP PARADE

Colorful Loop March Part of Church Drive.

Catholic young people—70,000 of them—marched down Michigan avenue yesterday, bearing American flags and banners in an appeal to the motion picture industry to "clean up" the movies.

The demonstration was Chicago Catholics' third step in their campaign for cleaner films. Under the direction of the Legion of Decency in this archdiocese, united protests had been voiced previously by Catholic men's and women's organizations.

Three Hour Line of March.

After forming in Ohio street at Michigan avenue at 10 a. m., for three hours the thousands of boys and girls marched with military precision down the boulevard before thousands of older people who lined the sidewalks.

Twenty-five uniformed bands, their instruments gleaming in the bright sunlight, were interspersed among the parochial school delegations. Schools through the grammar grades, high schools, colleges, and universities, including Loyola and De Paul, were represented, each carrying banners proclaiming their stand for better movies.

Marshaled By Judge Burke.

The parade was marshaled by Judge Joseph Burke and headed by motorcycle and mounted police, the Black Horse troop, the Boy Scouts, and the Catholic Youth organization band. Then followed the schools in the alphabetic order of their names, girls in the navy blue white collared uniforms of their schools, girls' bands—such as the St. Mary's High school band—in blue capes and white uniforms, athletic groups in their uniforms, nurses from Catholic hospitals, smaller children, wearing red, white and blue caps. There were floats, too—one bearing the coat of arms of Cardinal Mundelein.

The children passed in review before church, military and civic dignitaries at Monroe street. In the reviewing stand were Archbishop McNicholas of Cincinnati, chairman of the bishops' committee of the national council of the Legion of Decency; Bishop William D. O'Brien, Mayor Kelly, Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius, Maj. Gen. Preston Brown, Anthony Czarnicki, State's Attorney Courtney, and Father F. J. Dineen, Chicago representative of the Legion of Decency.

After the parade Archbishop McNicholas issued a statement saying that the "unity and solidarity of the movement for clean and decent pictures has been expressed in terms which no one can misunderstand."

Charge Nucio with Murder in Barber Shop Shooting

Dominick Nucio, identified as one of three gunmen who fled from a barber shop at 11857 South Michigan avenue Sept. 15 after the murder there of Joseph Adduci, 45 years old, a city water department employé, was formally charged with murder yesterday in a warant issued by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in the Felony court. He was ordered held without bond, and a pending petition for a writ of habeas corpus was automatically dismissed.

POLICE HUNT MISSING GIRL.

Police yesterday were asked to seek Edna Friedel, 16 years old, 3322 Ravenswood avenue, who has been missing from her home since Sept. 13. Her stepfather, Policeman Edward Mendahall, said he and his wife, Edna, had opposed the girl's request that she leave school and go to work.

You Work This Hard

BETTER LIGHT... BETTER SIGHT

When you strain your eyes you wear out your body. Protect your eyesight and safeguard your general health by adequate lighting in your home.

SCIENCE has answered this question: Which is the harder physical task—strenuous effort that requires the vigorous use of the body, or work that is done by eyes while sitting at ease.

The answer is: Reading, sewing, or eye and head work of any kind, that is done under poor light, takes as much out of your body as scrubbing floors or digging ditches.

Lighting Advice FREE

Every mother wants her family to have proper light by which to read or study. But when any of them, and especially when a child, holds a book or paper abnormally close, or squints in the effort to see, something is wrong with eyes or light—or both.

To find out whether it is the light, let us send a lighting expert to confer with you. She will bring with her a "Sight Meter." With it she will test every reading and sewing location in your home. She may suggest a change in the size of your lamp bulbs, or she may recommend a rearrangement of your lamps, or your shades.

There Are NEW Lamps

Or, if you wish to give assured protection to the eyesight of your family, she may recommend that you try one of the new lamps that are now on display at all Commonwealth Edison Electric Shops. These lamps are a product of scientific lighting engineering, after long experimentation. They are especially designed to afford comfortable, safe lighting in the home, and are very moderately priced.

Simply telephone Randolph 1200, Local 197, to get the aid of an expert. Or visit one of our Shops and see for yourself demonstrations of "good" and "bad" lighting—and the new lamps.

HAVE YOU SEEN THE NEW "SIGHT METER?"

The "Sight Meter" measures light. It is an application of the almost magical "electric eye." And it shows the amount of light you get from any lamp as simply as a thermometer shows how hot or cold it is. It will show you the amount of light your lamps give in any part of your home.

To get a FREE "Sight Meter" test of the light in your home, call Randolph 1200, Local 197.

Ask about the easy payment plan. A small down payment, balance monthly on your Electric Service bill. To cover interest and other costs, a somewhat higher price is charged for appliances sold on deferred payments.

BY MARY MEADE.

Did you ever hear of any law stating that, in the realm of coffee cakes, frostings must go on the top or the bottom? Nor have I. Yet it seems that most of us are guilty of serving these feathery breakfast affairs either crowned or footed with frosting, with never a thought that we might perform some happy stunt with them now and again for the pleasant sake of variety.

Just for instance, why not surprise yourself some morning with a coffee cake neither topped nor based with sweet stuff, but with some delectable "goo" or other flirting from between the top and bottom halves?

Blueberries will make the perfect filling for this new sweet-heart. Add spices for flavor, flour for thickening, butter for richness, and sugar for all around goodness. But first, the cake itself, which goes like this:

Filled Blueberry Coffee Cake.

¼ cup butter
1-3 cup sugar
2 eggs, separated
1 cup sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ cup unsweetened evaporated milk
¼ cup water
¼ teaspoon salt

Cream together the butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Add the well beaten egg yolks. Sift the flour once, measure out a cup of it, then sift again with the salt and baking powder. Combine the milk and water. Add this mixture to the creamed sugar and butter alternately with the dry ingredients. Fold in the stiff beaten egg whites.

And now comes the innovation. Spread half the bater in a greased pan. Over this arrange the Blueberry Filling described below. Carefully pour onto this the rest of the batter, evening the top. Bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) for 25 minutes. Serve hot or cold.

Blueberry Filling for Coffee Cake.

1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 teaspoons flour
1-3 cup sifted brown sugar
¾ cup drained canned blueberries
1 tablespoon melted butter

Combine the cinnamon, flour, and brown sugar. Add the blueberries and spread this filling over the first layer of the coffee cake batter described above. Sprinkle the filling with the melted butter and add the remaining batter.

But if you're an ambitious somebody you'll never be content to stop with blueberries. Red or black raspberries, sour cherries, crushed pineapple, red plums—any of these and dozens of others tease us to change the filling every time there's a coffee cake. A blend of peanut butter, maple sirup, and nuts made into a thick paste gives still more chance for changes.

But maybe, with all my encouragement, you still don't care for secrets and prefer your frosting where you can see it without peeking. Then let me present you with the best spiced Coffee Cake of my acquaintance:

Spiced Coffee Cake.

2 cups sifted pastry flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1-3 cup sugar
¾ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon mace
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg
1-3 cup butter
1-3 cup milk
1 egg, beaten
½ cup seedless raisins or currants

TOPPING.

2 tablespoons melted butter
¼ cup sugar
1 tablespoon flour
½ teaspoon cinnamon

Sift together the flour, baking powder, sugar, salt, and spices. Cut in the butter, blending carefully. Combine the egg and milk and add these all at once, stirring the batter until smooth. Add the currants and turn into a greased layer pan, spreading the dough evenly. Brush the top with the two tablespoons of melted butter, then sprinkle it with the blended sugar, flour, and cinnamon. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) for 25 to 30 minutes.

SERVE APPLES WITH PORK TO IMPROVE BOTH

It is a fact that complementary flavors when served together enhance each other. This is the reason that meat and fruits, served or cooked together, have become such great favorites. Such a recipe is this:

Pork Chops with Apples.

Pork chops
1 tablespoon fat
4 tart apples
1 cup cider
6 whole cloves
Flour
Salt
Pepper

Have the chops cut about ¾ inch thick. Season with salt and pepper, dredge with flour, and brown on both sides in hot fat. Core the apples and slice into a baking dish. Lay chops on the apple slices and pour over them the cider in which the cloves have been heated and removed. Cover and bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] until the apples are tender and the chops are done.

AAA LOSES MILK SUIT IN FEDERAL COURT IN INDIANA

Defeated in Test Case on Marketing.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The Agricultural Adjustment administration today lost a test case here of its powers to regulate the price and sale of milk. Judge Robert C. Baltzell of federal court denied the application of the United States and Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, for an injunction to prevent the Greenwood Dairy Farms, Inc., from operating in noncompliance with the Indianapolis milk marketing agreement.

The decision was based on the finding that the dairy firm is engaged in intrastate commerce and that it "is entitled to the protection afforded it by the constitution."

Judge Baltzell's decision was interpreted as meaning the collapse of the AAA milk marketing setup in Indianapolis. In addition to denying the injunction sought by the government he granted an injunction by the defendant company protecting it from interference in its business by the federal government.

IT'S TIME TO SERVE Eatmor Cranberries

Every housewife should have a friendly feeling towards cranberries. They are so good to look at—have such a different and good flavor—and there are such a variety of ways to serve them.

Try this recipe:

JELLIED CRANBERRY SAUCE
4 cups cranberries 2 cups water
2 cups granulated sugar
Boil cranberries with water until berries stop popping. Strain through fine sieve; add sugar and stir; then boil rapidly for 8 to 10 minutes—or until a drop jells on a cold plate. Turn at once into a wet mold; and cool.

Your grocer or fruit dealer can supply you with additional tested recipes—or send a postal card to Dept. N—American Cranberry Exchange, 90 West Broadway, New York City.

LATE FOOD CROPS GO INTO STORAGE FOR WINTER USE

Shortage Fear Banished; Prices Some Lower.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Generous supplies of late crops that form the backbone of the nation's winter food stocks are being put in storage in terminal warehouses, city and farm cellars, and large producers' storehouses throughout the country.

For many weeks producers, consumers, and food handlers will be as busy as squirrels putting away for winter use semi-perishable fruits and vegetables, including apples and pears, potatoes, turnips, sweet potatoes, rutabagas, cabbage, parsnips, celery, squash, and onions. Despite the drouth there has been enough food produced during late summer and early fall to put an end to the worry about the United States having enough to eat this winter.

Onions and Potatoes Plentiful.

Favorable fall weather has made it possible for potatoes to continue their growth, adding many bushels to the crop that is yet to be dug in the northern states. The late onion crop in the northern states is better than growers expected earlier in the season. This is especially true in Wisconsin, where many onions are produced for the Chicago market. Wisconsin's onion acreage was decreased this year but the total 1934 harvest will be substantially more than it was last year or the average for the last five years.

Many Late Vegetables.

For several days the work of harvesting has been in full swing in regions where there is produced such late crops as tomatoes, celery, potatoes, sweet potatoes, carrots, beets, cauliflower, cabbage, radishes, cucumbers, green beans, grapes, apples, and pears. Fine specimens of these fruits and vegetables are now coming to Chicago in large quantities.

In addition to the liberal shipments of fruits and vegetables coming to the city the supply of lamb is above normal. There also is a more plentiful supply of the less popular grades of beef and pork available.

This bountiful supply of an assortment of fresh products has resulted in a downward market trend of practically all types of foods. Meat markets today and tomorrow are featuring lower prices on lamb loin chops, lamb shoulder roasts, beef chucks and loins, and forequarter cuts of pork loins.

Cattle Sales Lower Prices.

Market experts point out that greater supplies and lower prices of meat at the present time mean that farmers are selling their live stock early to avoid finishing the animals with expensive feed. They warn consumers that this will reduce the tonnage of beef and may mean higher meat prices in late winter.

In their further comments on the meat situation these market experts say that top cuts of pork loins are from 14½ to 15 cents a pound wholesale. From these same loins some retailers are selling chops at an average of from 25 to 32 cents a pound, while other butchers have reduced their prices to 25 cents a pound, which correspond to the wholesale market.

Some Food Prices Cut.

In general there have been few price changes in most foods this week as compared to a week ago, although shoppers will find that some stores are offering at slightly reduced prices such foods as flour, tomato juice, sirup, pancake flour, sugar, head lettuce, cabbage, and lettuce.

The first of Florida's grapefruit arrived this week. The quality is good and prices are reasonable. The last of California's Valencia oranges will be coming to market during the next few weeks. Growers have their orange shipping schedules timed so that the first of the new crop of Florida juice and California navel oranges already are beginning to come in from the citrus groves.

AUTUMN PICNIC IS MADE EASIER BY EXPERT AID

Tribune Booklets Are Constant Help.

Crunching through brown, dead leaves is fun. And fall picnics are gay. But when the sun starts to go down the greatest sport of all is to go into a huddle around the camp fire and cook hot, filling foods. An interesting new variety of these foods to be cooked over the fire is in Mary Meade's booklet, "Let's Have a Picnic."

This booklet is sold at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, Tribune Tower, or Hall of Science, A Century of Progress, for 3 cents. Or send 5 cents, stamps or coin, to Mary Meade, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

ADAPT CELLAR TO STORAGE OF VARIOUS FOODS

Extensive storage of vegetables will require the use of several portions of the cellar or pit. Different vegetables require varied storage conditions.

Potatoes, beets, carrots, horseradish, parsnips, winter radishes, rutabagas, turnips, salsify, and cabbage require cool, moist conditions with little circulation of air.

Cool moist conditions with free circulation of air are best for celery, rhubarb, kohl-rabi, leek, brussels sprouts, parsley, endive, and popcorn.

Onions, garlic, dry beans, and dry peas require cool, dry conditions with plenty of air circulation.

BARGAINS HERE IN VEGETABLES FOR CANNING

Relishes, Pickles Worth Work Involved.

BY MABEL BRYANT.

The smart housewife who knows the joy of having an abundant supply of delicious crispy, crunchy, and savory pickles, relishes, etc., doesn't wait until the eleventh hour when vegetables are sky high in price, but watches the markets with a "blue eagle" eye for the many good values available, which pay well for the hard work connected with canning—for cooking means tedious work, and lots of it!

The results are so bountiful, though, that one forgets the time involved when the last of the fall vegetables have been safely stored away in attractive jars in neat rows on the pantry shelves.

"Dead Line" Approaches.

With the exception of sweet corn, green tomatoes, and a few other summer vegetables, one may make small amounts of relishes most any time of the year. Right now, though, the "dead line" is fast approaching for obtaining fresh vegetables at bargain prices, especially those which are so necessary for certain varieties of relishes and pickles.

An old time favorite during our grandmother's day, which still holds its popularity as a delicious accompaniment to cold meats, is called chow-chow. The many vegetables that go into the making of this piquant appetizer are on the market now and are so reasonably priced that one should take advantage of the opportunity. This very good pickle is made by the following method.

Break into pieces, keeping each flower intact, one cauliflower, one dozen small cucumbers, one quart of small green tomatoes, one pint of very small onions, and one quart of tender green beans. Cover the vegetables with salt water, after cutting into small pieces, and let stand overnight in earthenware crock or bowl.

Cover with Vinegar.

Next morning, drain the pickles and cover with two quarts of vinegar and let come slowly to boil. Pour off vinegar and strain it. Next mix one ounce of turmeric powder, one ounce dry mustard, one half ounce ground cloves, half ounce ground allspice, half ounce pepper, and one tablespoon salt.

Moisten with a little vinegar and work into a smooth paste, reheating the remainder of the two quarts of vinegar to the boiling point. Stir in the mixed spices, boil and pour over the vegetables that have been packed in jars after having drained off the vinegar. Seal while hot.

Another grand relish is made possible with sweet corn, which is still available. One should not wait too long, however, if one wishes to get in under the wire with this delicious relish. Method for this prize recipe is in the order given:

Twelve cups corn cut from the cob, twelve cups of cabbage chopped, two red and two green sweet peppers chopped, two teaspoons mustard seed, two teaspoons celery seed, three cups sugar, two quarts vinegar, two tablespoons salt, and one-half teaspoon turmeric powder. Mix all together and boil slowly for half hour after the boiling point has been reached. Seal while hot in sterilized jars.

Tribune Recipes

COCOA BISCUITS.

2½ cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
5 teaspoons baking powder
4 level tablespoons cocoa
6 tablespoons cold shortening
1 cup milk.

Sift the dry ingredients together twice and cut in the shortening until the mixture is coarse and mealy. Add the milk a little at a time, using as little as possible to make a dough which will hold together, but is not wet. Roll or pat out on a floured board to ¾ inch thickness and cut with a floured cutter. Bake on a floured sheet in a very hot oven [450 degrees F.]. These biscuits may be dropped from a spoon instead of being rolled.

EASY APPLE MUFFINS.

16 graham crackers
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons melted butter
¼ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup milk, scalded
1 egg, well beaten
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 cooking apples
Cinnamon.

Roll the crackers into crums and add the sugar, butter, and salt, working them together thoroughly. Add the milk, egg, and finally stir in the baking powder. Turn into greased muffin pans, filling them only two-thirds full. Now lay two or three slices of apple on top of each muffin and sprinkle with cinnamon. Bake in a hot oven [425 degrees F.] 20 to 25 minutes. This makes a dozen small apple muffins.

EGGPLANT TIMBALES.

1 eggplant, pared and cut in slices
2 tablespoons butter
½ cup bread crums
2 eggs, well beaten
2 teaspoons chopped onions
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Cook the eggplant in boiling salted water until soft. Drain, mash, and add the other ingredients. Pack into greased individual baking dishes and bake for 15 minutes in a moderate oven [375 degrees F.].

AVERS RELIGIOUS GROUPS RUN OWN LOTTERIES IN N. Y.

New York, Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Charges that religious organizations whose representatives attended the public hearing at the city hall today to oppose the lottery plan for raising relief funds operated lotteries, raffles, and sweepstakes for the benefit of their respective churches were made to Mayor La Guardia by Joseph Goldsmith of the real estate council of New York.

Previous to the hearing Mayor La Guardia called a meeting of the committee on local laws of the board of aldermen for Monday for the purpose of considering the sales tax and salary tax proposals.

Mr. Goldsmith, chairman of the committee appointed by Aldermanic President Bernard S. Deutsch to study tax exempt property owned by churches and sectarian organizations, also charged that these organizations derived profits from the properties and challenged the representatives present to waive exemption.

The churches also came in for criticism at the hands of the Rev. Thomas E. Little, director general of the American Protestant league, who demanded that all sectarian property be taxed.

Don't Hide All Your Frailties from Children

Exchange of Confidences Makes for Intimacy.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Are you so poised and controled and "reasonable" that your children think you are not quite human? I don't suppose any of us quite achieve this state, except in spots, but many of us struggle to do so.

Sometimes I think it's a mistake to aim quite so high. In our desire not to impose on our children our own worries or humors or moods we may perhaps seem too aloof to them, too above the doldrums or desires or disappointments that they may be experiencing and feeling so keenly.

"But, mom," said one 12 year old daughter who couldn't at the last moment go to the longed-for circus, "I feel as if I couldn't stand it if I had to stay home. You can't imagine how terribly I want to go. You don't want things hard the way I do."

"I suppose I do seem that way to Barbara," thought the mother. So she told her daughter of a bitter disappointment she had had the last winter when she had expected to go to the first performance of a new American opera—one she was anxious to hear. She described how father had "spread" himself on the tickets and she had made herself a new gown, and how, just before it was time to step into the taxi, father had received a telegram calling him immediately out of town. She told her daughter how she had had to hurry from the room so no one would see her tears of disappointment.

"Gosh, mother!" the daughter said, her eyes round, "I didn't know grown-ups wanted things hard like that. You're always so sort of . . . sort of even. Then you do know how I feel, don't you?"

A 17 year old daughter said to her mother reproachfully one day, "You're always happy, mother, aren't you? You never feel moody or cross or unhappy the way I do!" So the mother laid aside her sewing and talked to her daughter as she never had before. She opened her heart to her—told her something of what lay beneath the surface of her consistently cheerful manner—not enough to depress her sensitive child, but enough to make her understand that she had her heights and her depths — her moods and low moments — too.

Naturally we do not want all our feelings—either of happiness or unhappiness—mirrored in our faces. Our children might then say, as one little girl did when she saw the turbulent ocean for the first time, "There's too much emotion in it." But it's well not to be too blank faced, too deliberately casual, too calm and collected, so that our children need to stick pins in us to find out we're flesh and blood.

Young modern parents who bring up their children too much by "the book" are in danger of being denatured. It gives them a fellow feeling with us and makes them realize that we can understand and sympathize if we let them see our humanness.

Mrs. August Belmont to Visit Chicago

Arrives Tomorrow with Eliot Wadsworths.

the son of Mrs. John McEwen of Winnetka, have chosen to be married in the quietest manner possible, with only twenty-five members of their immediate families present.

The Rev. Father F. J. Haarth of Hubbard Woods will read the service at 12 o'clock in the drawing room of the Hamill home. Miss Hamill will be unattended, but Mr. McEwen will be served by his brother, William, as best man. Immediately following the ceremony there will be a breakfast for the guests, and then Mr. McEwen and his bride will leave on a wedding trip, which is reported to have Europe as a destination. Upon their return they will make their home in Cincinnati, where Mr. McEwen is in business.

Miss Beebe to Wed at Olympia Fields.

Another wedding today is that of Miss June Beebe of golfing fame, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Leslie Beebe, and Philip Trowbridge Atwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Thomas Atwood. Appropriately enough, the ceremony is to be read by Dr. John Gordon of Rockford at 5 o'clock at the Olympia Fields Country club, where Miss Beebe spends so much of her time.

Mrs. Norman Lee Anderson will attend her sister as matron of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Katherine Urban, Mrs. George McCausland of Evanston, and Mrs. Curtis J. Harrison and Mrs. Norbert W. Jeran of New York City. Mr. McCausland will serve Mr. Atwood as best man and ushering will be Mr. Anderson, Edward Davis, Robert Beebe, and Louis Schultz of Rockford.

A reception will follow the ceremony and then Mr. Atwood and his bride will leave on a wedding trip to the west coast. After Nov. 10 they are to be at home in the Delaware Towers.

Evans-Sims Rites Will Be Nov. 17.

In the same manner that her sister Susan became Mrs. Richard G. Coffin not so many years ago, Miss Priscilla Sims, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Sims, will be married to John Ford Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Timothey Wallace Evans, the evening of Nov. 17.

As before, the service will be read at 8 o'clock in the drawing room of the Sims' home in the presence of only the immediate families and a very few intimate friends. Then there will be a reception with dancing at the Fortnightly club, which is next door to the Sims' house.

Mrs. Peter C. Krupp is to attend her sister as matron of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Anne Gruner of St. Louis, who has spent summers in Michigan near the Sims ranch at Au Gres; Mrs. Thomas Donovan, who before her recent marriage was Mary Callender; Miss Valerie Haight, and Miss Dorothy Ruttle. Mrs. Donovan, Miss Haight, and Miss Ruttle were all classmates of Miss Sims at the University School for Girls.

Wallace Evans of Charleston, W. Va., will serve his brother as best man. Ushering will be Edwin W. Sims Jr., William F. Crum, Edward Gammie, a brother of John Gammie, who married Helen Sims, and Charles Newhall.

The many pre-nuptial parties for Miss Sims and Mr. Evans start with the cocktail party Mrs. William D. Callender is to give the afternoon of Oct. 6 at her town apartment. On Oct. 10 Mrs. Krupp is entertaining for her sister at luncheon, a shower and bridge at her home at 35 East Elm street. Mr. Newhall has reserved the evening of Oct. 20 for a dinner dance for the wedding party at the South Shore Country club.

Foreign Relations Meeting Today.

Dr. Walter Lichtenstein, president of the Council on Foreign Relations, will introduce Clifton Utley this noon when he addresses the opening meeting of the council in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer house. Others at the speakers' table will be Mrs. Utley, Mrs. Lichtenstein, Mr. and Mrs. Clay Judson, Mrs. John Paul Welling, Victor Elting, Mr. and Mrs. Barrett Wendell Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Adams, and Stephen Y. Hord.

Mr. Utley will survey the developments of the last four months in international affairs and will appraise the present situation in view of these developments.

Invitations to the cocktail party that the Alfred Wolfes were giving tomorrow for Miss Dorothy Schmidt have been recalled because of the illness of Mr. Wolfe's father, who lives in Colorado Springs. Miss Schmidt's marriage to Otto Teegen of New York will take place Oct. 6.

Miss Honor Merrell, who has taken over the presidency of the North Avenue Day Nursery to fill out Mrs. George Jaeger Jr.'s term, has called a board meeting for next Tuesday at her home at 209 Lake Shore drive to discuss plans for the annual benefit. It will be another costume party similar to those of the last two years that were so successful, a Mae West one last fall and a County Fair the year before. Mrs. Jaeger resigned as president owing to ill health.

Harvest Home Party at Glen View Club.

Warm orange folders that fairly breathe autumn were in yesterday's mail for the harvest home party the Glen View club is to have Oct. 6. The day will bring the climax in golf for the club members, for the last of the season's competitive events will be played. Then the Harvest Home cup presented by William H. Bartlett to be awarded to any one winning the harvest home tourney three times will have another name engraved upon it. A prize is also awarded the winner of each annual tournament.

In the evening there is to be the last informal dinner and dance of this year. Dancing will continue until well after midnight. The club directorate is allowing each member to bring four guests.

Sunbeam League to Have Tea Today.

Mrs. Otto Mast, president of the Sunbeam league, will entertain the league members at tea today at her home, 7015 Chappel avenue. Plans will be discussed for the ball the the league is to have the evening of Nov. 17 in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel. Early reports are that the setting is to be especially effective this year with gayly colored screens surrounding the room and revolving lights supplying the illumination.

Mrs. Walter B. Wolf has returned after a few weeks in the east, where she went partly on business and partly for pleasure. She and her sons, Walter J. Watson and Hathaway Watson Jr., passed each other en route. The boys were on their way to Cambridge where Walter is a junior and Hathaway a sophomore at Harvard. Her son-in-law and daughter, the Walter F. McLallens, are in Philadelphia staying with Mrs. Wolf's brother, Allan Pettit, and will not return to their Lake Forest home until October.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Simpson, who have been spending the summer at their home in Menlo Park, Cal., are arriving at home Sunday morning.

Model Offers Triple Chic

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Here is a wonderful pattern, whether you want a smart suit, a separate coat, or a separate dress of the shirtwaist type. The pattern includes the dress and the coat. A gray and red tweed mixture made the original model, and as a separate dress it's stunning in checked crêpe, necktie silk, and gay angora plaid.

The pattern, No. 3376, comes in sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure.

Fashion flash!—The autumn and winter edition of the Chicago Tribune Book of Clotilde Fashions is ready. Its pages are filled with entrancing modes and instructions for your new fall wardrobe. Mosaic Quilt Has Right Triangle as Basic Design

Mosaic No. 10.

BY NANCY CABOT.

With the introduction of the right triangle patch, many unusual block arrangements have been set together. This same little triangle is credited with creating the first and simplest form of quilt block. "Mosaic No. 10" is a striking example of how effectively a combination of light and dark colors may be arranged.

Theater Polls Youngsters on Child Players

Cora Sue Collins Leads in Hollywood Vote.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The Iris theater on Hollywood boulevard, which holds the most popular children's film matinées here, takes the Hollywood juvenile's own poll of the popularity of young stars. The vote to date: Cora Sue Collins, 2,642; Baby Le Roy, 2,312; Shirley Temple, 1,989.

Hollywood's own idea regarding Shirley Temple's popularity of the moment is that it is derived chiefly from adults, particularly mothers who see in the sparkling eyed little blonde girl their own idealized vision of the way their own children look and act in Sunday best.

Glenda Farrell gets the lead in Warner's "Women Are Bum Newspapermen." She also played a reporter in the recent Warner success "Hi, Nellie." . . . Joe E. Brown has left on a hasty trip to San Francisco to see his son Don, just back from working his way aboard the liner President Coolidge on a round trip to China, before Brown rushes to Chicago, Toledo [the old Brown family home] and Detroit. The comedian expects to see every game of the world series and picks Detroit to win because of the way Mickey Cochrane has his team on its toes trying, and the way the Tigers have convinced themselves they are unbeatable. Brown used to play professional baseball and at present is part owner of the Kansas City American Association club.

The wardrobe of M-G-M is fitting Carole Lombard in the first cellophane velvet gown ever created. Seven yards of cellophane velvet, produced as an experiment by a manufacturer in New York, were rushed to Los Angeles by plane. It is glittery looking stuff but the nap is not brittle. Carole will slither in it through dressy scenes in "Repeal."

Charlie Chaplin expects to have no dialog but many new and novel sound effects in the picture with Paulette Goddard as lead, which he is to commence next week. Willy Pogany, famous artist and illustrator, is his art director and scene designer, and Carter De Haven is to act as Chaplin's assistant director. Chaplin always acts as his own director. The film is tentatively promised for January release by United Artists.

Eddie Cantor, accompanied by Ed Levin of Chicago for his guide, left yesterday en route for Chicago and will be guest of the World's Fair all day Saturday. His new comedy "Kid Millions" has been cut to the required eight reels as a result of added scenes shot after its preview at San Diego last Sunday. The added scenes were required to tie together the thread of the story after the elimination of a couple of reels.

Max Reinhardt left Los Angeles yesterday declaring that in his thirty years as producer of spectacular shows: "I searched through all the artistic centers and never found a Pucklike Mickey Rooney." Young Mickey, originally Joe Yule Jr., son of a Chicago vaudeville couple, was a hit in the run of Reinhardt's coast spectacle, "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Jack Larue's sister, Emily Biondalillo, 18 years old, is one of the chorus girls accepted for Bus Berkeley's new beauty battalion in "Gold Diggers of 1935" at Warner's. Reared in New York until a year ago, Miss Biondalillo was graduated from Hollywood High school.

Juvenile Research Institute to Mark 25th Anniversary

The Institute for Juvenile Research, the first institute for child guidance in the United States, will hold its 25th anniversary celebration tonight at a dinner in the Medinah Club of Chicago.

The speakers will include Gov Horner, Mayor Kelly, A. L. Bowen director of the state department of public welfare; Dr. William Healy, first director of the institute, now director of the Judge Baker Foundation of Boston; Dr. David Levy, former chief of the Institute of Child Guidance, New York; Dr. Julius Hess, Henry P. Chandler, and Mrs. William F. Dummer, who aided financially in the institute's founding.

Each year nearly 4,000 examinations of children are made by the institute staf and treatment prescribed. Dr. Paul L. Schroeder is present director of the institute, which is located at 907 South Lincoln street.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. W. Tudor Ap Madoc of 2200 Sheridan road, Evanston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Gill, to Emmett O. Brown, also of Evanston.

Hollywood

BY SIDNEY SKOLSKY.

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 27.—Grace Moore in "One Night of Love" is breaking box office records throughout the country, and Wallace Beery is making "The Mighty Barnum" for Darryl Znuck. This got Metro thinking. They have a flicker called "A Lady's Morals," which was a flop. In this picture Grace Moore plays Jenny Lind and sings several arias. In this same picture Wallace Beery plays Barnum. Metro ran this "Lady's Morals" off in the projection room before a group of executives with a view to reissuing the film and cashing in on Grace Moore's success and Beery's publicity as Barnum. But the picture is so bad that the executives voted against it, although it did seem like making easy money.

The Ross Alexanders have separated and Mrs. Alexander is now in the east preparing to get the divorce. . . . It's a boy over at the Ralph Graingers—he wrote the melody of "Love in Bloom."

El Brendel was about to start on a personal appearance tour. He didn't want to pay rent for the house while he was away, so he called in a renting agent. The agent asked him for a figure for a month's rent and said he would see about renting the house for him. . . . Several days later the agent returned and showed El Brendel his specially prepared "houses for rent" pamphlet. The first photo was that of Brendel's, and the literature told of the number of rooms, how gorgeously they were furnished, the comforts of the house, and the very low and reasonable rent asked. Brendel was amazed. "This is my house?" he asked, "the one I'm in now?" The agent answered, "Yes." "Why, it's a beauty and a bargain," said Brendel, "I'd be a dope to let it go." The renting agent has sold Brendel on his own house.

It is strange how people come to Hollywood to do one thing, act in pictures, and then to see what they wind up doing. There is Johnny Westwood. He came to the cinema city and was first given movie work because he looked like Fredric March. He could pass as a double for March. Yet it seems that there is room in pictures for only one Fredric March.

But Johnny Westwood was in Hollywood and he had to keep working. He has a job today and it is in connection with Freddy March. Westwood is March's secretary. They became acquainted because of the resemblance. When it became necessary Johnny Westwood has posed as Fredric March and has walked out of restaurants and signed autograph books without any one being the wiser.

Another remarkable instance dates back to the days when Norma Talmadge was one of the big box office draws in flickers. Miss Talmadge walked into the Italian embassy at Washington, noted a handsome Italian, and told him he ought to be in pictures.

Miss Talmadge not only told this handsome Italian but also helped get him a job. He is Mario di Carraciollo, and his family has a boulevard named after them in Naples. He left the embassy to try pictures. He changed his name and the movie colony knew him as Mario Carillo.

Mario worked in several pictures, but he just couldn't act. It was a great disappointment to him. He was not to be a picture star. He quit pictures. What do you think he's doing now? He's back in Italy, one of the secretaries to Mussolini.

Eddie Cantor's "Kid Millions" has an ice cream fantasy sequence in color, very beautiful, in which the children find their dream come true. They can eat all the ice cream they desire. The sequence shows the kids before eating the ice cream and after with their stomachs filled and protruding. Yet the censors wouldn't permit the female kiddies to be seen after eating the ice cream. Some one should censor the censors.

Damon Runyon's unique contract with Fox calls for him to get $25,000 for the refusal rights to three stories, which means that Fox pays him that money merely for the privilege of being the first to read and pass on his next three yarns. . . . Frank Shields, the tennis player, is being considered for pictures by Metro.

She is still a big movie actress, although not the leading lady she used to be several years ago. Recently she was divorced from her husband, who was a director. The other night a friend was at her house for dinner. When the maid served the soup the guest sat upright in his chair, startled.

"That maid?" he asked. "She looks exactly like your ex-husband's first wife."

"It is his first wife," answered the movie actress.

She then went on to explain that she had hired her ex-hubby's first wife because she needed a job badly. And also because she wanted to be near her children, who were living with the actress. The husband had received custody of the children when he divorced the first wife, and they were being brought up by the actress. . . . There's nothing too strange for Hollywood.

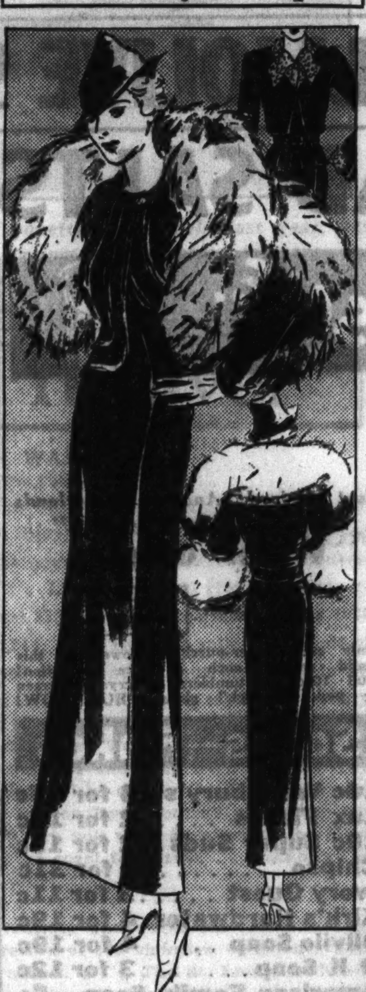
New Coats Either Heavily Furred or Severely Simple



BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—There are two kinds of coats that are big stuff in Paris fall and winter fashions. One is the drap of mossy woolen with fur applied without stint. The other is the coat of rough, husky wool, with fur greatly reduced in quantity. Both are smart.

Dresses that go under these coats are slim and strict, but the dress that goes with the heavily fur hung coat has brilliant trimmings like spangles, bead embroidery, or vivid velvet. The one that goes under the rough coat has bits of the gayest color at the neck and waistline.

The Lucien Lelong coat shown is the first type of wrap. It makes use of natural lynx, a beloved fur to be revived in Paris this season. It is of black, mossy surfaced wool and is trimmed with curved tucks to the waistline in front. Four or more lynx skins go to make the wide and rounded bands that go around the neck and down the front and do spirals on the sleeves.

The slim line frock that goes with this coat is made of black silk. It has moonlight gray spangles making the yoke and tabs at the neck and the cuffs on the loose sleeves.

Often the Wife Should Handle Pay Envelope

One Reader Offers Good Reason Why.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Just to prove again that no arbitrary ruling can be made that will apply equally well to all marriage partnerships, we present Reader's version of the pay envelope disbursement. Reader's retort was brought on through a letter published here from a bride-to-be whose intention to confiscate the pay envelope in its entirety each week was already causing trouble. Says Reader:

"I always read your column and always thought it great until that recent day when I read that the wife had no right to usurp the pay envelope. You're wrong, and I'll prove it. I have been married only seven months, but I feel that I have the right to do just what that 'moron-minded' girl [or so described in your column] did.

"Let me explain. In July, 1933, my fiancé, the day after he proposed and we had agreed to begin saving, went out and bought a new, expensive car. He put himself in debt to the tune of over $900, to be paid in monthly instalments. As he is a salesman and needed a car, I didn't say much. But after we talked it over, he agreed with me that a much cheaper car would have done just as well. In fact, better under the financial circumstances.

"We got that debt paid off, finally. Then we got married. I drew a love of a mother-in-law, a perfect dear, one who puts herself in the young wife's place and interferes only with the best of advice. I am crazy about her, which is beside the point, except that she warned me that I had better hold the purse strings and hold them tightly.

"Well, two months after we were married, if he didn't come home with another new and expensive car for which he had traded in the other one and for which he got virtually no credit. He had signed on the dotted line and put us in debt for eighteen months of fifty-dollar-a-month payments. Then, I thought it time for me to take over the reins. Luckily, he was good enough to argue that he is a sucker for salesmen. I am crazy abouth the darling, but that fifty a month out of our monthly income is a terrible strain. There won't be another such drag again while I'm handling the money end. So you see, some of us wives simply have to keep the books and act as stingy cashiers in order to float at all."

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Roosevelt were hosts at tea this afternoon entertaining members of the Mexican polo team and those of the U. S. Army polo team who are competing in the international polo tournament in Potomac park this week, the Army having won the first two games.

Mrs. William Fitch Kelly, who has been in her country home, the Knoll on the Rockville road since her return from Illinois, is again in her apartment at Wardman Park hotel for the winter. Mrs. Kelly, who is president of the League of Republican Women of Washington, spent the summer with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. McClure Kelly at Geneva, Ill.

Children's Movie Programs at Field Museum Open Oct. 6

The annual autumn series of free motion picture programs for children on Saturday mornings at the James Simpson theater of the Field Museum of Natural History will begin Oct. 6. The programs are sponsored by the James Nelson and Anna Louise Raymond Foundation for Public School and Children's Lectures.

The series of 39 films will cover a wide variety of subjects from wild animals to historical events, from travel pictures to industrial studies. Two showings will be given each Saturday, one at 10 a. m. and another at 11 a. m.

And I had to be scolded into trying it:
MIDOL
"A friend who knew how I suffered every month kept scolding me until I had to try Midol. How glad I am that she did! Two tablets see me through my worst day comfortably. I tell every girl I discover who is still suffering the way I used to."
Many users of these remarkable tablets have given them endorsement as strong as that! Many are grateful enough to spread the word at every opportunity. For Midol does bring definite relief, and prompt relief from periodic pain even to those who have always suffered severely. You can go through this trying time without those severe pains if you use Midol.
Midol is as harmless as the aspirin you take for an ordinary headache. Don't be afraid of the speed with which Midol takes hold; it is not a narcotic. All drug-stores have these tablets; just ask for Midol—today, so you'll be ready.

FIGHTING ILLINI GIVE BIG TEN FAIR WARNING

They'll Be in Fight for Title.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 27.—Chill weather, tempered by an autumn sun, greeted Illinois' football players this afternoon as they finished preparations for the opening game of the season against Bradley Tech here Saturday. The conditions today were agreeable to all since yesterday's scrimmage was held in a downpour which drenched the practice field to the east of the stadium.

Yesterday four teams scrimmaged after a session of racing down field covering kicks by Jack Beynon and Les Lindberg. Coach Bob Zuppke, now in his 22d year as chief guide for the Illini, had reserved this practice for just that kind of an afternoon. Today, the boys were smoothing out their offensive plans for Bradley and laying the basis for the attack against Washington university at St. Louis a week later.

Another Sellout for Army?

For the first time since 1929, the last occasion that Memorial stadium was sold out, Illinois is back in the football picture. When Army came to Champaign five years ago all tickets for that contest had been sold by Sept. 15. It may be that another sellout is in the offing, for this fall Army again marches west.

Illinois surprised the Western conference last year by coming within two points of sharing the championship. In addition to whipping Wisconsin, Northwestern, and Chicago, Illinois was beaten by Michigan and Ohio State. Each score was 7 to 6. If the tries for extra points in these games had been successful, Illinois would have tied the Wolverines for the title.

Worries About Center, Ends.

Replacements at center, end, and full back are the immediate problems. The full back job apparently has been filled satisfactorily, for in a discussion of the situation Zuppke confined his remarks to end and center.

"This year's team lacks height," Zuppke said, "and we could use more weight. But the boys are sturdier than a year ago. The new men can take it and a year's growth has helped the veterans."

Illinois has several outstanding advantages in preparing for the season. First, of course, is the list of returning regulars which includes Jack Beynon, quarter back; Frank Froschauer and Les Lindberg, half backs; Arvo Antilla, Chuck Galbreath, Red Gragg, and Bart Cummings, tackles, and Chuck Bennis and Ed Gryboski, guards.

Beynon and Lindberg.

Beynon's passing and Lindberg's kicking, the most important factors in Illini play in 1933, are the keynote for the optimistic prospects. Beynon easily was the most spectacular passer in the Big Ten last year. Lindberg outkicked John Regeczi of Michigan and he needs no other credentials.

Howard Carson, Charleston; John Theodore, Spring Valley, and John Fischer, Lander, Wyo., are three reasons why Zuppke at present is satisfied with the full back replacements for John Snook and Dave Cook. All are sophomores. Carson is the heaviest, scaling 185 pounds. The others weigh about 180 pounds.

Supporting Lindberg and Froschauer at left and right half back, respectively, are Kenneth Bradley, Pecatonica, Ill., sophomore, and Crain Portman, Urbana, senior. Portman played exceptionally well last year against Michigan. Then there are Bob Grieve, Glen Ellyn, Ill., sophomore, and Clarence [Steve] Steib, Aurora junior. Both are listed as 154 pounders and are jack rabbits on the gridiron.

Wright Again at End.

Supporting Beynon at quarter back are Wilbur Henry, Champaign sophomore; Clifton Gano, Mattoon junior, and Bill Gibbs, Lincoln junior.

Bob Wright, who caught Beynon's pass behind Ohio State's goal line last fall, is stationed at right end on the present first eleven. Antilla, who played tackle last fall, is at left end.

Bart Cummings, now suffering from a minor injury, is in the running. Almost any one may be shifted to end, so dire is the present need. Bill Waller, Urbana; Ken Nelson, Des Plaines; Vin Van Meter, Wood River; Gene Dykstra, Chicago sophomore from Fenger High school, also on the invalid list at present, are other candidates.

Number one tackles are Larue [Tiny] Morris, 200 pound sophomore from La Grange, and Bob Estergard, Elgin sophomore. Inexperience can be charged against both. Galbreath, however, has a season behind him, and should Andy Dahl, from Schurz High school, Chicago, become eligible in tomorrow's makeup examination, the situation will be improved. Dahl is a senior who developed last winter as a heavyweight wrestler. Red Gragg is another of last year's reserves who may be pressed into service.

Bruder Promising Newcomer.

Bennis and Gryboski probably will be the rgular guards. Hank Bruder of Indianapolis is most promising of the first year men. Bob Rourke, Springfield, is another.

Elvin Sayre, Waukegan sophomore, was first string center today. Frank Barnhart, Ottawa sophomore, also a possibility at tackle, is a close second. Steve Polaski, who played on the freshman team three years ago; Tom Eastman, another player who has returned after two years interim, and George Fredericki of Chicago are in the fight.

Marvin Bell, who played in Marquette's back field last year, has been shifted to end and will start against Northwestern tomorrow at Dyche stadium. Bell is the only Jewish boy on the Marquette team. He is 6 feet tall and weighs 175 pounds.

Marquette to Test Purple's New Material

Northwestern's pre-season confidence in its sophomore football material, by which Coach Dick Hanley hopes his team will regain a commanding position in the Western conference, may or may not be well founded. Marquette university will supply the first answer when the Milwaukee eleven opens the season at Dyche stadium at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Like Northwestern, Marquette will have several sophomores in place of last year's veterans and this circumstance makes the outlook favorable for a Wildcat victory. However, Coach Hanley expects to start as many experienced players as possible and reserve the testing of his new men until Northwestern either is in the lead or the veterans have shown they cannot cope with the situation.

Milwaukee Fans to Attend.

The 3 o'clock starting time was arranged because of Chicago's daylight saving time to allow for arrival of a special train from Milwaukee.

The exception to Coach Hanley's plan for a veteran lineup is Bob Swisher, a 158 pound half back from St. John's Military academy. Swisher is highly rated, despite his weight, and he will be assigned the left half position, the most important spot in the back field for runs and passes. If Swisher approaches anticipated form, Northwestern will have more punch than at any time since the graduation of Pug Rentner.

Wally Cruice, Milwaukee junior, will start at right half, and Hugh Duvall, 20 pounds lighter than last season but still at 189, will be the plunger. Granting Swisher success, this is a worthy trio of backs. They will be directed by George Potter, a senior, who was ineligible last fall.

Murray Speaks Tonight.

Coach Frank Murray of Marquette will speak tonight at Belmont hall, Belmont avenue and Clark street, where De Soto council, Knights of Columbus, and the Chicago club of Marquette university alumni will hold a football rally and pep meeting. Murray's escort to the meeting will consist of Gene Ronzani, Johnny Sisk, and Wayland Becker, former Marquette stars who now are playing with the Chicago Bears.

De Paul to Meet Ripon at Loyola Stadium Tonight

Undefeated last fall and beaten only once the year before, De Paul university will attempt to continue its string of triumphs tonight when it opens its season against Ripon college at Loyola stadium. The kickoff is slated for 8 o'clock.

Coaches Jim Kelly and Ben Connors will present virtually a new lineup. Only four regulars remain from last year's De Paul team. Nevertheless rooters have reason for a hopeful outlook.

With the exception of a few injuries, the De Paul squad will take the field in good shape. Phil Krause, brother of Ed Krause, formerly of Notre Dame, will captain the team from left end.

Fred Brainard, one of the few veterans, will appear at the other flank. Maurice Washburne and John Scanlon have drawn the tackle rôles, while Norman Mertes and George Schwartz will be the guards.

Having improved greatly in his passing, Marvin Casey has been designated center. Ray Durkin, a heady pilot and shifty ball carrier, will call signals. Bill Phillips, a sophomore who has flashed brilliant form in practice, will make his debut at right half back, as running mate for Walt Loess, a reserve last year.

Although lacking the desired weight, Walt Hehn has shown enough style to win the starting berth at full back. He is only a sophomore of 160 pounds. John Reid, slated for a regular guard job, is being held in reserve for a tackle emergency. Probable lineups:

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Drake university's football team will meet the University of Utah at Drake stadium tomorrow night. Thirty-three members of the Utah squad arrived in Des Moines today. Co-Capt. Joe Rinaldi, Utah half back, may not be able to play because of injuries.

WHITE SOX BATS VANQUISH ROWE AND TIGERS, 11-0

Earnshaw Stops Pennant Winners Easily.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 27.—The famous Lynwood [Schoolboy] Rowe is going to pitch in a world series game next week, but that didn't bother the White Sox today. As a sure means of assuring George Earnshaw his fourth $500 bonus the tailenders gave the Schoolboy a swell blasting and sent the champion Tigers reeling to defeat, 11 to 0, in the last game of the season between the two teams. It was only the Sox's fifth victory out of 22 games with the new title holders.

Rowe was brought face to face with defeat as early as the second inning. Three runs scored, mainly because of his lack of control. Five more registered in the next two sessions, whereupon the Schoolboy was withdrawn from circulation. After that the carefree Sox had additional fun at the expense of old Fred Marberry. However, both pitchers were given miserable support.

George Bears Down.

In seeking his fourteenth victory, not to mention the extra $500, Earnshaw not only blanked the Tigers, but made them look as feeble at bat as they made themselves look in the field by their five errors. For five innings they were held to two hits, both scratches. After that the regulars began to vanish from the Tiger lineup so the old boy eased up a bit on the excuse that there wasn't much pleasure flogging a gang of subs. However, some of the regulars who stuck suffered because of their valor. For instance, Charley Gehringer, fighting for the league batting title, fanned twice and popped to the infield twice. Hank Greenberg also fanned two times, but then ducked out on the party.

Earnshaw struck out seven Tigers, all of these coming in the first six innings. He reached the peak of his day's work in the fourth when he fanned Jo-Jo White, Gehringer, and Greenberg in succession. Incidentally it was Earnshaw's second shutout of the season and the first victory of the Chicagoans in their last eleven games.

Error Starts Sox Parade.

Clifton, who succeeded Owen at third after one inning, fumbled a bounder by Bonura to open the second and the Sox immediately got busy on the scoring of their first three runs off Rowe. Bonura was forced by Appling, who scored a moment later on Radcliff's triple to right. Hopkins walked and a fly by Madjeski sent Radcliff home. Even Earnshaw got in on the fun. He singled to right. Conlan then walked, filling the bases, and Hopkins was forced to score when Hayes also walked.

A single to center by Bonura inaugurated the two run festivities in the third. He was forced by Appling, after which Radcliff beat out a hit to Gehringer. A passed ball by York enabled Appling and Radcliff to advance. They held their stations while Hopkins was being thrown out, but legged it for the plate when Madjeski doubled into the left field corner.

Rowe's last inning, the fourth, in which three more scored, started with a single by Conlan. Hayes sacrificed, Simmons walked and Bonura looped a single into left to score Conlan. Appling poked a single to right, Simmons scoring and Bonura taking third.

Playoff Plans

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—[Special.]—John A. Heydler, president of the National league, this afternoon announced that if the Giants and the Cardinals are tied for the pennant when the regular season closes on Sunday, they will engage in a playoff series of three games, starting in St. Louis next Tuesday.

The second contest will be held at the Polo grounds on Wednesday and if a third and deciding game is needed, that also will be played at the home of the Giants on Thursday.

If three games are needed, the world series opening in Detroit, now scheduled for Wednesday, Oct. 3, will be delayed until Saturday.

Terry Gives Dazed Giants Day of Rest

New York, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Manager Bill Terry gave his skidding Giants a holiday today, hoping the layoff would help them shake off the jitters which are threatening to knock them out of the National league championship.

Today and tomorrow are open dates on the schedule. Then the season will close with two games with the Dodgers, Saturday and Sunday, at the Polo grounds.

Instead of ordering his men to the park for drills today, Terry told them to stay away and try to get their minds off their misery—if possible. Most of the Giants spent an uneasy afternoon around scoreboards as the Cardinals began their decisive four-game series with the Cincinnati Reds.

They're on the Skids.

Since the New Yorkers hit the toboggan three weeks ago they have dropped 11 of 21 starts and tossed away all but half a game of their seven game lead.

Their faithful followers are convinced the protracted batting slump of young Mel Ott is the big factor in the route of the Giants. Ott has been skidding steadily since the middle of August. In the last four games he has been at bat 15 times without getting a hit.

Fitzsimmons May Start.

In the 37 games period to Aug. 17 Ott made 54 hits in 139 times at bat for an average of .388. These accounted for 42 Giant runs. Since that date the Giant outfielder has made only 34 hits in 140 trips to the plate for a .243 average.

Indications are that Fred Fitzsimmons will start the first contest with Brooklyn, with the odds favoring Roy Parmelee, the most consistent winner for the Giants of late, for the other game.

U. S. CURTIS CUP STARS PLAY TIE WITH BRITISH

Chevy Chase, Md., Sept. 27.—(AP)—The American and British women's Curtis cup golf teams battled through a driving rain here today and wound up wet and all square, with the international series depending on the six singles engagements tomorrow.

Both American defenders and British challengers chalked up one victory each in the three Scotch foursome or doubles matches. But a draw was the best either could get in the feature match of the day. The American title holder, Miss Virginia Van Wie, and Miss Charlotte Glutting, ended in a tie with Miss Molly Gourlay and Miss Pamela Barton, British.

Miss Maureen Orcutt, New Jersey, and Mrs. Leona Pressler Cheney, California punched out the American victory—a two up decision over Miss Diana Fishwick and Miss Wanda Morgan.

Mrs. Opal S. Hill, Kansas City, and Miss Lucille Robinson, Des Moines, Ia., were defeated, 2 and 1, by Miss Diana Plumpton and Mrs. J. B. Walker.

COLUMBUS AND TORONTO OPEN SERIES TONIGHT

Columbus, O., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The Columbus Red Birds, numbering 20 players and coaches, entrained for Toronto, Ont., tonight, where tomorrow they will open the little world series with the winners of the International league playoff.

Columbus won the right to represent the American association by defeating Minneapolis, 7 to 3, in the seventh game of the league playoff last night after the series was tied at three games each.

ST. LOUIS HAS CHANCE TO TIE GIANTS TODAY

Dizzy Dean to Pitch Against Frey.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 27.—The berserk St. Louis Cardinals this afternoon whipped the miserable tail-end Cincinnati Reds, 8 to 5, and thereby moved within a half game of the leading New York Giants, who were idle. If the Cards can beat the Reds tomorrow, while the Giants again are idle, they will go into a first place tie with the New Yorkers.

Mathematically, the Cards are slightly less than a half game behind the Giants tonight, because of having played one fewer game. The standings are:

	W.	L.	Pct.
New York	93	58	.616
St. Louis	92	58	.613

Tomorrow the great Dizzy Dean will go after his 29th victory of the year, and if he succeeds an exact tie will be established. The standings as the Cards go into two week-end games with the Reds, while the Giants are winding up with two against the Dodgers, would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
New York	93	58	.616
St. Louis	93	58	.616

Each team has been washed out of one of its scheduled games, the Cardinals canceling one with the Braves and the Giants one with the Cubs.

Frey to Start for Reds.

Detroit authors here to cover the series bring the tidings that the Tigers would much rather play the Giants than the Cardinals. By coincidence a Michigan boy tomorrow will have a chance to do his part in slapping down the Cards. Benny Frey of Jackson has been slated to oppose the great Dizzy.

But getting back to today's contest: The Reds lost today's encounter in the first inning on what seemed to be sheer nervousness. Three infield errors on three of the first four batsmen threw the session into a panic which was not quieted until the Cards had chased across five runs. Singles by Delancey and Orsatti and a double by Durocher helped the Card cause immeasurably, but all were made after the side should have been retired.

Freitas Only Good Pitcher.

Little Tony Freitas went in after the first inning and held the Cardinals to one single in four innings. Though his pitching was the only good casting of the game on either side he was eliminated by a pinch batter who fanned just as the Reds were about to overtake the St. Louisans.

With Freitas gone the Cards made three more runs, including a homer in the seventh by Ducky Medwick.

The game was attended by 4,000 cash customers, the St. Louis apathy being a startling mystery only partly accounted for by the reported unpopularity of Manager Frisch and the fact that many of the bugs who would have come out for a series such as this in former years have been pouting because radio was locked out of Sportsman's Park this season. Frisch certainly has done nothing to warant any unfriendliness this year.

The Panic's On!

At any rate, here's the log of what happened in the Cards' first inning:

Martin sent a medium hard grounder to Slade. He stopped the ball but his throw was short and wide of the bag and though Bottomley came up with the ball, Pepper was safe. Rothrock bunted in front of the plate and Lombardi seized the ball with great celerity. But his throw to second to force Martin was bad, so Martin was safe at second and Rothrock at first. For some reason or other Slade, who took the throw, was charged with the error. The pair moved up on Frisch's sacrifice.

Slade played in on the grass for Medwick and Ducky obliged by bouncing

MAROONS LEARN PLAYS FOR USE AGAINST CARROLL

New Formations Tested in Scrimmage.

A dozen new plays, designed for the game with Carroll college at Stagg field tomorrow, were handed out by Coach Clark Shaughnessy at the University of Chicago practice yesterday morning. They are probably intended to mystify University of Michigan scouts rather than to dazzle the Carroll eleven.

A long, hard scrimmage, in which the varsity used the plays against the second team, followed in the afternoon, and with it came several injuries. Tommy Flinn, veteran back and the team's second quarter back, crashed into Jay Berwanger on a goal line plunge and came up with an injured shoulder.

Two Ends Injured.

Two ends also may be incapacitated for tomorrow's game. Johnny Baker, probably the best offensive wingman on the squad, suffered a severe shin bruise, and Bill Gillerlain, a sophomore, sustained a dislocated finger.

The Maroon first string took shape as follows: Womer and Perretz, end; Bush and Whiteside, tackles; Jordan and Wolfenson, guards; Patterson, center; Cullen, quarter back; Berwanger and Wells, half back; and Nyquist, full back. With the backs alternating as ball carriers, the first team made occasional long gains, but was frequently stopped at the line of scrimmage.

Expect Crowd of 28,000.

A crowd of at least 28,000 is expected at the game, at least 17,000 of whom will be Boy Scouts, school patrollers, and other youths. The Carroll team, champions of the Wisconsin intercollegiate league for the last two years, will not be greatly outweighed in the line, since four Carroll linemen are 190 pounds or more. Chicago's edge will be in superior reserve power, which is something of a novelty at the Midway. There is a fight on for at least six of the regular berths on the team.

MICHIGAN TESTS BLOCKING.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The need of proper blocking in a running attack was emphasized today as the University of Michigan football squad struggled through another practice session.

Michigan has stressed passing rather than running, but with the success of the overhead game likely to be limited this year, at least until Bill Renner returns, Coach Kipke is falling back on the running game. The boys are getting more blocking drill than they have had in years.

MARQUETTE IS READY.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 27.—(AP)—A dummy scrimmage against freshmen using Northwestern plays occupied the Marquette eleven today. Tomorrow the team will leave for Evanston to meet the Wildcats Saturday afternoon.

Opposed to what looks like the starting back field of Mortsadt, Buivid, Cuff, and Art Guepe backing up a first string line, the yearlings had no success. The varsity also had a long punting drill, with Buivid playing safety for the freshmen to gain practice in returning kicks. Coach Frank J. Murray expects to name an acting captain for Saturday at tomorrow's final workout.

BING MILLER TO QUIT ATHLETICS AFTER '34 SEASON

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Bing Miller, the rugged outfielder who starred in the 1929 world's series, is leaving the Athletics at the end of the 1934 campaign.

Miller, whose double accounted for the deciding run of the world's series five years ago, made that statement concerning himself today and also said that Eddie Rommel, veteran pitcher, is going from the club at the same time. It was reported Rommel may manage the Albany Internationals next year. "I'm going up to see Eddie Collins in Boston this week-end to talk to him before I decide anything," Miller said. "I understand they have something for me in the Red Sox organization and that they want me with them."

While Miller expressed a desire to stay in the American league, he said he "imagined" Collins would offer him a job as manager of either the Boston owned Kansas City Blues or the Reading team of the New York-Pennsylvania league.

EASTCOTT AND GREENTREE WIN IN POLO TOURNEY

Westbury, N. Y., Sept. 26.—(AP)—The Eastcott and Greentree teams galloped to victory in the first round of the national open polo championship tournament at the Meadow Brook club today. Eastcott defeated Aknusti, 10 to 9, and Greentree ran away from the Aiken Knights, 10 to 1.

Cecil Smith of the losing western team in the recent intersectional series scored 9 goals for the Greentree four while riding with Harold E. Talbott Jr., Gerald Balding, and R. E. Strawbridge Jr.

Eastcott, with E. W. Hopping and E. A. S. Hopping teaming with C. V. Whitney and Stephen [Laddie] Sanford, took a commanding 9 to 4 lead over W. A. Harriman's Aknusti team at the halfway mark. Aknusti staged a strong finish, however, a rally in the final chukker just falling short of tying the score.

Iowa Turns Attention to Pass Attack

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The usual pre-game precautions were taken in the University of Iowa football camp today. Forward passing and aerial defense comprised most of the session, which also included a short dummy scrimmage against the freshmen.

Ted Osmaloski, sophomore center, returned to practice after several days' absence with a leg infection. It was indicated that Osmaloski would start against South Dakota Saturday.

The first string lineup which may start in the opener against the Coyotes included four sophomores, Osmaloski, center; John England, end; Clarence Dee, guard; and Oze Simmons, Negro half back.

INJURIES HAMPER BADGERS.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The permanent loss of two promising linemen and the absence of five other first string players because of minor injuries handicapped the University of Wisconsin football squad as it ran through a long scrimmage today.

The most severe setback was the announcement that John Ferguson, who won a letter at tackle last year, is ineligible because he failed to pass a conditional examination in calculus. Ferguson, playing guard this year, would have been a regular. The case of Walter Windecker, sophomore guard, was closed when it was learned he had dropped out of school after having been disciplined for missing practice.

The absentees with minor injuries, all of whom are expected to rejoin the team within a week, were: Karl Schuelke, veteran half back; George Klein, sophomore guard; Bill Millar, veteran tackle; Eddie Jankowski, sophomore full back, and Bill Exum, half back.

BUCKEYES PLAY AGAIN.

Columbus, O., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Cooler weather was welcomed by the Ohio State football team today. A light scrimmage session again was the order of Coach Francis A. Schmidt, with the varsity first and second teams opposing the reserves. Judging by his work this week Tippy Dye, 134 pound quarter back, will see plenty of service in the Ohio back field this fall. A regulation game with the reserves is planned for the single session carded for Saturday.

WEATHER PLEASES GOPHERS.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The sun shone brightly today to produce about the nicest fall day the Minnesota squad has enjoyed thus far, but it came too late to help the Gophers much in the process of getting ready for Saturday's game with North Dakota Aggies.

After keeping Ed Widseth, a sophomore, in the forefront of the tackles for several days, Coach Bierman returned to Dick Smith of Rockford, Ill., a veteran. He had both the players alternating at left tackle, but indications were that Smith would get the call Saturday.

Vern Oech, 190 pound red head who was giving Milt Bruhn, veteran, a fight for the left guard job until an injury to Bruhn made the newcomer's fight easier; Art Clarkson, sophomore half back, probably will be in the starting lineup Saturday. George Rennix, veteran half back, became eligible today.

HOOSIERS TAPER OFF.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—With the exception of kickers, Indiana players took things easy this afternoon in a tapering off drill for the Ohio university game here Saturday. Reed Kelso performed most of the place kicking and in the event Indiana crosses the Ohio goal line, he will probably be called on to boot the ball for extra point. Punters trying out for duty Saturday were Davis, Fox, Antonini, Veller, Walker, and Yoder. The boots of Antonini, an end, were consistently longest. Veller probably will start at quarter back in place of Huffman, whose ankle was fractured in Tuesday's practice.

MAZZIOTTI LOOKS GOOD.

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Tony Mazziotti, White Plains, N. Y., junior candidate for the right half back post at Notre Dame, indicated in today's scrimmage of the fourth team that he cannot be counted out of the running for the position now held by George Melinkovich, 1932 full back.

Mazziotti is ranked by Dan Hanley and Al Costello, both open field runners, but today's exhibition probably will find him on the second team tomorrow. Tony was a quarter back last year.

HAAS HURT AT PURDUE.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Coach Noble Kizer of Purdue was handed another replacement problem this afternoon when it was learned that Frank Haas, Chicago, only senior letter man end on the squad, had injured his shoulder in yesterday's drill and will be on the sidelines for two weeks.

Kizer was aroused over the failure of the forward wall to make a better showing against the yearlings yesterday and threatened to make several changes unless there is improvement. The first two teams were sent through a long drill on blocking this afternoon while the third and fourth elevens scrimmaged against the freshmen.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

FOOTBALL OPENS.

WHILE a few sporadic contests have been decided, football really opens tomorrow for many of the country's leading elevens. Naturally, more important frays come later in the season when coaches have had more time to develop their teams, yet it is surprising how many elevens are risking prestige in first games with the result by no means certain.

Six Big Ten squads will receive their 1934 initial tests—Chicago, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, and Northwestern. Of these, Hanley's Wildcats have what in advance appears the most mature task in essaying to take Marquette, which, under Frank Murray's coaching, has in the last decade established a creditable record. Marquette was a bit under its usual standard in 1933. About half its starting lineup will be sophomores. These sophomores, however, are reported to be more formidable than the men they replaced.

Wildcat rooters look for victory, but the game will determine whether the eleven has any scoring punch, notably lacking last year. As one alumnus put it, "If Marquette beats us, we're in for many headaches during the conference season." Northwestern has a good line, though lacking experience in several places, especially at ends. Its back field is a question mark, but is strengthened with George Potter back as field general. It's just the kind of test Northwestern needs before the Stanford contest Oct. 13, whether the Purple wins or loses.

Chicago, minus its two veteran tackles through technical ineligibility and with better material than usual on the Midway, will take on Carroll college of Waukesha, Wis., which established an enviable record under Glenn Thistlethwaite, who has accepted an eastern post. It is now coached by Elmer Lampe, a great end in his undergraduate days at Chicago and the kind of fellow to whom any father could entrust his son, confident he would receive high ideals of sportsmanship. Carroll was unbeaten last year, but the Maroons should win if they expect to get anywhere in the Big Ten race.

Indiana, in its first game under Bo McMillin's tutelage, may have a hard time with Ohio university, a pretty tough customer, but Illinois against Bradley, Iowa against South Dakota, and Minnesota against North Dakota State are such odds-on favorites that defeat would be a major upset.

Out on the Pacific coast, Stanford risks defeat from Santa Clara, over which it obtained only a 7 to 0 verdict last season, Oregon takes on U. C. L. A., and Washington State again meets Montana, which gave the former a great scare last season. While there should be no doubt of the result, Southern California plays College of the Pacific, coached by A. A. Stagg, at Los Angeles, a date in marked compliment to the former "Old Man" of the Midway.

In the east, Pittsburgh engages Washington and Jefferson in a game which once might be doubtful, but should not be since W. & J. went "pure". Rice and Louisiana, to which Huey Long is said to have promised a championship if material would do it, is perhaps the most doubtful fray on the southern schedule.

"Profit in Bank Stocks."

In the process of decimating books for removal from bungalow to apartment, we found on our shelves a volume entitled "Profit in Bank Stocks." We'd tell the author, but we never looked inside this time. Mere remembrance of the double liability clause of the few shares, now worthless, we had purchased from our humble savings moved us to wrath. Did we throw the book away? We did not. We kicked it away.

Elgin Preps Play 7-7 Tie with Loyola

Loyola academy and Elgin academy football teams battled to a 7 to 7 tie at Loyola stadium last night. Dave O'Brien, quarter back, scored for Loyola in the second period on a 5 yard run, while Dennis Molloy, left half, added the extra point on a plunge. Elgin tied the score in the third period when Bob Sterriker, right half, went around left end for 12 yards. Kienlen scored the extra point. Lineups:

Kankakee's football team will meet Joliet tonight on the latter's field. In two other contests, York will play East Aurora at Aurora, and Parker plays Washington High at East Chicago. Bloom of Chicago Heights will travel to Toledo, O., to play Waite High school.

Eight Chicago district qualifiers will compete in the Illinois state high school golf tournament at Peoria today and tomorrow. They are Frank Penning, Schurz; Steve Adams, Schurz; Zane Pazult, Lindblom; J. Deksnis, Tilden; J. Conrad, Tilden; George Ricketts, Senn; Art Bodeau, Tilden, and F. Schnabel, Tilden.

Three veterans have been declared ineligible at Bowen. They are Scarlett, Delich and MacClain. Only four letter men, Ed McLain, half back; Harry Miller, guard, and the Sikich brothers, tackles, now are on the squad, which this year is being coached by Clarence Applegran.

Play for the Illinois state prep singles and doubles tennis championships will open today at the University of Illinois courts. Finals will be held tomorrow. Charles Shostrom and Arthur Jorganson, Parker; William McCoy, Tilden Tech, and Douglas Coyle, Senn; are among the survivors in singles competition.

Lane Tech has withdrawn its soccer team from the Chicago Public High school league. Lane's withdrawal leaves only three teams, Crane Tech, Tilden Tech, and Schurz, to fight for the title. However, Harrison Tech may replace Lane.

CARDINALS FACE HARD BATTLE IN DETROIT SUNDAY

Just how far the reorganized Chicago Cardinals will go in the 1934 National Professional league championship scramble will probably be determined Sunday when Coach Paul Schissler's red jerseyed athletes meet the Detroit Lions at Detroit.

The Detroit team, which represented Portsmouth last season, is conceded to be one of the most powerful in the league. It was a spectacular aggregation last season and the return of Earl [Dutch] Clark, who spent last season coaching his alma mater, Colorado, is expected to improve it. With Clark working with Glenn Presnell and Father Lumpkin, the Lions have a brilliant back field.

BEARS PLAN REVIEW

The Bears will engage in their final hard workout this morning in preparation for their second game in the National league at Cincinnati Sunday afternoon.

Yesterday the squad snapped through a two hour signal drill and today's program calls for the entire routine. The scrimmage will be light for the lads are all in good physical shape, with the exception of Bernie Masterson, who is rapidly recovering from an injured shoulder. However, it is possible he may get a workout against Cincinnati.

John [Bull] Doehring, who joined the squad this week, reported in shape, having played semi-pro baseball in Milwaukee during the summer. Yesterday he threw the ball 97 yards to test his arm.

Tommy Corbett Is Matched for Bout with Tracey Cox

Tracey Cox of Indianapolis, Ind., a timid looking, light haired young fellow who packs dynamite in his right hand, and the elusive Tommy Corbett of Omaha, Neb., have been matched to meet in the eight round main event of the boxing show Monday night at Marigold Gardens. The weight has been set at 138 pounds. Mike Primitch, Indiana Harbor featherweight, will clash with Charles Mack of Los Angeles, Cal., for six rounds in the semi-final. The balance of the card follows:

Fred Cheynoweth vs. Billy Gladstone [4], 140.
Milt Aaron vs. Billy Renn [4], 140.
Joey Mandell vs. Hans Schamon [4], 147.

Joe Louis, Detroit heavyweight, is being sought to meet Art Sykes of Elmira, N. Y., in a 10 round contest Oct. 24 at Arcadia Gardens. . . . The next show at Arcadia will be held Oct. 10 with Johnny Phagan and Frank Battaglia matched in the 10 round main event. . . . Charley Retzlaff, Leonard, N. D., in town to view A Century of Progress, will go to St. Paul Sunday or Monday to finish preparation for a mixed bout against Abe Kashey, heavyweight wrestler, there Oct. 9.

Senator James Leonardo of Chicago and Victor Champaign paid $500 for a half interest in the management of Bob La Monte, former Catholic Youth organization welterweight champion, who was a member of this year's intercity Golden Gloves team. . . . Nestor Bruggman, C. Y. O. 147 pound boxer, and Georgie Trapp will clash in a five round encounter on the card headed by Tony Zale at Midway arena Monday. . . . Laddie Tonelli, Marsailles, Ill., 147 pound boxer, was married recently. F. M.

BY STEWART OWEN.

The Cubs and the Pirates went through the motions of playing a baseball game at Wrigley field yesterday and because the Pittsburghers' motions were just a little more peculiar than those of the Chicagoans, the Cubs won, 4 to 2. A handful of overcoated, blanketed fans watched the casual proceedings and wondered when it was all over why they braved the wintry blasts to do it.

The only enlivening element in the affair was the work of Phil Cavaretta, the former Lane Tech pitcher and first baseman who was playing his second game at first base for the Cubs. Cavaretta, who won Tuesday's game with a home run, hit twice in four times at bat yesterday, driving in one of of his team's four runs and scoring another. Afield he handled nine chances perfectly, two of them on difficult grounders which he relayed to Pitcher Bill Lee for putouts.

No. 13 for Lee.

It was Lee's 13th victory of the season against 14 defeats. He did a pretty workmanlike job of pitching after the fourth inning, holding the Pirates to two singles in the last five innings, for a grand total of nine. He fanned six and gave up only three bases on balls.

Lefty Birkofer pitched the full game for the Pirates and while the Cubs could do no more with his delivery than the Pirates did with Lee's, his own error in the first inning to let Galan score from second was just enough to give the Cubs the ball game.

The defeat set the Pirates back to a game and a half behind the Braves in their struggle for a first division berth.

The Pirates started off as though they intended to settle the game in the first inning. After L. Waner had grounded out to Jurges, Jensen singled to left and P. Waner and Vaughan beat out infield hits to fill the bases, but Traynor hit into a double play, Jurges to Galan to Cavaretta.

Two Cub Runs a Gift.

The Cubs' two runs in the second were largely a gift from the Pirates' battery. With one down, Galan popped a fly into right field and made a double out of it while P. Waner, Suhr, and Thevenow were watching it fall. Galan broke for third while Birkofer was holding the ball and was trapped half way between the bases, but the Pirate pitcher threw wide to Traynor and Galan scored. Cuyler walked, stole second and continued on to third when Grace tossed the ball into center field. Klein fanned, but Cavaretta came through with a single to right and Kiki trotted home.

The Pirates tied the score with two runs in the third. Lloyd Waner walked with one down and Jensen singled for the second time. P. Waner singled to center, scoring Brother Lloyd and sending Jensen to third, whence he scored when Galan fumbled Vaughan's easy roller. Traynor flied to Klein and Suhr to Cuyler.

Cavaretta Starts Rally.

Cavaretta opened the Cubs' fourth with an infield hit and another pair of runs developed. Stainback beat out a bunt along the third base foul line to nudge Cavaretta to second. O'Farrell flied to L. Waner, but Jurges singled to center, scoring Cavaretta and sending Stainback to third. Lee flied to P. Waner and Stainback came home after the catch. Hack grounded out to Vaughan.

There was no further activity worth recording, Lee holding the Pirates well in check thereafter, while Birkofer had no trouble putting down the few feeble Cub threats.

Rigney to Rejoin Squares for Mills Double Header

Dungan Rigney, who recently left the Logan Squares semi-pro baseball club to attend St. Mary's college, Winona, Minn., will rejoin the team Sunday afternoon for the double header against the Mills at Mills stadium, Lake street and Kilpatrick avenue. Rigney will pitch the first game, while Jim Vaughn will work in the second contest.

Weaver to Pitch for Cubs Against Pirates Tomorrow

The Cubs and Pirates will rest today, this afternoon's game having been moved back to Sunday to provide a closing day double-header.

There will be one game tomorrow for the final special Ladies' day of the season. Weaver will pitch for the Cubs and French probably will start for the Pirates.

What with the cold weather and the general futility of yesterday's proceedings there were fewer than 800 people in the stands. Business at the turnstiles was so slow that only one of the ticket booths was open.

The Sunday double-header will start at 1 o'clock because of the change to standard time Sunday morning.

Bridges' Curve Is Respected as American League's Best

[This is the sixth of a series of sketches of members of the Detroit Tigers, who will battle the National league entry in the impending world series.]

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Thomas Davis Bridges, one of the ranking members of the Tiger staf, has a swell curve ball and hails from Gordonsville, Tenn. There's no news attached to mention of the curve ball. Every player on the seven other American league clubs can speak knowingly and with regret on that subject. But it is news to hear of such a place as Gordonsville. Most of the map makers missed it.

TOMMY BRIDGES.

For a testimonial on the class of the Bridges curve you need search no farther than Jim Dykes, the manager of the White Sox, who has been looking at hooks longer than almost any other man in the league.

"It's the best curve in the league and when he has control he'll curve you right back to the bench," is what the Sox boss thinks of the chief stock in trade of the slight southern boy.

Tom Has Had His Troubles, Too; Read On.

While Bridges can be considered one of the pitching standouts of the league, he has had his sorrows. Three times a lone hit has separated him from the glory of a no-hit triumph. Twice this trick was worked on him by the Senators, and one of these two without the lone hit would have been a perfect game, such as hasn't been pitched since Charley Robertson turned back twenty-seven Tigers in 1923. One of the rare performances of Bridges was against Washington on May 24, 1933, when Joe Kuhel peeled off a homer in the seventh for the Senators' lone hit. In the other game Bridges was much closer to the coveted honor. He had two men out in the ninth when Dave Harris, a pinch hitter, broke the spell.

There's one serious drawback to Bridges' pitching. He's good against certain types of clubs and no good against others. The Senators always have been his cousins. For instance, he beat them five in a row in 1932 but the same year was trimmed six times in succession by the Yankees. What he'll do in a world series game is a question.

Tennessee Claims Him and Has Reason to Be Proud.

The Tiger curving star spent three years at the University of Tennessee and while there didn't neglect his baseball. After concluding his schooling, he labored part time in a drug store at Nashville and the rest of his time was spent in semi-pro circles. In 1929 a Tiger scout, Billy Doyle, located him and promptly dispatched him to Wheeling, W. Va., for seasoning. He did well enough to warant a promotion to Evansville, Ind., another Tiger farm, in 1930, but before that season was concluded the Tigers called him in.

He wasn't of much account in 1930 and continued to be more of a loser than a winner in 1931. The next season he got over the hill, winning fourteen while losing twelve, and his record of last year was the same.

Bridges was born at Gordonsville, Dec. 28, 1906, and the old home town still is his favorite spot. He hikes back there as soon as the season's chores are finished.

Sox Batters Crush Rowe, Tigers, 11-0

Bonura scored when Rogell fumbled a sure double play grounder off Radcliff's bat. Hopkins then hit another double play ball to short but Rogell grabbed this one and the twin killing was completed. The next Sox run came when Appling hit a homer into the new left field bleachers off Marberry in the seventh.

The Tigers put on their choicest exhibition of jitters in the eighth. Simmons singled off Marberry. White dropped Bonura's tall fly, but caught one off Appling's bat a moment later. Radcliff's single scored Simmons. The bases became loaded on Doljack's fumble of Hopkins' grounder. Madjeski rolled into a forceout on which Bonura scored the last run of the afternoon.

CARDINALS BEAT REDS, 8-5; TRAIL BY HALF A GAME

ing one right at him. But Slade fumbled, Martin scoring. Collins popped to Slade in short left, but Delancey singled to center, scoring Rothrock and putting Medwick on third. Orsatti caromed a high shot off Slade's glove for a single, Medwick scoring. Durocher doubled to the left field wall, scoring Delancey and Orsatti. Walker fanned.

In the Cards' second Freitas took over the pitching job, it being apparent that Manager Dressen desired to save Derringer, his ace, for another game. Freitas soon revealed that he had no thought of being a lost cause pitcher. He retired the first nine batsmen to face him, which brought the game up to the Cincinnati fifth at its first inning status, 5 to 0.

Lombardi Runs Wild.

Bill Walker, the Cardinals' starting pitcher, got himself in a fine jam in the fifth, during which the Reds got two runs home and had the bases full when the light went out. Pool led off with a single to left and went to third on Lombardi's single to right. Schulmerich flied to Orsatti. Comorosky lined a hit to right which Rothrock didn't have a million to one shot to catch, but Lombardi became confused, thought the ball had been caught after he had reached second, and started to barge back to first. Comorosky, with a supposed easy double in sight, rounded first a mile a minute and narrowly missed passing the retreating Lombardi on the base lines. No one in the Cardinal infield could get his hands on the ball before Lombardi anchored on second and Comorosky got back to first.

The mistake was wiped out of the tragedy class for the Reds when Freitas walked, filling the bases. The runners were in motion on Kompouris' drive to center, but all were able to scamper back when Orsatti made a shoestring catch. Slade walked, however, so Lombardi was able to walk home without a convoy. Koenig fanned, retiring the side.

Vance Replaces Walker.

Bottomley launched the sixth with a double to the right field wall and that was all for Walker. Old Dazzy Vance came on the scene. Pool fouled to Delancey, but Lombardi came through with a single, his third successive hit, scoring Bottomley. Schulmerich walked and Comorosky singled to left, scoring Lombardi. McCormick batted for Freitas and fanned on three pitches. Kampouris flied to Medwick.

Si Johnson went in to pitch the home sixth and lost little time in getting himself into a peck of trouble. He started off by walking Collins. Delancey fanned and Orsatti forced Collins, but Durocher singled to right, putting Orsatti on third. Crawford batted for Vance and walked, filling the bases. Then Martin slammed a double against the right field screen, scoring Orsatti and Durocher.

Medwick's homer gave the Cards their eighth run in the seventh.

Koenig doubled with one out in the ninth and later scored on Pool's single for the Reds' final run.

HAWKS REFUSE TERMS OF DEAL FOR MORENZ

The Chicago Blackhawks, National Hocky league champions, refused to meet the terms of the Montreal Canadiens yesterday and the deal for Howie Morenz, speedy center, was reported off. Leo Dandurand, owner of the Canadiens, demanded three Chicago players for Morenz, according to reports.

Dandurand, who conferred with Bill Tobin, business manager of the Hawks, asked for Lionel Conacher and Roger Jenkins, defense men, and a forward, for Morenz and Marty Burke, Montreal defense man.

BROWNS OFFER TO PLAY TIGERS PRACTICE GAMES

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The St. Louis Browns have been offered as a warm-up team for the Tigers in the event the world series is delayed by the playoff of a tie in the National league race. Rogers Hornsby, the Browns' manager, who was here today with his men, made the offer to Mickey Cochrane, the Tigers' pilot, who welcomed the idea.

A series of daily games between the Tigers and Browns would be played here while the two National league teams were struggling to settle the prospective deadlock. Should the warm-up series be necessary the Browns might add a couple of southpaws from other teams, possibly Bob Welland and Thornton Lee of the Cleveland Indians.

The Tigers want practice against southpaws to strengthen up their eyes for Carl Hubbell. However, the Tigers admit they would prefer Hubbell to either of the Dean boys.

Griffith's Niece and Joe Cronin Marry in East

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Joe Cronin, manager of the Washington Senators, and Miss Mildred June Robertson, niece and adopted daughter of Clark Griffith, president of the club, were married this morning. The couple left Washington for New York immediately after the ceremony at St. Mathew's Catholic church.

BRAVES SCORE 4 IN 8TH; BEAT PHILLIES, 7 TO 2

Winners Pound Collins for Thirteen Hits.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 27.—(AP)—The Braves hit Phil Collins freely today to defeat the Phillies, 7 to 2, in the first game of the season's final series.

A four run rally during an eighth inning shower clinched the contest. Hits by Hogan, Thompson, Berger, and Randy Moore and a walk to Jordan accounted for the runs.

THE BEER THAT MADE MILWAUKEE FAMOUS

A friendly game is good fun. But don't gamble about the quality of your beer. Be sure—get Schlitz. It is mellow, thirst-quenching, delicious. It has the right kick but no kick back. That's because Schlitz is brewed under its own secret proce s of *Enzyme Control, which guarantees beer at the peak of perfection—Schlitz Beer. There is a difference in beers. Drink Schlitz and taste that pleasing difference.

DRINK Schlitz The Beer That Made Milwaukee Famous

*Enzymes are Nature's invisible transforming substances, present in most foods and all beers. If these enzymes are to work properly, every step of their activities must be controlled perfectly. That is the reason for Schlitz Enzyme Control. This expensive, secret process controls the action of the enzymes so accurately, so rigidly, that it guarantees perfect beer—Schlitz Beer—ripe, mellow, fully fermented, delicious.

AUCHTERMUCHTY GOLF TOURNEY IS WON BY BOWBEER

Radix Captures Low Net Prize with 248-34-214.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Hank Bowbeer, long one of the district's most consistent sharpshooters, and Harry E. Radix, president of the Chicago District Golf association, stole the show yesterday in the windup of the Oak Park Country club's eighteenth annual Auchtermuchty tournament.

Hank, who had given warning at the end of the first 27 holes on Wednesday that he might be the head scorer of the party, carried out that threat by finishing the 54 holes with a total of 225 for first low gross in class A, based on rounds of 81, 73 and 71. On his final nine yesterday, Hank had a 34, in spite of two three-putt greens and a missed short putt on the finishing hole.

Radix, who shot fine golf both days, took the 54 hole low net prize with a card of 248—34—214, eleven strokes ahead of the field. Then he joined up with the members of his perennial Auchtermuchty foursome, Doug Casey, Earl Jaeger and Dr. George E. Meyer, to win the low net foursome award for the two days with an aggregate of 906. Art Sweet, Frank Justin, Bob McKee, and Bowbeer took second in the quartet department.

The prize list follows:

54 HOLES.

Low gross—Class A.—Henry F. Bowbeer, Miami, Fla., 81—73—71—225. Class B.—W. H. Harrison, Oak Park, 87—92—87—266. Class C.—E. R. Kanders, 103—102—104—309.

JEWISH GROUP ASKS REVIEW OF BERLIN OLYMPICS

New York, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The American Jewish congress today addressed a request to the national board of governors of the Amateur Athletic union calling upon it to review the situation in Germany, with regard to the free participation of the Jews in the Olympic games, at its convention in December. The review is asked on the ground that the assurances given the American Olympic committee are not in accordance with the facts.

Acceptance of the German invitation to compete in the 1936 Olympic games at Berlin was announced at a special meeting of the American Olympic committee last night.

3 TIE FOR LEAD IN FLAT TRACK CYCLE EVENTS

Three west coast riders, Hills, Kelly, and Gibb, last night raced into a tie with six points each in the first half of the midwest flat track motorcycle meet at the Logan Square track, Elston and Kedzie avenues. A Chicago rider, Ed Thorsen, scored five points. The first three riders will race each other eight events of the finals tonight.

Kelly, Gibb, and Hills won two races each, while Thorsen won one event and also placed second. Johnny Spiegelhoff, Milwaukee, was the only other rider to win.

SCHWAB FACES CLEM ON MAT CARD TONIGHT

Gus Clem and George Schwab will be the principals in Johnny Coulon's wrestling show at the Midway arena, 6115 Cottage Grove avenue, tonight. John Mason and Rudy Hoffman are scheduled to meet in the 30 minute semi-windup. Lou Tucker will face George Jonasen and Pete Holtz will wrestle Howard McMillen in other 30 minute bouts.

TALKING OVER CHARITY GAME

Officials decide to give Community Fund of Chicago the proceeds of first game of Cubs-Sox pre-season series next spring in Chicago. Left to right are J. Louis Comiskey, owner of Sox; Mitchell McKeown, assistant to the campaign chairman, and William M. Walker, president of Cubs, at conference in Mr. Comiskey's office yesterday.

Cy Anderberg Wins District Golf Tourney

Cy Anderberg of Medinah journeyed over to the Brookwood Country club yesterday to take first low gross in class A in the thirteenth one day handicap tournament of the Chicago District Golf association. Cy had 41—38—79 for his round. Low net in class A went to E. B. Llewellyn of Acacia, who finished with 84—7—77.

Henry Eichelberg of the home club, took class B, gross honors with 42—42—84, low net going to an 87—11—76 submitted by W. F. Pilgrim, also of Brookwood. A field of 50 players competed in the event. The fourteenth and final handicap event of the C. D. G. A. season will be played next Wednesday at Park Ridge.

Among the other leading gross scores were: Earl Drechsler of Glen Oak, 42—42—84; M. M. Lord of Flossmoor, 44—40—84, and H. G. Scheel of Elmhurst, 43—44—87.

MRS. STOWELL WINS TITLE IN CUE TOURNEY

A new champion was crowned in the women's pocket billiard field last night at A Century of Progress when Mrs. Hilda Stowell, northern division winner and representing the Pioneer Arcade, Chicago, defeated Miss Georgia Veatch, defending champion, 35 to 23, in 25 innings.

Capturing her third victory in as many games, the new champion also set a high run record of 10, made in the fourth frame.

Last night's victory qualified Mrs. Stowell to compete for the national title against Mrs. Gertrude Baker McEvoy, New York, present national amateur champion, in Washington, D. C., next December.

MARTIE FLYNN RUNS UNPLACED IN FINAL RACE

Veteran Will Be Retired; Slim Rosie Triumphs.

BY FRENCH LANE.

A couple of farewells were said by popular Chicago race horses at Lincoln Fields yesterday afternoon.

Old Martie Flynn, from the stable of Stuyvesant Peabody, appeared under silks for the last time in the third race. It was rather a sad good-by for the veteran campaigner, now 9 years old. He was outrun all the way and finished fourth back of Chips, Claflag, and Cloido.

His backers, even though their money had been lost, gave the old boy a noisy reception when he returned to nod to the judges and was unsaddled for the last time on any race course. Martie will be on his way to a California ranch within a few days.

Martie Flynn has campaigned steadily for seven seasons and has won more than his share of races. He traveled up and down the ladder from a handicap performer of note to the bottom of the selling plater division.

She'll Be Back Next May.

The other farewell was said by Slim Rosie, the 2 year old bay daughter of Tryster-Rockland, which has raced so successfully in the silks of Ike Weil this season. Slim Rosie, however, did not make a permanent farewell as did Martie Flynn.

She has done a good year's work, in the opinion of her owner, and is entitled to rest until next spring. So Slim Rosie's next appearance will be some time in May, when she blossoms out to compete in some of the rich Oaks events.

Her triumph yesterday came after she gave one of the gamest performances of her brief career. Showing her usual dash of early speed, she was in front throughout the early part of the 5½ furlong trip. In midstretch, Spicate, from L. M. Severson's stable, sneaked through next to the rail. For a dozen strides he was slightly in front of Slim Rosie.

Jocky McCown then went to work and got Slim Rosie up in time to win by a head. Hastinola took down the show end of the purse.

Slim Rosie caught the fancy of the crowd, and, after running the 5½ furlongs in 1:09 1-5, paid off at $5.56. This was Jocky McCown's third victorious ride of the afternoon. He won on Full Tilt in the first race and on Shady Wood in the second.

After the price against him had been battered down from 12 to 1 to 5 to 1, Shady Wood, a 2 year old from the barn of Charles W. Bidwill, found the heavy going just to his liking. He staged a brisk rally in the stretch and galloped on to beat Smoky Mountain and the favorite, Eastern Ruler, by four lengths.

Owner Sees Triumph.

Owner Bidwill was on hand to see the son of Altawood-Nightshade turn in his winning performance. The colt, ridden by Jocky McCown, made his first trip past the winning post. Altawood, the daddy of the winner and a great cup horse in his day, is the sultan in the thoroughbred nursery Bidwill is building near Chicago.

Soon after the successful betting cleanup on Shady Wood had been engineered there came another plunge on Chips, a recent arrival here from Detroit, which races for Burley Parke. The plunge was of such volume that the odds against him dropped from 10 to 1 to less than 3 to 1 at post time.

Chips Breaks Fast.

The son of Chatterton-Woodpile, with Jocky Hank Albrecht in the saddle, did not leave the result in doubt. He broke on the rail and galloped out into a lead of four lengths, which he maintained until the field headed into the stretch. Chips weakened badly in the late stages, but had enough left to beat Claflag and Cloido by more than a length. The winner returned $7.74 for $2.00.

SHADY WOOD, under strong urging from the start, raced to the front with a rush after reaching stretch and was taken under restraint in last sixteenth. SMOKY MOUNTAIN had speed from the start, raced wide and weakened, but outstayed EASTERN RULER. Latter lost much ground and bore over while holding on fairly well in the drive.

Went to post at 3:16¼. At post ½ minute. Start good from Bahr gate. Won driving; second and third same. Daily double, 2d and 3d races, paid $87.22.

CHIPS took command quickly, increased his advantage gradually after reaching stretch and weakened badly after three-quarters, but held CLAFLAG safe. Latter, showing speed from the start, held on with good courage. CLOIDO lost ground entering stretch, swerved to inside in final eighth and outgamed MARTIE FLYNN.

CREOLE BIRD moved into command with a rush, displayed good speed for the going, but weakened slightly, yet was not endangered. CRYSTAL PRINCE, forced to race wide, bore over while standing pressure gamely the last three-sixteenths. PEGGY'S PEGGY, a strong factor from the start, held on well and was in close quarters near end.

SLIM ROSIE, showing the most speed and aided by good rating, came out entering stretch and, holding on stubbornly, outstayed SPICATE in a long drive. Latter, slow to get going, moved up with a rush on inside after reaching stretch and, though in the worst going, fought it out stubbornly. HASTINOLA, raced wide, went evenly and just lasted to be third.

Time, :25, :50, 1:16 1-5, 1:44 3-5, 1:51 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Old Bill, $9.76 straight, $6.22 place, $4.66 show; Irish Image, $4.60 place, $3.50 show; Printemps, $4.32 show. Winner trained by L. M. Holmes. Went to post at 4:39.

OLD BILL, beginning fast and under vigorous riding after half a mile, drew away fast on stretch turn and, though not menaced thereafter, had little left. IRISH IMAGE, on inside much of the distance, weakened after making a bid in stretch, but outstayed PRINTEMPS. The latter made up ground in stretch.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse $700. Net value to winner, $525; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

WILD WEST, rated along under steady restraint for five-eighths, slightly increased his advantage on stretch turn and, continuing well, held sway easily thereafter. SHERRON, on inside much of the trip and under pressure after reaching final three-eighths, held on well. SUBTLETY, raced wide, weakened in stretch, but held PROBATIONER safe.

DUCK HUNTERS! DON'T FORGET TO BUY U. S. STAMP

Remember, All Postoffices Haven't Them.

BY BOB BECKER.

Mr. Duck Hunter, here is the latest ruling on the duck stamp, that special $1 U. S. stamp which every hunter of ducks, geese, and brant must have on his state hunting license this fall.

If you are obliged to buy a duck stamp because you expect to hunt ducks or geese this fall, you may first buy your state hunting license and then go to the postoffice and purchase the special duck stamp. The Illinois state license has a special blank space on the back of the license where the federal stamp is to be pasted. According to instructions issued by the postoffice department, postmasters are permitted to affix to the state game license of the applicant as many stamps as are desired, although you actually need only one.

Collectors Buying Stamps.

In case you do not hunt, but would like one of these handsome duck stamps just to help the waterfowl cause or to add to your stamp collection, go to the postoffice, fill out a federal certificate, which takes just a minute, and the postmaster will affix the stamp to your certificate. Many stamp collectors are buying these new duck stamps, although we understand that the sale might have been much larger to date if collectors had been able to buy the duck stamps earlier in the season.

We want to remind all waterfowl hunters that it is against the law to shoot one bird this fall without first putting one of these duck stamps on the state hunting license. Another thing to keep in mind is this: You can't buy these duck stamps at every postoffice. Small town postoffices do not carry them. Therefore the wise hunter will not leave the purchase of this stamp until the last minute, thinking he can buy one anywhere in the hunting country. Along the Illinois river there are many villages and towns which have postoffices, yet do not sell these duck stamps.

Must Have Stamp for Ducks.

Another point regarding this stamp and related waterfowl regulations is, this stamp is not required by a hunter if he is going to shoot nothing but jacksnipe or mudhens. The stamp is for the duck, goose, and brant shooters. However, if a mudhen shooter goes out without this duck stamp on his license and runs into a flock of ducks, he will be violating the federal law if he shoots just one duck. And the federal law is nothing to tamper with this fall.

HOMELESS CHILD TO BENEFIT FROM COMMUNITY FUND

Welfare Leaders Stress Work Among Waifs.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Children from broken homes will share with orphans a part of the $3,000,000 community fund to be sought in the drive opening Monday, welfare leaders pointed out yesterday as final preparations were made for the campaign.

Orphanages, boarding homes, and child placing agencies for all races and creeds will be given assistance from the fund in which 130 private charity agencies will share.

911 Orphans Given Homes.

Among the child caring groups is the Catholic home placing bureau, one of 35 children's and young people's institutions under the guidance of the Catholic Charities which will share in the Community fund. As a result of the efforts of this bureau, 911 orphans have been placed in family circles.

Hundreds of waifs, most of them found on doorsteps, are taken by policemen to St. Vincent's orphanage and Misericordia hospital, where they are given nursing and medical care. For these children the home placing bureau finds adopted parents, many of whom return a second and third time for a younger "brother" or "sister."

Not all the children are placed in homes, however, Msgr. W. A. Cummings, archdiocesan supervisor of the Catholic Charities, explained. Few people want to adopt a child more than 8 or 10 months old, he said, and consequently these children must be placed in orphanages or training schools. In these institutions, too, are placed the dependent children from broken homes under jurisdiction of the Juvenile court.

Rehabilitation First Object.

"St. Joseph's home, another of our institutions, is really a clearing house for children," Father Cummings said. "We keep many children from broken homes there. Sometimes we are able to return them when the home is rehabilitated. In fact we make every effort to keep the child in its natural home if it is at all possible, for a child's place after all is with its own mother.

"An institution is only a substitute and cannot supplement a home, but where a child is the victim of circumstances, where home conditions cannot be remedied, then a proper home must be found for him."

Boys Given Training.

Older children are placed in such institutions as the St. Mary's Training School for Boys at Des Plaines and the Chicago Industrial School for Girls. Even after they have reached their majority many of these orphaned young people are given homes in residences until they can find work. This is particularly necessary in these depression times, with few jobs open to the youth just out of school.

These Catholic institutions are among many child caring agencies joining in the fund drive. Contributors to the Community fund, however, will aid in other services to the needy and unfortunate such as family welfare, care of the sick, care of the aged, and character building activities in settlement houses. The fund headquarters is at 111 West Washington street.

TOULON, France, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Paul Albert Laurens, 64, painter and professor of the Beaux Arts school, died today.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

When Bruno Hauptmann is placed on trial in the Lindbergh case both national radio networks hope to broadcast the proceedings. As soon as jurisdiction is determined, CBS will ask permission of the court to broadcast the trial in its entirety. NBC will ask to be allowed to carry "important portions." If the plea is granted CBS apparently would have to ask many of its daytime advertisers to take a few days' vacation from the airways.

There is not much in the way of precedent to indicate that either a New York or New Jersey court will grant permission for the broadcast. Inquiry at network headquarters develops the information that no real criminal trial has ever been broadcast by the chains.

W-G-N was the first station to broadcast a trial. In 1925 the Tribune station put the famous Scopes evolution [monkey] trial on the air from Dayton, Tenn. Three microphones were used in the courtroom, one serving the prosecution, one the defense, and one the judge's bench and the witness chair. A fourth microphone was placed in the chambers, with Quin Ryan describing the spectacle.

A poll of public sentiment by THE TRIBUNE in 1924 indicated that a broadcast of the Loeb-Leopold trial was regarded as altogether too gruesome to be carried into homes by loud speakers. A similar poll on the attitude toward the contemplated Hauptmann broadcast might prove interesting. Just to keep the records straight, the court's permission had not been sought at the time the poll was made in the Loeb-Leopold case.

In Russia, criminal trials are broadcast regularly. The trial of the five English engineers of the Metropolitan Vickers company who were charged by Russia with espionage, was put on the air. The dramatic final pleas of the accused men were broadcast in this case.

In Milwaukee Speeders court proceedings are put on the air one or two days each week. These broadcasts are presented as educational propaganda to promote public safety. In Denver a similar broadcast is made under commercial sponsorship.

PHILO D. BENHAM, KIN, PARTNER OF OPIE READ, DIES

Chattanooga, Tenn., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Philo Dayton Benham, 77, who with his brother-in-law, Opie Read, founded the Arkansas Traveler, died at a hospital here today. He had been ill several weeks after an operation.

For the last thirty years Benham has owned a plantation near Dayton. Under his and Read's management, the Arkansas Traveler gained nationwide fame. When it was sold, Benham served as manager of the American Illustrated magazine in St. Louis several years.

Surviving him are his widow, a daughter, Mrs. Fred B. Frazier; a son, Philo D. Benham of Scottsboro, Ala.; and a sister, Mrs. Lucy Vance of Mercede, Cal.

Funeral services will be conducted here Friday morning.

Mrs. C. W. Birkin, Decorated by 3 Nations, Dies at 59

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 27.—Mrs. Charles W. Birkin, mother of Mrs. Dudley Ward, who is a close friend of the prince of Wales, died at her home in Ruddington, Nottingham, today. She was 59 years old. Mrs. Birkin was a daughter of the late Alexander Cumming Howe of New York and married Lieut. Col. Charles Wilfrid Birkin in 1892. During the war she was commandant of a hospital for officers and was decorated by the United States, England, France, and Belgium.

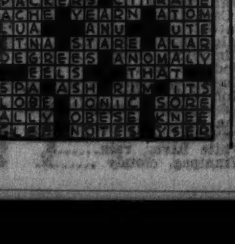
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



NRA SUIT HALTS SALE OF SERUM TO NEBRASKA U.

Injunction May Result in Legality Test.

A temporary injunction restraining the Aurora Serum company, manufacturer of hog cholera serum, from fulfilling a contract with the University of Nebraska because of an alleged code price violation was granted the government by Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan yesterday. The government's action, according to attorneys for the Aurora concern, may bring an attack on the constitutionality of the NRA before it is settled.

Assistant United States Attorney Austin Hall charged the company with selling serum to the university at a producer's rate of 27 cents for 100 cubic centimeters, whereas the code authority has set a price of 34 cents to wholesalers, under which classification the university has been placed. The contract is for 6,000,000 cubic centimeters. The price difference in the aggregate amounts to $4,200.

Competitors Instigate Suit.

The contention of the company is that the university makes serum in its laboratories and is therefore a producer and not subject to wholesalers' prices. The suit was instituted by the government at the suggestion of competitors of the serum company, according to Attorneys Glenn T. Johnson and William O'Brien of Aurora, counsel for the company.

"When the protest of the contract was made by competitors," Attorney O'Brien said, "it was answered in good faith by Dr. Logan B. Huff, president and general manager of the company. He pointed out that there is no schedule of prices with the code authority for the sale of products between producers in the serum industry.

School a Producer.

"There are schedules for retailers, wholesalers, and consumers. But the University of Nebraska, under its charter, is empowered to manufacture both virus, bacilli, and serum of hog cholera. Not only is the school equipped to do these things but it has always been rated as a producer in the industry.

"The protesting competitor has sold virus at prices below those listed with the code authority. Therefore we consider the government does not come into court with clean hands. This case may have far reaching consequences, and we are already considering an attack on the constitutionality of the NRA itself."

No date was set for further action on the temporary injunction.

E. DINKELMAN'S FUNERAL SERVICE AT 10 A. M. TODAY

Funeral services for Emanuel Dinkelman, 80 years old, 2345 East 73d street, who died on Wednesday, will be held at 10 a. m. today in the chapel at 3658 Roosevelt road. Burial will be in Mount Isaiah cemetery.

Born in Worms, Germany, Mr. Dinkelman came to Chicago when he was 15 years old and had lived here ever since. As a liquor rectifier he became identified with the former liquor concern of Goodhart, Hartman company. Early in this century he formed his own wholesale liquor concern, from which he retired at the advent of prohibition.

His wife, the former Ricka Hartman, died 22 years ago. He is survived by six daughters, a son, nine grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

DR. COFFMAN, 67, PROMINENT IOWA PASTOR, IS DEAD

Davenport, Ia., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Stricken with an attack of acute indigestion, Dr. Leroy M. Coffman, 67, prominent Davenport churchman and pastor of the First Presbyterian church here for twenty-six years, died suddenly this morning at his home. The funeral will probably be held Saturday.

Dr. Coffman was dean of Davenport pastors in the point of service. He came here in 1908 after having held pastorates in La Grange and Warsaw, Ind., and in Sidney, O.

Following his ordination to the ministry he served as managing editor of the Chicago Interior, Presbyterian paper, which has since been absorbed by the Presbyterian Advance. His widow and three children survive.

BOY, 9, STRICKEN FATALLY; BLAME FOOD POISONING

While the coroner's office and the relief commission were opening investigations yesterday into the deaths of two small girls, supposedly victims of food poisoning, the report came of the death of a . year old boy, apparently from the same cause.

He was Rudolph Brendel Jr. of 2139 Churchill street. His family, as well as the family of the girls, is on the relief rolls.

The boy became ill Wednesday morning, and was forced to go home from his classes at the Pulaski school. He became so ill during the day that his father made arrangements, through the relief commission, to take him to the Lutheran Deaconess hospital, where he died.

His sister, Irene, 5 years old, and a brother, Alvin, 3, are also ill. First investigations failed to determine just what food had caused the illness of the children.

The girls who died were Grace and Agnes King, 6 and 3 years old respectively, of 10859 Edbrooke avenue. Grace died Monday and her sister died Wednesday night. Physicians stated they had died of enteritis, an intestinal inflammation often resulting from unwholesome living conditions. Three other children of the family are in the county hospital suffering from the same trouble.

RITES TOMORROW IN CALIFORNIA FOR J. A. JAMESON JR.

Funeral services for John Alexander Jameson Jr., 28 years old, member of a well known Chicago family, will be held tomorrow in the home in Montecito, Cal. Mr. Jameson died Wednesday in his home after a week's illness.

He was the son of Attorney John A. Jameson Sr. and the former Janet Strong, who lived in Hubbard Woods until they moved to California 15 years ago. He was a grandson of the late Judge John Jameson and of the late Gen. Henry Strong, former president of the Santa Fe railroad.

Besides his parents he is survived by his widow, Helen, and a daughter, Janet. Two brothers, Colin Gillespie of Cambridge, Mass., and Owen of Santa Barbara, Cal., also survive.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 27.—Weakness of government guaranteed bonds unsettled the treasury market generally today. Irregularity in small dealings characterized other sections of the listed bond market, including the recently strong speculative types. Sales totaled slightly more than on the preceding session.

Behavior of the guaranteed issues bore out the opinion of investment experts, expressed before trading started in these issues, that they probably would present a market problem.

Most Treasury Loans Ease.

Most of the treasury obligations eased in sympathy, including called Fourth Liberty 4¼s and the 3¼ per cent bonds into which they are convertible. By mid-session the 3¼s were dangerously close to par, but a spread in favor of Fourth 4¼s was maintained, owing to the bonus of interest that is still being held out to bondholders who convert. The treasury let it be known today that conversions are proceeding at a satisfactory rate.

High grade railroad, utility and industrial bonds were unusually quiet, and their variations from yesterday's closing prices were insignificant, because in most cases they resulted from the execution of small selling or buying orders. Thus, on single small transactions New York Gas 4s showed a decline, while the 5s advanced. The same irregularity was seen in the obligations of other prominent companies

Much Irregularity Noted.

The upturn in second grade and speculative bonds was not as vigorous as it has been recently, nor was the movement as uniform. Paramount issues advanced sharply to new highs for the year and are now selling for twice their 1934 lows. Kelly-Springfield 6s, on the other hand, sold at a new low, or at about one-half of their high of the year. These were the extremes and neither of them was by any means typical of the market as a whole.

This lack of uniformity in the trend was characteristic also of foreign bonds. Higher prices were paid for German General Electric 7s and 6s, Copenhagen Telephone 5s, Bergen 5s, Berlin Railways 6½s, and Taiwan Electric 5½s, but just as many others of the same general class sold off slightly.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Cotton goods were quiet and barely steady today. Dress goods cutters continued to take in goods freely while men's clothing lines were slow. Burlaps were slightly firmer abroad but unchanged here. Rayon yarn shipments were resumed, with demand improving. Silk goods, unfinished, were weak. Finished lines moved better.

Wanted—Several Million Dollars.

Investors' Guide: Now I am asking a favor of you. Do you know of any financial institutions that would be willing to lend me several million dollars for 3 or 3½ per cent? If I could get in touch with the sum of money at not over 3½ per cent I could command a block of state bonds that bear a higher rate of interest. I notice when congress offers a block of bonds for sale that they are sold at from 2 to 3 per cent.—M. R. W.

Answer: It is highly improbable that you could carry out the plan you have in mind. Any organization of sufficient size to make a million dollar loan would doubtless have the knowledge that you possess as to where the state bonds you mention could be procured. It could hardly be expected that it would loan you the sum at 3 or 3½ per cent when it could loan the sum directly to the state at a higher rate of interest.

Obligations of the United States government sell at their present low yield not only because of the quality of the bonds but also because of special tax exempt features, wide marketability and market support by the federal government.

Houston Gulf Gas.

Investors' Guide: What is your opinion of Houston Gulf Gas 6½s, due 1943?—N. R. A.

Answer: This unsecured issue is purely speculative. It is the obligation of a United Gas corporation subsidiary which furnishes gas to Houston, San Antonio, Austin, and other Texas communities. Competition of Houston Natural Gas company has made its long term gas purchase contract for that city quite burdensome. The balance sheet indicates that further financing is necessary, but the income statement indicates that it is not feasible under present conditions. On Dec. 31, 1933, current assets were $1,244,000 and current liabilities were $2,330,000.

In 1933 the company earned only 84 per cent of charges, against 65 per cent in 1932 and 82 per cent in 1931. Earnings in 1930 were not reported. The $2,435,000 debenture 6½s are junior to $9,050,000 first 6s, due 1943.

A 1933 "High."

Investors' Guide: Can you supply me with the following information: What was the highest market price of Paducah Cooperage company during 1933? Thank you.—W. P.

Answer: 3¾.

PWA HEAD FINDS HOUSING PLANS LURE CHISELERS

Option Buyers Seek Profit in West Side Area.

BY AL CHASE.

F. J. C. Dresser, Chicago administrator for the Public Works administration housing division, yesterday bumped into two local "blighted area" by-products while pushing forward his plans for the proposed $12,500,000 federal apartment project for the west side. One was the result of unwanted activity and the other the lack of wanted and hoped for coöperation. Immediate action on his part in stopping one and starting the other was vigorously announced by Mr. Dresser.

Federal brakes, with legal power behind them, are to be used at once to stop option chiselers, said Mr. Dresser. It was found that several persons had secured options on parcels in the neighborhood with the hope of cleaning up by holding up the federal officials. These apparently had learned of the site selection ahead of its official announcement.

May Condemn Properties.

Mr. Dresser grimly remarked that the matter would be attended to promptly. Later it was learned that, on the day the housing project story broke, several Chicagoans hurried over and secured options from foreign home owners who hadn't yet heard of the federal plans. It is understood that these dilatory chiselers will bump into the same governmental opposition to their contemplated realty cleanup that the better informed ones face.

It was pointed out that these hurried realty deals probably will prove a bad bargain for the option takers, for if property is found to be too high it will be condemned.

The second discovery made by Mr. Dresser was at a session with a group of local housing experts and social workers. He expected to find that various social agencies had complete studies of Chicago's blighted areas, including, of course, the site for the proposed housing.

No Studies of Areas Made.

He discovered, however, that not a study of any kind had been made. He expressed his surprise after the meeting and said he would look for his information from federal relief officials.

He announced that at present the biggest problem facing him is how, when and where the 10,000 or more residents will go when wreckers force them from their homes in the 160 acre site. As a large percentage are on relief, he pointed out, they will have to be moved and cared for. How this will be done is yet to be determined.

"Housing the dehoused" has been a big problem in Atlanta and other cities where federal housing projects are under way. It was pointed out that in many ways it is one of the biggest to be met with in putting through such a gigantic housing proposition as is planned for the west side.

"Statistics show that 86 per cent of the families who are forced to leave a neighborhood to make way for a new housing project move back into the new buildings," said Mr. Dresser.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil was less active today, but showed firmness and closed around the best for the day and from 3 to 7 points above the previous close. There was some pressure early, but values rallied later on renewed covering and commission house buying promoted by the better tone to grains, stocks, lard, and hogs, as well as crude oil, and the advance in tallow and greases. There were seven October notices issued, but they were promptly taken and had no influence. Sales were 63 contracts. Bleachable spot, nominal. October closed at 7.98c; December, 8.00c; January, 8.05c; March, 8.18c; May, 8.30c.

MUNICIPAL BOND NOTES

The city of Chicago board of education has called an additional block of $385,000 of its warrants for redemption on Oct. 2. The called warrants consist of $40,300 of 1932 educational fund, $267,000 of 1932 educational fund, $55,000 of 1932 bond redemption and interest fund, $15,850 of 1931 building fund, $6,650 of 1932 building fund, and $800 of 1931 playground fund warrants.

Award of a new issue of $350,000 Fitchburg, Mass., temporary loan notes, dated Sept. 27, 1934, and due $100,000 each on April 15, May 15, and June 15, 1935, and $50,000 on July 15, 1935, was made yesterday to the Second National Bank of Boston. The price paid was a 0.81 per cent basis. Tyler, Butterick & Co., Inc., bid a 0.83 per cent basis.

The city of Jacksonville, Fla., plans to offer a new issue of $450,000 of refunding bonds on Dec. 1, according to private advices. The bonds will be dated Dec. 15, 1934, and will mature in 1947, with the rate of interest to be named by the bidders.

Sioux City, Ia., has awarded a total of $100,000 of new bonds. One block of $70,000 bridge bonds, due July 1, 1936 to 1950, has been awarded to Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., which named a price of 101.08 for the bonds as 3⅛s. The bankers will re-offer this block at prices to yield 2.50 to 3.30 per cent. Award of a block of $30,000 improvement and grading bonds, due from 1936 to 1939, was made to the Security National bank, Sioux City. The price paid was 100.08 for the bonds as 3s.

A new issue of $70,000 North Caldwell, N. J., bonds, due variously from Sept. 1, 1935 to 1945, has been awarded to the Caldwell National bank. The $34,000 assessment bonds were awarded as 5¾s, the $27,000 public improvement bonds as 5¾s and the $9,000 water bonds as 5½s.

The city of St. Charles, Mo., will be in the market in October with a new issue of $65,000 of waterworks bonds, dated Oct. 1, 1934, and due April 1, 1939 to 1954. Bidders are asked to name the rate of interest in multiples of ¼ of 1 per cent.

Lincoln R. Young & Co. of Hartford, Conn., have been awarded a new issue of $40,000 town of Essex, Conn., 3¼ per cent highway bonds, due from 1935 to 1942. The price paid was 102.7299. There were seven other bidders.

COTTON FUTURES HIT LOW LEVEL OF CURRENT DECLINE

New low levels on the current downturn were established in the cotton market yesterday, persistent scattered liquidation and southern hedging pressure carrying prices steadily downward. The movement was accelerated later by a private crop estimate which placed the prospective yield at 9,667,000 bales against 9,252,000 bales as indicated by the government on Sept. 1.

Trade sentiment was generally bearish and the finish was about the bottom with net losses here of 4 to 11 points while other markets were off 6 to 10 points. Spot cotton declined 5 points with New Orleans, 12.80 cents and Galveston, Houston, and New York, 12.65 cents per pound. Prices follow:

MACHINE AGE TURNS TO ART, SAYS CALKINS

Forms of Past Declared Unfit for Present.

Art forms of the past are unfit to serve modern conditions, Ernest Elmo Calkins, writer and president of the Calkins and Holden Advertising agency, told the Chicago Federated Advertising club yesterday during a luncheon at the La Salle hotel.

The present machine age, he said, is turning its attention now to meeting artistic needs of today. "An era of speed, noise and evil smells in a period of crass material prosperity is just passing into a new era in which beauty and fitness has again become a factor in the products of industry," Calkins declared. "Modern industrial art is attempting to transform utilitarian products of mass production into things of beauty.

View on Exotic Art.

"An exotic art cloistered in museums can never be a vital factor in modern life compared with that which springs from the daily interests of the people. The important thing is whether there is enough beauty in these modern commercial designs to awaken some sense of taste in millions of minds with which they are bound to come in contact, and offset in some measure the ugliness and spiritual poverty of much of this machine age environment."

Calkins assailed the popularity of antiques and the practice of borrowing art forms from the past. He said that housing is "leagues behind our present knowledge" and predicted the necessity of rebuilding 75 per cent of all domestic buildings within the next generation. He predicted that the factory made house will figure largely in the changes.

"We cannot have vital, living beauty by borrowing fragments from the past and tacking them on to our buildings and furniture, grafting the taste of a handmade era on the products of a machine age," he asserted, "but that is exactly what we have been doing, particularly in architecture and interior decoration."

English Comfortable Long Ago.

Reference was made to the high level of comfort and sightliness reached in the English home 150 years ago, and to the development of early American architecture from Georgian England.

"We modernize these homes with central heating, electric lighting, and sanitary plumbing, and try to simulate the atmosphere of the past by furnishing them with antiques," he said. "And what have we? Hybrids! The works of an electric clock in a banjo case, a superheterodyne radio in a Jacobean cabinet."

The interest in antiques, born of love for beauty, Calkins said, has been carried to absurdity. People pay dearly for things that are and always were "hideously ugly, such as Rogers groups and Currier and Ives prints. Such things belong in museums. We cannot go on living with them." Good design, especially in an article of use, must be original and found in the thing itself rather than borrowed.

STOCKS FORGE AHEAD DESPITE DROP IN METALS

Hear Roosevelt Will Consult Business.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 27.—With the exception of gold and silver issues, which sold off on a further dampening of inflation talk, the stock market moved on to new highs for the rallying movement in today's trading. Volume continued to hold above the three-quarter million share mark, reflecting increased public interest in the market.

The advance is now well along in its second week without a serious setback and brokers agree that the showing is the most impressive in months, considering the extremely pessimistic state of opinion current in the financial district up to a few days ago. Market letter writers are stressing the favorable outlook for business with more confidence.

Rumor Wane of "Brain Trust."

A widely circulated rumor, emanating from no one knew where, to the effect that the Roosevelt administration is preparing to signal a decided shift to the right by a shakeup in the "brain trust" involving the substitution of well known business men for some of the present crop of college professors was supposed to have stimulated some measure of today's forward move. Brokers thought the report was largely responsible for the steady liquidation of mining shares, particularly in the late trading.

No great change was noted in the general run of news of market bearing. Suspension of a stock exchange firm was ignored.

Selling of the so-called currency metals went on throughout the session, but the movement gradually gained momentum in the afternoon. The close found U. S. Smelting showing a loss of more than 4 points and McIntyre down 3 from its previous final. Dome, Howe Sound, and Cerro de Pasco finished a point or so lower.

Stocks in the $25 to $100 price range gave the best performance on the whole, among them American Can, U. S. Steel, Westinghouse, Auburn, Corn Products, International Business Machines, International Harvester, Montgomery Ward, Case Threshing Machine, Johns Manville, Western Union, Owens Glass, and International Shoe. Allied Chemical rose more than 3 points on a few sales.

Other Sharp Advances.

Other sharp moves included Brown Shoe, with a jump of nearly 5 points on a single transaction, and U. S. Tobacco with a gain of 10⅞, also on one sale, North German Lloyd common dropped 8¾. One or two preferreds tumbled sadly, New York and Harlem railroad showing the way down with a drop of 8 points.

Activity continued unabated in the retail store group. Spiegel-May-Stern rose 2 points, but later surrendered about half its newly won ground. Macy and Montgomery Ward improved their standings in substantial fashion.

A group of low priced shares which featured yesterday's trading was again turned over in fairly large volume, but price changes for the most part were narrow.

Rails kept step in the procession in spite of mixed returns on the August trafic showings. Atchison, Union Pacific, and New Haven were in the van of the group movement.

Tobacco stocks met with good demand and the utilities showed some improvement.

SUSPEND STOCK EXCHANGE FIRM FOR BANKRUPTCY

New York, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The New York Stock exchange today announced the suspension of Filer & Co. from membership, on filing of a voluntary petition in bankruptcy by the firm. The New York Curb exchange later suspended the firm from an associate membership in that market.

The committee on business conduct of the stock exchange announced that it had been advised by the firm "that no losses will be sustained by the public because no customers are involved." The firm was described in stock exchange quarters as small. The partners made their offices with another firm, and had no branches out of town.

It was the first stock exchange firm to be suspended for insolvency since January, 1932. It has three general partners, Leo J. Filer, Albert Kastan, and Wilfred H. Fritts, the last named holding the stock exchange seat, and two special partners, J. Manheimer and Aletta E. Filer.

Fuel, Materials, Supplies Cost Alton More This Year

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Over a million dollars more was expended for fuel, materials, and supplies for the Alton railroad in the first six months of this year than for the same period in 1933, officials of the road announced here today. In the 1933 period the road spent $810,186 and in the first half of this year it spent $1,858,112.

Reserve Bank Loans Raised for Industry

The federal reserve banks advanced nearly a half a million dollars to industrial enterprises in direct loans last week, according to the weekly reserve reports issued last night. The loans represent one of the largest totals for a single week since the federal reserve inaugurated its present campaign several months ago.

The total of such credits, however, remains comparatively small in terms of national banking credit. All loans made to date aggregate only $1,961,000. The Chicago reserve bank accounted for only $4,000 of the loans made by the system last week and its total now stands at $104,800.

Reserve Balances Increase.

Few changes of significance were shown elsewhere in the report of the 12 reserve banks. The reserve balances of member banks on deposit increased $81,000,000, while the total of reserve system money in circulation declined $12,000,000.

The system's report gave no indication that the banks are shifting their short term government paper into long term bonds. The system's holdings of long term bonds, treasury notes and other government paper showed virtually no change. There had been some expectation that the reserve system will reduce its holdings of the short term government stuff and expand its portfolios of longer term securities.

The reports of the New York and Chicago member banks showed sharp increases in deposits in both cities. The indicated gross deposits of the New York banks rose $113,000,000, while the total of loans and investments expanded only $12,000,000.

Credit Shows Shrinkage.

All types of credit outstanding contracted with the exception of investments in securities, other than governments, which were up $30,000,000. Holdings of government obligations by the New York institutions were down $13,000,000, commercial loans fell $2,000,000 and brokers' loans declined $5,000,000.

In Chicago the reserve member banks showed an aggregate increase in indicated gross deposits of $13,000,000, while credit outstanding fell $4,000,000. A moderate reduction of $2,000,000 in holdings of government securities accounted in part for the drop in total loans and investments. Another $22,000,000 was left on deposit at the reserve bank by the members.

The monetary gold stock of the country increased $4,000,000 last week, the combined reserve statement disclosed.

TEN "OUTSIDERS" TO "SIT WITH" N. Y. EXCHANGE BOARD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 27.—Ten "outsiders" have been appointed by the governing committee of the New York Stock exchange to "sit with" the committee and on its various subcommittees until next July. The new group includes five partners in New York Stock exchange firms, one New York City official, one foreign exchange expert, the president of a railroad, the president of a communications company and the president of a leading company in the so-called heavy industries group.

Those appointed were: Gayer G. Dominick, Dominick & Dominick; Donald G. Geddes, Clark, Dodge & Co.; John M. Hancock, Lehman Brothers; Robert Abercrombie Lovett, Brown Brothers, Harriman & Co.; Joseph R. Swan, Edward B. Smith & Co.; Adolph A. Berle Jr., chamberlain of the City of New York; George H. Houston, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works and chairman of the durable goods industries committee; Fred I. Kent, former foreign exchange controler of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York; Roy D. White, president of the Western Union Telegraph company; Frederick E. Williamson, president of the New York Central railroad company.

The appointment of Berle was regarded in the financial community as significant because of his known sympathies for the Roosevelt administration. In the early days of the administration he was a member of the brain trust. For some months he served as special adviser in the railroad division of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

EXPECT REPUBLIC STEEL TO ABSORB OTIS AND GULF

New York, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Dow. Jones & Co. say that there is a confident feeling in steel circles that the Republic Steel corporation will absorb the Otis Steel company and the Gulf States Steel company, thus reducing the number of units in the industry.

The acquisitions, the agency says are not likely to be consummated at an early date, because of the undetermined status of the Republic Steel Corrigan & McKinney-Truscon Steel merger recently proposed and now pending before the stockholders of the concerns.

Active discussions looking toward absorption of Otis and Gulf States by Republic probably will be held in the preliminary stage until after the other deals are disposed of, the agency adds.

PROFITABLE INDUSTRY DECLARED ONLY WAY TO REAL RECOVERY

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 27.—(AP)—A counterattack on foes of the profit system was made today by Paul Shoup of New York, vice chairman of the Southern Pacific company, at the convention here of the western division of the American Mining congress.

Shoup asserted the nation's greatest need is reëmployment and that the only way steady employment can be made possible is from profits of industry.

"I suggest," the railroad chief stated, "that the first obligation of industry at present, toward the government as well as toward its employés and stockholders, is to impress on them that profit is essential to the creation and preservation of capital and employment."

Capital wealth represents the savings of the people, he said, and without profit on savings there will be no incentive to save, wealth will decline, and the people will be impoverished.

James A. Emery, general counsel for the National Association of Manufacturers, told the congress all industry is threatened with local interferences of the national labor relations board. Declaring interpretative acts of the board have been beyond the board's legal powers, he made a special point of the Koehler company case at Koehler, Wis.

In this case, the attorney said, the board undertook to rule that the labor organization getting the majority vote of employés was entitled to negotiate for them to the exclusion of all other units. This, he asserted, deprived the minority of representation.

PWA CONDITIONS LOANS ON CHEAP ELECTRIC RATES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—So successful has been the power policy of the Public Works administration in its purpose of making electric energy more widely available at cheaper rates that a slight revision of the policy itself was announced today by Secretary Ickes.

Hereafter municipal or local publicly owned power projects will be aided by PWA only when, in addition to meeting those qualifications necessary for public works projects, they assure electricity to communities at rates substantially lower than otherwise obtainable. Several private companies, it was announced today, recently had found it "possible" to reduce their own rates below those fixed for the proposed municipal projects, and an increasing disposition toward lower rate schedules is becoming manifest in all parts of the country.

"PWA will coöperate with cities to prevent rates rising on an indication that municipal plants may not be built," said Mr. Ickes. "PWA will not rescind allotments or suggest the withdrawal of applications until the lowered rates are legally in effect."

Rescission of allotments on several projects, applications for which have been withdrawn in view of offers by utility companies to put in effect rates at least as low as those of the proposed municipal system, now are under consideration.

Two More Chicago Area Banks to Pay Depositors

The Morgan Park Trust and Savings bank and the State Bank of Beverly Hills will pay depositors 25 and 10 per cent respectively on Sept. 29, William L. O'Connell announced yesterday. The Morgan Park payment will amount to $140,833 and results from a Reconstruction Finance corporation loan. The Beverly Hills payment totals $59,207 and comes from funds obtained through liquidation.

Chicago Calls Corporate Tax Warants for Payment

A call for Chicago corporate tax anticipation warrants, levy of 1932, numbers 4,268 to 4,322, was made yesterday by R. B. Upham, city controler. Interest on them will stop on Oct. 4. Corporate warants numbers 1431 and 1432, levy of 1929, were also called for payment. Interest on them will, likewise, stop on Oct. 4.

Gen. Motors Stockholders O. K. Profit Sharing Plan

Wilmington, Del., Sept. 27.—(AP)—A special meeting of the stockholders of General Motors corporation today approved the revision and modification of the General Motors management plan as previously adopted by the board of directors. The vote was 28,568,440 shares in favor of the plan and 16,955 against.

Independents Seek Uniform Gasoline Price

The Chicago Individual Brands Petroleum association yesterday launched a drive to stabilize gasoline prices of independent stations at a level slightly below that enforced by the major companies. L. M. Foster, president of the association, last night asserted that the job of whipping recalcitrants into line will be finished today.

The object is to bring unbranded gasoline of third grade within half a cent of the 15.8 cent price of the major companies, and the regular grade would be within 1 cent of the prevailing 16.8 cent price of the large concerns.

Don't Want Price Cutting.

"We don't want any more of this foolish price cutting and the grief attending it," said Foster. "We just decided to put some of these people back in line where they belong. And for the benefit of the industry, we are going to keep them where they belong. Somebody had to do the job, so we decided to do it."

Following a meeting of the association Wednesday evening, at which certain cut price men were "shown the light," a committee systematically began making calls on independent stations throughout the city. Excellent progress was reported.

"A few irresponsible dealers are selling gasoline at any figure they feel like," said one oil man, "but they will learn that they had better post fair prices if they want to maintain anything like a stable market."

Problem for Many Months.

The question of authorizing a price differential to unbranded groups has been perplexing petroleum code authorities for many months, but no real agreement has been reached. Secretary of the Interior Ickes, oil administrator, some time ago asked the large companies to permit the half cent differential.

No promises were made, however. Standard Oil declared that it might not slash prices to meet competition under certain circumstances, but stated clearly that it would not adopt a policy of permitting price differentials.

KASPAR BANK'S DEPOSIT HEARING SET FOR OCT. 15

Hearing on a petition for immediate payment to depositors of the closed Kaspar-American State bank yesterday was continued to Oct. 15 by Superior Judge Harry M. Lewis. The bill was filed by Attorney Charles J. Michal, representing a group of depositors which is attempting to block a proposed reorganization.

Cash on hand amounted to approximately $400,000 at the most recent report, and the receiver is said to have securities readily marketable for $600,000. The two sums would provide enough for at least a 25 per cent distribution. Payments to date total 25 per cent.

Under the proposed reorganization, 21 per cent would be released immediately. It is contended that depositors ultimately will receive more through leisurely liquidation of frozen assets.

Anti-reorganization forces assert that a loan can be obtained from the Reconstruction Finance corporation on frozen holdings, and that these, together with collections of stock liability, will net depositors more than under reorganization—and sooner.

Future Delivery Trading in Citrus Fruits Planned

New York, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Samuel Knighton, president of the New York Produce exchange, today announced that a market for trading in citrus fruits for future delivery will shortly be inaugurated on that exchange. At present no such organized market facilities are available anywhere in the United States.

Refrigerator Car Concerns Under Railway Labor Act

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Refrigerator car companies were notified today by the national mediation board that they are subject to the provisions of the railway labor act. The companies had insisted that the act, passed at the last session of congress, did not apply to them.

William Gibson, Chicago, Heads Credit Jewelers

William Gibson of Chicago was elected president of the National Association of Credit Jewelers yesterday at the final session of its eighth annual convention in the Hotel Sherman. He succeeds Charles F. Baumrucker of Chicago, who was elected chairman of the board of directors.

AUGUST INCOME OF 58 ROADS 32.3 PER CENT BELOW 1933 TOTAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 27.—Due largely to the poor showing in August by the eastern railroads, net operating income for the first 58 railroads to report showed a decline of 32.3 per cent. Net operating income of the 58 railroads was $34,037,000, against $50,290,000 in August, 1933, and $25,589,000 in August, 1932. Gross revenues of these carriers totaled $242,970,000, against $253,296,000 a year ago, a decrease of 4.1 per cent, and $216,999,000 in August, 1932, an increase of 12 per cent.

The first 31 railroads to report showed a slight increase in gross revenues for August compared with August, 1933, but net operating income, in response to a 2.5 increase in wages on July 1 and higher costs, ran 26.9 per cent below the 1933 figure. With the adverse results of such lines as the New York Central, Pennsylvania, and Baltimore and Ohio included, a decline in gross for the group resulted which was not offset by the favorable reports of western lines like the Santa Fe, Union Pacific, and Southern Pacific.

DOLLAR HIGHER AGAINST FRANC; POUND IS STEADY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 27.—The dollar gained against foreign gold currencies in the exchange market today, while the British pound held its own at $4.96¾. The French franc closed at 6.65¼ cents, down ⅜ point. Silver currencies reached new highs along with the rising price of silver.

Dealers reported that the bulk of recent pressure on the pound had come from heavy buying of tobacco in America by British companies, more than from official British buying of dollars.

The gold value of the dollar in terms of the franc was 58.89 cents, compared with 58.82 yesterday. The Canadian dollar was ⅜ cent lower at $1.026⅞. Shanghai dollars reached a new peak for the past year at 36⅝ cents, a gain of 0.4375 cent over yesterday.

The Italian lira was quoted at 8.655 cents, down one point, while the Swiss franc dipped 4 points to 32.93 cents and the Dutch florin 6 points to 68.44 cents.

Bar gold in London advanced 1½ pence to 141 shillings 4½ pence a fine ounce, equivalent to $35.09.

The New York Federal Reserve bank again reported no gold transactions today. In its report of transactions for the week ended on Wednesday the reserve bank listed imports of $11,000 from Guatemala and a gain through net decrease in gold held under earmark for foreign account of $380,000.

HARRIMAN ASKS SPEEDY CANADIAN TRADE TREATY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—Opening of negotiations for a reciprocal trade agreement with Canada as soon as possible was urged on Secretary Hull today by Henry I. Harriman, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

"The Widespread interest in both countries in restoring Canadian-American trade to its former levels has found its origin in no small part in the facilities now afforded for reciprocal trade negotiations," said Mr. Harriman. "During a recent visit to Canada I was particularly impressed by the desire of Canadian business men to see such an official exchange of trade and tarif views take place."

RFC WILL BUY TRUST COMPANY STOCK, NOTES

Plan Designed to Aid Mortgage Field.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—With the "hearty indorsement" of President Roosevelt, the Reconstruction Finance corporation will buy preferred stock and capital notes of trust companies specializing in mortgage loans and will encourage formation of trust companies doing such business, Chairman Jones announced this afternoon.

This announcement was made following White House conferences between the President and the RFC chairman who stated that the President agreed with the corporation directors on a desire "in this further way to assist business temporarily by providing money where it can be done on a sound basis and without cost to the taxpayer."

Eligible Classifications.

The mortgage trust companies will make loans for mortgages on apartment houses of over $16,000, or office buildings, hotels, factories, warehouses and other structures on which the Federal Housing administration cannot lend money under law. Thus, Jones explained, the program is a "rounding out" of the government's mortgage loan policy which already extends to farms and homes.

Frankly admitting that the new move is stimulated by "the New York situation," Jones expressed strong hope that New York interests will soon engage in the new venture. He said he had discussed the idea with New York bankers. Earlier, he intimated that interests headed by Winthrop Aldrich of the Chase National bank were forming a mortgage trust corporation.

No indication of the amount of money the RFC will use for purchases of stock and notes was given by Jones. Interest rates on the mortgages, he said, "should not be over 6 per cent, usually 5 and sometimes 4½." He was emphatic in saying that the mortgage companies, while aided by the government, would be purely private institutions, with private management. They should, he stated, be allowed to make some money but should also be influenced by "a little patriotism."

"To Help Mortgage Situation."

"We want to help the mortgage situation," he said. "If a company can raise $5,000,000, we will put $5,000,000 alongside." Although Title II of the federal housing act, not yet put into operation, allows the FHA to make mortgage loans on dwellings, there is nothing to prevent this business from being handled by the mortgage trust companies, Jones announced. However, he stressed that the FHA cannot make such loans on the apartment houses, hotels, etc., many of which are in dire distress and need financial reorganization.

"Our nation's greatest single asset is real estate and just because a few big centers were overbuilt and many of the buildings improvidently financed, is no reason why real estate, or real estate securities should be forever condemned," he said.

Would Speed Industry Loans.

Another move was made by the treasury today to expand credit when Secretary Morgenthau urged chairmen of the industrial advisory committees of the reserve banks to speed direct loans to industry.

Actual federal loans to industry have amounted to less than $2,000,000, while commitments have been around $10,000,000.

The administration is anxious to speed the flow of federal reserve money into industrial loans, and it also has raised the question of whether an unnecessarily rigid attitude by federal bank examiners toward slow loans in bank portfolios has been responsible for restricting credit.

Treasury Asks Bids on More 182-Day Discount Bills

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—(AP)—The treasury today invited bids for approximately $75,000,000 of 182-day discount bills to be dated Oct. 3. Tenders will be received by the federal reserve banks until 2 p. m., Oct. 1.

U. S. May Try New Financing on Long Term

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—If market conditions are favorable the treasury will float a long term issue of bonds Dec. 15 when about $992,400,000 in one year 2¼ per cent certificates mature, Secretary Morgenthau said today.

The policy of the treasury in future financing so far as possible will be to spread maturities out over a considerable length of time, said Mr. Morgenthau. This was taken to mean that investors in December probably would have a choice of several types of maturities, as they were given on Sept. 15, when two year and four year notes and 10-12 year bonds were offered. These securities were available to be exchanged for $1,250,000,000 in Fourth Liberty 4¼s called for Oct. 15. About $850,000,000 of the Liberties so far have been exchanged for the new securities.

Calls Conversion Satisfactory.

Secretary Morgenthau said the Liberties were "coming in" satisfactorily, but he did not indicate how long the books would be left open for bond exchanges. Books on the note issues already have been closed. While it was not definitly stated, it was understood that the treasury anticipated that about a billion dollars of the Liberties would be turned in in exchange for the new offerings.

The remainder of the bonds will be cashed as offered for redemption on and after Oct. 15. This probably will somewhat reduce the treasury balance, which has been running around $2,100,000,000 for several months. Mr. Morgenthau felt the balance could be reduced by a considerable amount without jeopardizing the government's financial position. The treasury, however, will keep a "comfortable" balance on hand to meet any contingencies that may arise from emergency sources.

Emergency Spending Rises.

Emergency expenditures have been mounting rapidly during the current fiscal year. For the first twenty-five days of September emergency costs of the government were $251,321,300 against $66,144,000 for the corresponding period the year before. During the period from July 1 to Sept. 25 the government spent $796,783,000 for emergency purposes as compared with $280,148,000 last year.

At the head of the expenditure list was the Federal Emergency Relief administration, with $360,946,000 for virtually the whole of the first quarter of the year. The Reconstruction Finance corporation showed a credit of $141,410,000, representing a repayment of loans. Whether this repayment will continue, Mr. Morgenthau was unable to predict.

The government's deficit Sept. 25 amounted to $524,675,000, as compared with $209,125,000 a year earlier.

Spending Outruns Revenue.

Total government expenditures in the July 1-Sept. 25 period were $1,444,385,000, against $840,915,000 for the corresponding period of 1933. Receipts, however, were showing substantial gains, and for the first quarter amounted to $919,709,000, compared with $640,789,000 the year before. The gain in miscellaneous internal revenue, including the liquor taxes, was particularly impressive, having amounted to $440,361,000, an increase of nearly $100,000,000.

Due principally to the drive for back taxes, income tax receipts amounted to $212,758,000, a gain of over $52,000,000. Customs receipts of $72,054,000 were lagging $11,000,000 behind last year. Seigniorage on silver netted $49,757,000, practically a net gain.

BRITISH EXPORTS TO EMPIRE PASS OTHERS 1ST TIME

LONDON, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The Empire Industries association announced today that this year, for the first time in history, Great Britain's exports to the empire were exceeding her exports to foreign nations.

In the first eight months of the year the exports to empire countries increased by more than $60,000,000 over last year, or 14.2 per cent. Exports to foreign countries increased by $13,750,000, or 2.9 per cent. The net effect was to bring the empire exports $3,315,000 higher than exports to foreign countries.

The British chamber of commerce passed a resolution urging the government to take opportunity of the king's silver jubilee celebrations next year, when leaders from the dominions will be in London, to call another imperial economic conference, similar to that held at Ottawa in 1932.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—Regulations setting up margin requirements ranging from 25 to 45 per cent, a standard prescribed in the securities and exchange act, were issued today by the federal reserve board after an intensive study of market conditions on the various stock exchanges of the country.

On this basis it has been estimated that a large percentage of accounts now outstanding is much overmargined and the board felt that the rules would work no hardship.

As a further precaution to avert forced liquidation, the rules contain no provision compelling undermargined accounts to be sold out. Certain restrictions are prescribed for such accounts, however, among them one that the value of collateral behind them shall not be reduced.

Effective Date Postponed.

Simultaneous with publication of the regulations, which the board was called upon by the act to prescribe prior to Oct. 1, the securities and exchange commission issued a ruling postponing their application until Oct. 15, and also permitting until that date the trading in all securities, except those it has denied registration, without restriction except for such undesirable practices as have been specifically declared unlawful by the exchanxe act.

The federal reserve board withheld regulations as to bank loans made to purchase or carry securities on which it has also done much work, announcing that these would be issued later. Today's regulations, however, prescribed the manner in which banks, not members of the federal reserve system, might become eligible to make loans.

Necessary Because of Law.

This was necessary because the securities and exchange act provided that nonmember banks could not participate, unless they met requirements set down by the board under which they agreed to comply with all provisions of the act and the federal reserve act, as amended by the banking act of 1933 that were applicable to member banks and that relate to the use of credit for security transactions.

From the nature of the regulations issued today it appeared that the board's purpose was to frame them so that the requirements in the law would be met and severe restrictions avoided that would have the effect of bringing about forced liquidation.

A summary made public by the board follows in part:

"The federal reserve board, acting in accordance with the requirements of the securities exchange act of 1934, has prescribed the margins to be required by brokers and dealers from customers borrowing for the purpose of purchasing or carrying securities.

Standard Requirements.

"The margin requirements which the board has prescribed are those laid down as a standard in the act, which gives the board authority to impose lower or higher margins in accordance with prevailing conditions. Under the standard adopted, a broker or dealer may lend to a customer on many securities as much as 75 per cent of their current market value, while on other securities, in particular on those that have had a rapid rise in value since July 1, 1933, the percentage that may be lent is smaller, but in no case less than 55 per cent.

"Rules prescribed for margin requirements constitute a part of regulation T issued by the federal reserve board, which also deals with other matters relating to the extension or maintenance of credit by brokers, dealers, and members of securities exchanges for the purpose of purchasing or carrying securities. Most of the rules in this regulation are for the purpose of preventing the circumvention of the margin requirements.

"Regulation T does not prescribe a specific margin that must be maintained after a loan has been granted, but imposes restrictions on the operations which the customer may carry on in his account if his margin falls below the standard prescribed for initial extension of credit."

VISIONS FEDERAL CONTROL OF ALL TRANSPORTATION

Will Come Within 5 Years, Rail Attorney Says.

Within the next five years there will be federal regulation of all principal agencies of transportation, which probably will be centered in the interstate commerce commission, while government ownership and operation is unlikely. This prediction was made yesterday by Walter R. McFarland, attorney for the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad and president of the Association of Practitioners before the interstate commerce commission, before the convention of that association at the Palmer house.

While realizing that any predictions may turn out to be erroneous, he said a legislative program will be adopted that is designed to alleviate the present financial situation of the railroads. Pending such legislation the government will lend money to companies that need additional funds but are not clearly in need of reorganization.

Predicts More Regulation.

"Federal regulation of all principal agencies of transportation is inevitable," he said. "It is highly probable that regulation will be centered in the interstate commerce commission. Without endeavoring to eulogize the commission for performing its difficult work in administering laws it may be said that the commission has operated so long that it has carved a niche for itself in governmental activities."

He said that there will be further concentration of railroads into a smaller number of systems, which he believes will be along more natural lines than characterized consolidation plans since the passage of the transportation act of 1920. He predicted that some of the railroad companies will become "transportation companies" engaged in all forms of transportation.

Cites Education Influence.

McFarland said the constant trend toward higher education tends to increase transportation in at least three ways. It creates and increases desires and needs, increases earning capacity, and tends to destroy provincialism.

Several factors make it unlikely that there can be successful "economic planning" in the United States, said Prof. Fred E. Clark, head of the department of marketing at the Northwestern university school of commerce. He explained, however, that he was not discussing "the present emergency operations" of the government.

"Statistics enable you to forecast trends in business, but you can't use them to forecast inventions and changes in the arts and buying habits," he said.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Raw sugar was quiet today, but the undertone was firm and it was revealed that yesterday's local refiner bought 14,000 bags of Cubas from store here at 2.92c, an advance of 2 points from the last previous sale. This was the only business actually reported, but it was the impression that local refiners were still interested at this level. Warehouse supplies here continue to dwindle, with the total now down to 1,002,880 bags, or 552,120 bags below a month ago, as against 714,000 a year ago.

Futures moved irregularly, but in a narrow range, with trading again mostly in the December position, including considerable exchanging from that month to later deliveries, with the market closing 1 point net lower to 1 point net higher. The sales were 25,050 tons, of which 11,000 were in December and 8,600 in exchanges. Prices:

Refined was unchanged, with a moderate business reported both in the way of withdrawals and new buying. Prices were listed at 4.75c for fine granulated by refiners, with second hands at 4.65c.

GRAINS NARROW AS SPECULATIVE INTEREST WANES

Wheat and Corn Chalk Up Moderate Gains.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The speculative market in wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade has reached a state of nearly complete paralysis. Speculative operations are of such meager character that the day-to-day action of prices gives the appearance of a pegged market. Yesterday was another day of featureless trading which saw prices confined in a narrow price range and a set of closing quotations which represented little change from the preceding day's last figures.

Behind the market action is the confusion which exists in the minds of the traders. Whereas there is almost unanimous agreement that fundamental conditions are of an unprecedented bullish character there is a conspicuous unwillingness on the part of traders to act on their convictions. This uncertainty is traced to several factors.

Fear Federal Meddling.

Overshadowing other factors is the uneasiness of traders in the knowledge that the trend of the market is being watched closely by the national administration. The threat of further government regulation of the market is constantly in the back of traders' minds. There is a general feeling that the administration is satisfied with the present level of grain prices and would take steps to prevent any radical movement in either direction.

During the last month the price range on wheat futures has amounted to about 6 cents. At the close yesterday wheat was selling for approximately the same price as prevailed 30 days ago. The day's final prices were ¼ to 1 cent above the previous close with December wheat finishing at $1.03⅞. Corn futures were ⅛ to ½ cent higher with the December delivery quoted at 78½ cents.

These prices do not include the 30 cents processing tax on wheat and 5 cents on corn.

Oats and Rye Quiet.

Trading in oats and rye was extremely quiet and prices declined slightly with futures of the latter grain dropping ¼ to ¾ cent. Oats were unchanged to ⅜ cent lower.

While speculation in important volume is nonexistent, the underlying strength in the market is seen in its failure to give way in the face of recent unsettlement abroad. However, Liverpool wheat prices were moderately higher yesterday and Winnipeg was firm. The steadiness in the English market gave some hope that its recent extreme weakness resulting from the marketing of Argentine wheat is about over.

Meanwhile, there is a fair demand for wheat from millers reported and premiums on the cash grain are being maintained. Stocks of wheat are declining at Kansas City. Since the beginning of the week a drop of 315,000 bushels has been reported. for the Northern Insurance company.

The suit against the Bank of New York and Trust company was started on Aug. 22, the same day that Referee James F. Donnelly filed his report recommending disbursements of the remaining assets of the Moscow company. The report has not yet been confirmed by the state Supreme court. The referee approved the claims of about twenty-five claimants, mostly foreign, but not Russian, and the payment of the remaining $700,000 to 400 shareholders at the rate of $70 a share.

Set Hearing for Oct. 4.

A hearing in the federal suits is set for Oct. 4. This hearing will be on the government's application for an order restraining the banks from paying out any of the moneys until the governmen's right of ownership has been disposed of.

The suits will bring the first judicial interpretation of the agreement reached between President Roosevelt and Maxim M. Litvinoff, commissar for foreign affairs in Washington last November. At that time the soviet government assigned to this government all claims it had or might have as successor to previous Russian governments to property in this country.

Millions of dollars of Russian money belonging to nationalized Russian corporations are on deposit in New York banks and are tied up in suits brought by many American creditors.

WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 27.—The larger part of the very moderate call for spot wool in the Boston market is for type suitable for woolen manufacture. Most of the sales are of wools that have been scoured. Some greasy lines, largely of wools, have recently been moved. Buyers continue to survey the market for information on the greasy combing domestic wools offered for sale. A few bids have been made on greasy French combing 64s and finer territory wools in original bags, but most of them have been lower than acceptable prices.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Offerings at the wool auction today amounted to 9,373 bales of which 8,397 were sold. The heavy offerings of crossbreds sold well to the home trade, and the fewer greasy merinos placed on the market were all sold. Scoured types offered for sale were less heavy and met with fair demand.

FARMERS' CASH INCOME PUT AT 572 MILLIONS LAST MONTH BY U. S.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Cash income of farmers during August was reported today by the bureau of agricultural economics to have totaled $572,000,000. Of this $499,000,000 came from the sale of farm products, $47,000,000 from AAA rental and benefit payments, and $26,000,000 from emergency purchases of cattle by the government in drouth areas.

The total income was an increase of $78,000,000 over July and $159,000,000 over August, 1933. The bureau said the high point of farmers' cash income will be reached as usual in September and October this year, but the increase over preceding months may be smaller than in past years. This is expected to result from the crop reduction programs and drouth damage.

FILE SUIT TO BAR TVA PURCHASE OF PUBLIC UTILITY

Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—A bill was filed in United States District court here today asking an injunction against the Tennessee Valley authority and the Tennessee public service commission to keep the TVA from buying the holdings of the Tennessee Public Service company here.

The bill, filed by attorneys representing preferred stock holders, likewise would restrain Knoxville from using PWA funds to build a municipal TVA power distribution system.

Defendants named were the service company, the TVA and its directors, Chairman A. E. Morgan, Agricultural Director Harcourt A. Morgan, and Power Director David E. Lilienthal, and the city of Knoxville.

Calling the TVA program a violation of the constitution, the bill charged that the authority was without the right to acquire and operate a utility system or to determine rates for a local utility system and that the contract for the service company holdings was "forced by duress of the TVA."

BUTTER PRICES UNSTEADY; EGGS GAIN ¼ TO ⅝ CENT

Egg futures declined ¼ to ⅜ cent on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, influenced by bearish storage news. Butter was ⅛ cent lower to ⅛ cent higher. October potatoes dropped 7 cents, while January gained 5 cents.

Receipts of eggs were light, but the four markets again reported 10,000 cases less out of storage than last year.

Butter trade was again slow. Production reports were fair, the centralizers reporting decreases from last year and from last week. The movement of storage stocks, however, totalled 337,000 pounds less out than last year.

October potatoes declined on selling, influenced by a dull cash market.

Sales: Butter, 13 cars; eggs, 191 cars; potatoes, 8 cars. Prices follow:

NATION'S BANKER LEADERS ASSAIL MONEY TINKERING

Demand Stable Currency as Vital to Recovery.

"2. That a currency of fluctuating value will not materially affect the general price level nor will it adjust the discrepancies between the prices of different commodities; that prices fluctuate as a result of business activity alone and are not its cause; that a higher price level is beneficial only if brought about by increased business activity and accompanied by higher national income; that higher national income cannot be brought about by money manipulation but only through the increased volume of business and employment which will come in the future as always in the past when private capital is again assured that it can safely and profitably be put to work. The past five years have seen an immense liquidation of speculative excesses which have occurred in finance and industry. The business organism is again in a position to function normally if it is given assurance of stability.

Cite Need for Definite Program.

"3. That a well formulated and definitly stated program for balancing the national budget within a reasonable period is essential to the restoration of that confidence among business men and taxpayers which is a prerequisite to the resumption of private enterprise upon any considerable scale.

"4. That a serious factor of rapidly increasing importance is the tendency of business enterprises directly conducted by government agencies to reach out further and further into fields heretofore occupied by private capital, thereby destroying taxable values. The use of government money in competition with private business is not only paralyzing to private initiative, but experience has amply demonstrated that it is costly, generally inefficient, and that its disastrous effects reach far beyond the limits of the particular industry immediately affected.

"5. That steadily mounting government debt, particularly when not accompanied by increasing national income, constitutes a dangerous threat to public credit, the maintenance of which is vital to the country's welfare Further debt expansion should be confined to the relief of the unemployed and those in distress, and to a justifiable program of public works. Rigid economies should be enforced, and candid acknowledgment should be made of the fact that government spending cannot of itself bring about prosperity

Find No Need for Inflation.

"6. That the currency and credit supply now existing and available are ample for an expansion of business far exceeding any which the country has yet experienced; that demands for currency inflation and further credit inflation are without sound basis in fact or in theory and rest upon reasoning again and again proved, both by logic and by past experience, to be a tragic illusion.

"7. That the threat of inflation is a threat to every prudent man and woman who, by honest work and intelligent thrift, has accumulated a savings account as a provision against old age and want; to every husband and father who, through foresight and self-sacrifice, has paid for a life insurance policy for the protection of his family; to every widow and dependent child relying for support upon the savings accumulated through the labor of the husband and father, and to every workingman (or woman) in the land, who, if inflation comes, will see the money he receives for his toil shrink and shrivel in his hands.

"The history of every country in every age where inflation has been tried has been the same. It ends in utter disaster for every class but one—and that class the speculators. Except for disastrous war and destroying pestilence no greater calamity could come upon us than one which would sweep away, as it once did in France, as it recently did in Germany, and as in the past it has done in our own country, the accumulated savings of the people."

Canada Offers 250 Million Refunding Loan Next Week

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 27.—Canada will offer a refunding loan of $250,000,000 to $275,000,000 next week. Official information has not been given out on coupon rates of the several maturities, but it is understood that the two year bonds will pay 2 per cent, the five years bonds, 2½ per cent, the eight year bonds, 3 per cent and the fifteen year bonds 3½ per cent.

Sales of Stewart-Warner Hold Gain Over Last Year

Sales of the Stewart-Warner corporation and subsidiaries continue above those of last year, according to Joseph E. Otis Jr. After a seasonal recession in July, there was marked improvement in August, which has continued during this month. Sales of the parent company for the year to dates are running 75 per cent above a year ago, it was stated.

TIRE RETAILERS WANT MINIMUM PRICES RETAINED

Independents Say Sales War Looms.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 27.—Independent tire dealers are planning to appeal to the government, through the National Tire and Battery association, to continue the emergency order issued by the NRA under which minimum prices were established for tires on May 14. The order will expire next Monday.

George J. Erlanger, an independent tire dealer of this city and president of the association, declared today that unless the government continues the minimum price order one of the most disastrous price wars in the history of the industry will be precipitated.

Sees Price War Threat.

"While with restriction in effect there has been much undercover price cutting, with the lifting of the bar next Monday the trade will be deluged with ruinous price slashing by jobbers and special brand tire distributors," said Mr. Erlanger. "The emergency prices established in our industry may have proved a handicap to dealers, but they served as a brake on destructive price cutting.

"Originally the price level harmed the average dealer because it placed all tires in respective grades at the same price. A revision of the order, however, established differentials between the various makes. That proved a help. The government's price restriction order was the result of a truce that followed a costly price war. I cannot understand why, with a resumption of drastic price cutting activities, the NRA officials should permit the order to expire.

Favored by Independents.

"A canvass of the members of the code authority for our industry at a recent meeting in Chicago showed that the mail order house, the gas station and the tire manufacturers' retailer representatives favored elimination of the floor price levels, but that all the independent dealer members expressed a desire to continue minimum price restrictions. Our impression is that the NRA authorities have not been favorable to the interests of the small dealer, but have permitted conditions to exist in the industry which tend to the creation of a monopoly by the large manufacturers and mass distributors."

Mr. Erlanger said that a meeting of the directors of the tire association will be held in Chicago on Oct. 10 in conjunction with a gathering of some 200 of the leading tire distributors of the country, when a program will be drafted for the protection of interests of independent dealers.

Chicago Trust Company's Staf Will Hold Reunion

Former employes, officers, and directors of the Chicago Trust company will hold a reunion on Tuesday, Oct. 16, at the Medinah club, it was announced yesterday. There will be a dinner at 6:30 p. m.

To Holders of

Preferred Stock and Common Stock of

Republic Steel Corporation

All stockholders of Republic Steel Corporation have been sent a printed letter, dated August 27, 1934, outlining in detail a Plan, approved by the Directors, providing for the acquisition of the business, assets and goodwill of the Corrigan, McKinney Steel Company and an offer of exchange to stockholders of Truscon Steel Company, and also, as a necessary part of these transactions, for certain changes in the Corporation's capital structure. Correspondence received has indicated that many stockholders have not had their stock registered in their names and therefore did not receive the letter, which describes fully the advantages of the Plan to both Preferred and Common Stockholders. Additional copies will be forwarded to any stockholder upon request.

The Plan in its entirety is subject to the approval of stockholders, and can be carried out only if the necessary amendments to the Certificate of Incorporation of Republic are approved by two-thirds of each class of stock. Moreover, the Plan will not be carried out unless sufficient preferred stock is deposited for exchange to warrant carrying out the Plan.

Stockholders can best facilitate the final consummation of the Plan by registering as promptly as possible their approval of it.

Action Requested of Holders of Preferred Stock

Holders of Preferred Stock are requested to deposit their Preferred Stock, accompanied by a letter of transmittal, with any one of the Depositaries listed below, in accordance with the terms of the exchange offer described in the letter of August 27, 1934. The Depositaries will deliver to depositing stockholders transferable Preferred Stock Deposit Receipts calling for the delivery of new shares if the Plan is declared effective, or the return of the deposited stock, without charge, if the Plan is abandoned. These Deposit Receipts are listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Holders of Preferred Stock are also requested to sign the proxy form already sent them and mail it immediately to Republic Steel Corporation, Youngstown, Ohio.

Action Requested of Holders of Common Stock

Holders of Common Stock are requested to sign the proxy form already sent them, and mail it immediately to Republic Steel Corporation, Youngstown, Ohio. It is not necessary for holders of Common Stock to deposit their shares.

The Plan which all stockholders are being asked to approve is not a routine matter. It is a program of major importance to the Corporation and all its stockholders. The vote of every stockholder, no matter how small his holdings, is important to the success of the Plan.

Additional proxy forms, letters of transmittal or further information regarding the Plan may be obtained by addressing Myron A. Wick, Vice-President, Republic Steel Corporation, Union Trust Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio.

COOL WEATHER, LIGHTER SUPPLY BOLSTER HOGS

Better Grades Are Steady to 10 Cents Higher.

Cooler weather and lighter receipts bolstered the hog market yesterday and prices for better grades were steady to 10 cents higher. The top for the day at $9.25, tax included, was the same as Wednesday's peak, but this figure was paid more freely than on the preceding session, leaving $7.00 for the hog owner after the tax had been deducted.

Of the $8.45 to $9.25 that packers paid for the bulk of the supply the owners obtained $6.20 to $7.00. Packers' droves, including the tax, averaged $8.90, against an average of $9.25 early last week and $4.35 on the corresponding day in 1933 when there was no processing tax.

Receipts Are Lighter.

Receipts of hogs were lighter at all points yesterday, the eleven markets total at 57,000 showing a decrease of 8,000 compared with the previous Thursday, and it was 38,000 smaller than a year ago.

However, the week's total is running ahead of a week ago. The eleven markets in four days handled 261,000, against 245,000 a week ago. The four day total of 895,000 at the eleven markets a year ago included 572,000 pigs and sows which were killed by the AAA to reduce the hog population.

According to O. B. Beyer, director of commodity distribution for the Illinois emergency relief commission, "surplus" pigs are being picked up by the relief organization in several counties of Illinois and are being processed for the needy. These pigs, which come as donations from farmers who raised more than their quotas, are to be distributed in various ways, chiefly as fresh pork, unless the volume becomes great enough to put some of the pork in cure.

Cattle Prices Mixed.

Cattle prices were mixed again, although a better undertone existed than on any session in the last week, and the holdover that has been carried all this week was reduced. Scattered sales in some parts of the yards were declared a little higher, while other transactions showed weakness. Choice 1,264 pound steers topped the list at $10.25, and 1,181 pound long yearlings reached $10.00, but only a small share of the total receipts was good enough to bring more than $9.50.

The bulk of the beef steers sold within a range of $5.75 to $9.50. Calves were strong with top vealers up to $8.75.

Sellers obtained mostly steady prices for slaughter lambs. The run was of generally better quality than on recent sessions. Choice natives and westerns sold up to $6.50 to packers and selected natives to city butchers reached $6.75. Ewe lambs went to country buyers as high as $6.25 and old slaughter ewes sold at $2.25 and lower.

PRICES OF LARD FUTURES CLOSE STEADY TO LOWER

While trade in lard futures was not heavy yesterday there was sufficient buying by cash interests and investors to absorb the offerings from scattered longs, and final trades were unchanged to 5 cents lower. According to trade reports the demand for cash lard continues fairly good, but there is still considerable resistance from buyers of meats owing to the relatively high price, and the demand is reported as slow.

Bellies declined 20 cents on the September delivery with other futures unchanged to 2½ cents lower. Cash lard was quoted at $9.27; loose, $9.40 and leaf, $10 while bellies were held at $14.12. Prices follow:

FOR 41 YEARS
MOLER'S
have been imitated in their original method of teaching
BARBERING

by a short course rather than an apprenticeship—and Moler's again originate and step out with newer things.

THE UNIVERSAL COURSE
that qualifies for each and every State Board examination, and that is short and enables you to earn twice the cost before you could complete by any other method.
THE PRIVATE LESSON COURSE

BUT FOR THOSE WHO DESIRE
just an Illinois License, they have the old plan and at HALF RATE FOR ALL THIS MONTH! Both day and evening classes. Call, write or phone. Moler System, 59 E. Monroe. Central 6393.

BURNHAM
School of Beauty Culture
OFFERS OPPORTUNITIES FOUND ONLY AT BURNHAM'S.
FOR 63 YEARS THE WORLD'S LARGEST BEAUTY SCHOOL.

When you visit Burnham's you'll understand why more girls enroll in this school than in any other, and you'll be amazed at the unexpected and exclusive advantages which our 63 year record of turning out the best operators enables us to pass on to you—such as positions on ocean liners, positions with the best shops which DEMAND Burnham graduates, the opportunity of earning while learning, free tools, unlimited practice on living models, easy terms, and many other advantages.

Once explained you'll see how Burnham teaching methods will enable you to master Beauty Culture quicker, easier, and better—why these methods develop the type of operator shop owners want.

If you ACT now you can arrange to pay for most of your tuition after you graduate. Call, phone or write for FREE BEAUTY BOOK.

FOR 41 YEARS
MOLER'S
HAVE BEEN IMITATED IN THEIR ORIGINAL METHOD OF TEACHING BEAUTY CULTURE

by a short school course rather than an apprenticeship—and MOLER'S again step out with newer things.

THE UNIVERSAL COURSE
that qualifies for each and every State Board examination—and that is short, concise, condensed and enables you to earn twice the cost before you could complete by any other method. But for those who desire just an Illinois license Moler's still have the old plan AT HALF RATE ALL THIS MONTH! Day and evening classes.
THE PRIVATE LESSON COURSE

HERE ARE JUST A FEW OF THE DRESSES I'VE IMPORTED FROM PARIS THIS PAST MONTH !!
GOSH! SO MANY AND ALL SO LOVELY!
HERE'S A GOWN THAT JUST ARRIVED FROM PARIS YESTERDAY!
OH, ISN'T IT GORGEOUS! LET ME TRY IT ON?
NO, THIS IS OLD NOW !! I WANT YOU TO TRY ON THE NEWEST ONE IN THE PLACE!
-ER- WHERE IS IT ??
IT HASN'T ARRIVED YET! THE BOY IS BRINGING IT UP FROM THE BOAT NOW!

Why work in air that's Drier than the Sahara?

It's a fact that desert air registers an average relative humidity of about 23, while most offices record the dangerous Winter reading of about 18.

The new air conditioning system in Tribune Tower promotes better work by protecting health. That's just one of the many advantages of a Tribune Tower office. An ideal location at the right price.

LEGAL NOTICES.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES FOR THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF ILLINOIS, EASTERN DIVISION, IN THE MATTER OF BELMONT HOSPITAL, INCORPORATED, Debtor. In Proceedings for Reorganization. No. 56909. NOTICE to: All Bondholders, Creditors and Stockholders of, and Claimants against Belmont Hospital, Incorporated, Debtor.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that pursuant to an Order of Court entered herein on Sept. 26, 1934, the following, among other things, were determined, ordered and directed:

That for the purpose of the plan of reorganization of the bond issue of said debtor, the creditors and stockholders of said debtor are divided into the following classes:

Class 1—Holders of its First Mortgage Real Estate 6½% Gold bonds, dated August 1, 1927, and issued under and secured by the trust deed from Belmont Hospital, Inc., to American Safe Deposit Company, trustee, dated August 1, 1927, and filed for record in the office of the Recorder of Deeds of Cook County, Illinois, on September 6, 1927, as Document No 9768794;

Class 2—Other creditors, Claims of all other creditors of this debtor, irrespective of the type or nature of the same;

Class 3—Stockholders, interest evidenced by certificates of Founders, Common and Preferred stock; that the interests of classes 2 and 3 are not materially and adversely affected by the plan of reorganization; that this proceeding has been set down for a hearing before said Court, the Hon. Charles E. Woodward, Judge, presiding, or such other judge who may then be holding Court in his stead on October 10, 1934, at the hour of 10 o'clock in the morning, Central Standard Time, in the Federal Courts Building, Chicago, Illinois, for the purpose of considering and acting upon the confirmation of the plan of said debtor for the reorganization of its said bond issue; that the holders of all bonds of said debtor described in Class 1 of the creditors of said debtor who have not consented to the plan of reorganization shall file their claims in this proceeding on or before 10 o'clock in the morning, Central Standard Time, October 9, 1934; that interest for the six months' period ending August 1, 1934, at the rate of 4% per annum on the outstanding bonds of said debtor be paid to the bondholders who have deposited their bonds with The Northern Trust Company and have consented to said plan of reorganization and that said The Northern Trust Company pay to the owners and holders of said bonds said interest as and when said bonds shall be deposited.

BRING YOUR Money Problems to HOUSEHOLD

We have 17 branch offices in the Chicago district and do the largest business because:

1. We make loans of $30 to $300 at reasonable cost.
2. We do not question your employer, your neighbors, your relatives, or your tradespeople.
3. All of our offices are equipped to handle your business in a private room.
4. We give free, authentic information on managing family incomes.

Household reduced rates in July, 1933, and again in August, 1934. All loans above $100 at less than the lawful maximum rate.

ONLY HUSBAND AND WIFE SIGN. 1 TO 20 MONTHS TO REPAY. PROMPT PRIVATE SERVICE.

Quiz Hauptmann Girl Friend as He Pleads Not Guilty; Viewed by Lindbergh—War on Violence in Bus Strike

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

SIXTY-FIVE MEMBERS OF STRIKING BUS UNION ARE SEIZED IN WAR ON VIOLENCE; GET WARNING. Some of the men arrested yesterday by state's attorney's police as they appeared before all of them were released with warnings. The raid followed two deaths yesterday as result of violence in bus strike. The officials of the union deny responsibility for attacks on motor coaches. (Story on page 1.)

[TRIBUNE Photos.]

VIOLENCE VICTIM. Mrs. Mary Kennard, who died after being struck by bearing hurled at bus. (Story on page 1.)

[Copyright: 1932: By News Syndicate Company, Inc.]

HAUPTMANN WITH GIRL WHO WAS QUESTIONED. The Lindbergh suspect and Miss Anita Lutzenberg as they appeared on Hunter's Island, New York, in June, 1932, shortly after the kidnaping. At the time of this party Mrs. Hauptmann was in Europe visiting relatives. (Story on page 1.)
